COOLIDGE AROUSED BY LEWIS'S LETTER; PLANS FIRM REPLY

Is Said to Regard Missive From Miners' Chief as Threatening and Unfair.

SEES PUBLIC DISREGARDED

CONGRESS EXPECTED TO ACT

President's Answer, It Is Thought, Will Pave Way for Labor Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Coolidge acknowledged today receipt of John E. Lewis's letter in which a strike in the union soft coal mines was threatened and Government aid to enforce the maintenance of the Jacksonville agreement was sought.

This formal acknowledgment will be followed soon by a forceful statement of the Administration's attitude toward the Jacksonville agreement and the situation as presented by Mr. Lewis.

President Coolidge is said to be very much displeased at the tenor of the communication addressed to him by the head of the United Mine Workers. He interprets it as a threat and an unfair statement of the facts in the case—a veiled attempt to place responsibility upon the Government for labor conditions and troubles between the operators and the miners in the bituminous coal fields. The President is said to be inclined to reply in a manner which will fairly present the facts that led up to the Jacksonville agreement as he sees them and reiterate his position in regard to the relations between capital and labor.

Will Speak for People.

This reply is expected to be a document which will arouse the public to demand legislation to govern strikes in industries concerned with public necessities.

The President, it is held, now has the opportunity to present the case of the public in its strongest light. He feels that neither the leaders of organized labor nor the operators have given enough concern to the needs of the public. His reply to the miners' chief is expected to be an argument for the people as well as a refutation of Mr. Lewis's allegation that the Federal Government was a party to the Jacksonville agreement and therefore should use its power to help enforce the terms.

The threat of extending the mine workers' strike to the union bituminous coal mines which produce about 40 per cent. of the soft coal output is said to have aroused President Coolidge. "He recognizes that he can do nothing legally to end the anthracite strike or prevent a soft coal tie-up. On the other hand he is fast reaching a point where his advisers expect him to make a statement which will force both labor and capital to recognize their duty to the public and resume negotiations looking to a resumption of hard coal mining. He is also represented as ready to pave the way in the statement for action by Congress on strong labor legislation.

Congress Action Looked For.

The continuance of the hard coal strike and the latest gesture by Mr. Lewis are factors regarded as certain to influence members of Congress to attempt radical action. Already reports are heard that Congress will be asked to investigate the alleged abrogation of the Jacksonville agreement and the conditions in the anthracite industry. Furthermore, conservative members of Congress are expected seriously to consider legislation to make coal strikes less frequent.

Such legislation is difficult to frame and as difficult to pass in Congress. About the only legislation that might be somewhat effective would be the regulation of the coal industry by a commission, with powers similar to those of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the case of the railroads. This has been opposed by conservatives, who declare that mining is a private industry and should not be regulated any more than a manufacturing industry.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—John L. Lewis had no comment tonight on the receipt of the acknowledgment from President Coolidge of his request for intervention in the soft coal industry. It was the opinion of Mr. Lewis's associates that instead of seeking a bituminous strike he was looking to avoid one by an appeal to the President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—The Bureau of Coal Economics of the National Coal Association, which represents a large number of the bituminous coal operators, estimated today that soft coal production for the week ended Nov. 21 was 12,650,000 tons. This, the bureau said, was the largest output for any similar period since 1920.

White House Flock of Turkeys Grows as Thanksgiving Nears

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Three or four turkeys have already arrived at the White House for Thanksgiving, it was said today, and more are in the offing. The public offerings for the President's holiday dinners are always very generous and sometimes, when the birds become too numerous, they are sent to institutions and children's homes.

Thanksgiving dinner at the White House will be informal. There will be no special guests outside of the present visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns. In the morning the President and Mrs. Coolidge will go to church.

The President is seeing as few visitors as possible these days, devoting himself to finishing touches on his message to Congress and his speech before the American Farm Federation in Chicago on Dec. 7. He will accept few out-of-town speaking engagements during the session of Congress.

TRADER FOR 58 YEARS QUITS WALL STREET

Jacob Field, Health Failing, Sells Exchange Seat for $152,000, a Record.

ADMIRED FOR HIS DARING

Lost and Gained Millions in Brushes With Speculative Leaders.

Wall Street lost yesterday one of its most colorful and prosperous floor traders, whose gains and losses, over a period of fifty-eight years in the financial district, twenty-seven of which were on the floor of the Stock Exchange, have been registered in millions, and who has won the respect and affection of his fellow speculators for his cool daring and nerve, and his ability to think quickly and act just as quickly.

Jacob Field, known far and wide as "Jakie," has sold his seat. Even his last transaction on the Exchange was a profitable one. He got $152,000 for his seat, incidentally the highest price at which a Stock Exchange seat has ever sold. He bought it in 1886, when memberships sold at between $19,000 and $19,750 each. The purchaser was C. Eckstein.

Ill health, not any inability to think fast and turn his quick wit into dollars, has driven Jakie Field out of the speculative market in which he has been a factor for many years.

Started as Messenger.

Very early in life Mr. Field decided that trading in stocks was his forte. He did not remain a messenger boy long. Within a few months of his plunge into the Wall Street maelstrom he was trading "on his own" in the colorful curb market. Here he accumulated a stake and it was not long before the young man, who had made his abilities respected even among the financial pirates who then operated in the open air on the old Curb, was knocking at the door of the Stock Exchange and demanding admittance.

Even at that time his personal fortune was a large one. It has been greatly augmented since. From the first day on the Stock Exchange until the last Mr. Field preferred to be a free lance. He liked to trade "on his own" rather than on telephonic instructions from some one else perched high above the roaring crowd, in a Wall Street skyscraper. Although he was in many deals with others over the long period of his activity, the most spectacular—and incidentally the most profitable of his tremendous operations—were entirely on his own hook. He used his own money; made some more if he could, and took his beating if he couldn't. So shrewd and active a trader was he on the floor of the Exchange that fellow-members, operating at the same post, would be frequently in the dark about whether he was long or short of any particular stock.

The amount of stock which Mr. Field could and did swing was simply tremendous, as all of his fellow brokers are perfectly willing to testify. Many

MITCHELL DECLARES ARMY AND NAVY FAIL IN NATIONAL DEFENSE

He Says They Have Not Fulfilled the People's Trust Reposed in Them.

EXPLAINS TREASON CHARGE

Continuing His Testimony, Colonel Assails Old Planes as "Flaming Coffins."

LAGUARDIA AIDS DEFENSE

Representative Asserts That Anti-Aircraft Guns Would Be No Protection in Event of War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Not since the court-martial of Colonel William Mitchell of the army Air Service began, nearly three weeks ago, has so much ill-feeling and wrangling marked the proceedings as was the case today. Colonel Mitchell was again the target for the crossfire of the prosecutors.

Led by Major Allen W. Gullion, they sought to discredit the accused aviator, and in the course of the day they intimated that they expected to prove him a falsifier and a plagiarist. But for Colonel Winship, the court law officer, there is no telling where the cross-examination would have ended. Colonel Winship, in calling "time" on the prosecution, pointed out that if they had their way, the trial would continue indefinitely.

Yesterday Colonel Mitchell seemed nervous. Today, however, he was in trim, and his replies were prompt and to the point. His ordeal lasted through the morning and through the first hour of the afternoon session. Major Gullion sought vainly to shake him, and finally ended his cross-examination.

Representative Reid, counsel for the defense, then asked a question or two to clear up some features of the cross-examination and General Howze, President of the court, put a few questions. That over, Colonel Mitchell returned to his seat beside his wife.

Assails Use of Old Planes.

The prosecution battled for an hour to show by board reports that the deaths of army fliers, which Colonel Mitchell charged resulted from the use of "flaming coffins"—that is the name the accused gave the war-time De Havilands still in use—were not the results of faulty construction or equipment, but were due to unavoidable causes or errors in judgment on the part of the pilots. In nearly every answer Colonel Mitchell used the expression "flaming coffin" and contended that the reports, instead of contradicting, supported the charges that he uttered in his San Antonio statements.

The charge of plagiarism was made in the course of an unsuccessful effort to get some pages of Colonel Mitchell's book, "Winged Defense," into the record. Major Gullion declared that he was ready to show that the accused aviator had "cribbed page after page." The Court, however, ruled that the book was not involved in the case and that no part of it should go into the record.

All through the cross-examination the words "false and misleading" were employed, sometimes by the defense and sometimes by the prosecution. Time and again Colonel Winship had to intervene to restore tranquillity between the contending lawyers.

At the close of its cross-examination late this afternoon the prosecution sprang a surprise when Major Gullion asked Colonel Mitchell if, when a young officer of the Signal Corps in 1913, he had testified before a Congressional committee that he was opposed to a separate air service and that disgruntled individuals should not make statements which would tend to disorganize the service.

The crowd laughed and Colonel Mitchell smiled.

"I was a member of the General Staff then and I never made a worse statement," replied the Colonel. "I said a good many things then. That was before the war."

A development which by some was interpreted as possibly of great impor-

Special to The New York Times.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 24.—Captain William Young of Atlantic City was burned to death today when the Black Jack, a $250,000 cruiser, owned by W. C. Favorite, a New York City hotel owner, was destroyed by a mysterious fire. It is generally believed that Young was asleep when the fire started.

The body was face down in the bunkroom and partly clothed, indicating that he had made an effort to escape before the flames cut him off.

According to one theory, the blowing down of the lantern started a blaze and an explosion of gasoline prevented Young from getting away. Flames were discovered by Romeo Mitchel, a negro fireman at the Royal, who plunged into the water and swam to the cruiser. Three minutes after he boarded the Black Jack the gas tanks exploded and Mitchell jumped overboard.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP).—Captain Young of Atlantic City, who was burned to death off West Palm Beach, Fla., was in command of the cruiser Crystal on its fatal trip off this city in June.

Captain Young was operating the Crystal on a moonlight sail arranged by members of a Northfield social club when the craft blew up four miles out at sea on the night of June 11. About thirty pleasure seekers were hurled into the water, five meeting death, and a dozen or more being injured. Captain Young was blown through the pilot house.

Captain Young was made co-defendant with Edward S. Conover, owner of the Crystal, in an action brought by the Government, following an investigation of the circumstances of the tragedy. An effort to serve Captain Young with a summons failed.

Treasury Revokes All Home Wine Permits; Dry Report Shows Prosecutions Increase

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—While the Treasury was taking another step toward tightening prohibition restrictions today, the Department of Justice made public a report of its last year's work, declaring prosecutions for liquor law violations had been more successful.

The Treasury action came in an announcement by Assistant Secretary Andrews of a ruling revoking all permits for the manufacture of wine by householders, one of the last pre-prohibition exemptions to be wiped out, and instructed Internal Revenue Collectors to issue no more permits. More than 200,000 such permits, which allowed the holders to make 200 gallons of wine a year without license or tax, are said to be outstanding.

Later in the day Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition prosecutions, delivered to Attorney General Sargent a review of the work of her division for the fiscal year ending June 30. A study of the prosecution records for the twelve months, the report said, showed betterment in the program of prosecutions as follows:

"The Government is prosecuting larger and more important cases.

"There has been a decrease in each of the last two years in the number of cases pending, indicating more prompt trials.

"The penalties for violations, especially in the matter of jail and prison sentences, are steadily increasing.

"There has been a very substantial increase in the number of injunctions made effective."

GOV. FERGUSON GETS SESSION ULTIMATUM

Members Allow Her Until Dec. 10 to Call the Legislature to Investigate Administration.

SPEAKER WOULD THEN ACT

In a Statement She Says She Is Doing Her Best for All—Grand Jury May Report Today.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 24.—An ultimatum demanding the calling by noon of Dec. 10 of a special session of the Legislature, signed by forty-four members, was presented today to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. It was intended at first that the demand be that she issue the call tomorrow, but this was later changed. If Mrs. Ferguson fails to act, it is announced, Speaker Lee Satterwhite will, on Dec. 15, call for a special session of the House for Jan. 4.

Albert Petsch, who carried the ultimatum, was not admitted into Mrs. Ferguson's presence, but he was informed that her secretary was authorized to receive it.

Text of the Ultimatum.

To the Honorable Miriam A. Ferguson, Governor, State of Texas:

We, the undersigned, members of the thirty-ninth Legislature of the State of Texas, having in mind our oaths of office and our duty to the people of the State, do hereby respectfully petition you to call a special session of the thirty-ninth Legislature to meet not later than Jan. 4, A. D., 1926, for the purpose of considering such matters as you may, in your judgment, desire to submit for its consideration in addition to the following propositions, to wit:

1. To provide sufficient funds to carry on effective tick eradication under the law as the same is now in effect;

2. To provide sufficient funds for the effective eradication of the foot and mouth disease.

3. And for the purpose of amending the highway laws of this State to such extent as will, in the judgment of the Legislature, sufficiently protect the interests of the people and promote the establishment of an efficient system of public highways.

We respectfully request that you issue the call for said special session not later than 12 o'clock P. M., Dec. 10, 1925, and represent that we will interpret your failure to call such session by said time as your refusal to call such a session.

Secret Caucus in Austin.

About seventy-five members of the Legislature met behind closed doors at an Austin hotel last night, an informal caucus being held during a banquet to which only Representatives and Senators were invited. The discussion lasted more than three hours and ended with the adoption of a formal statement, as follows:

"We are gratified to learn of the resignations of Commissioners Lanham and Burkett. The resignations, however, are trifling incidents in the present deplorable situation in Texas. The situation remains unchanged. In 1926 there will be expended just as much money from the highway fund as there was expended in 1925. The opportunities for extravagance, waste and mismanagement and the temptations for 1926 will be equally as great as they were in 1925.

"The recent judgment of the District Court of Travis County, followed so quickly by the resignations of the two highway commissioners, is conclusive evidence of the very urgent public necessity to correct by legislative assembly the wrongs which every one will now admit exist.

"This problem now has passed far beyond any consideration of personalities; it involves the welfare and best interests of the people of Texas. We believe that the Chief Executive of the State, realizing this existing situation, should convene the Legislature in special session immediately.

"The issue is well defined; if the Governor refuses to act, then it will be the plain duty of a sufficient number of members of the Legislature who believe in and love Texas to take such action to protect her welfare and her glory."

The Ferguson supporters, both in and out of the Legislature, are urging the Governor to make the best of the situation and issue the proclamation for a special session, instead of leaving the way open for Speaker Satterwhite to do so.

It is recalled that Speaker F. O. Fuller of the House of Representatives is-

DR. STIRES ELEVATED TO THE EPISCOPATE

HIGHEST PRELATES AT RITES

Ceremony, Preceded by Procession, Is Witnessed by Notable Gathering in St. Thomas's.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest Milmore Stires was consecrated yesterday as Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island in stately ceremonial that prevailed through three hours of solemn rite.

Kneeling at a prayer desk in the centre of the chancel of St. Thomas's Church, the congregation tense with realization that their shepherd of twenty-five years of service was passing to a greater charge, Dr. Stires was elevated to his new task with the laying on of the hands of ten bishops.

At 12:10 o'clock, with the sun finding its way only dimly through the great stained glass windows of the gray Gothic edifice, the prelates grouped themselves in a circle about the praying cleric. The tall figure of the presiding bishop, the Right Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, loomed above the bowed head of Dr. Stires. The vivid red of the hoods that go with doctorates of divinity, worn by the participating bishops, shot with the white and the black of their robes, gave contrast to the sombre scene.

As the hands of the Bishop were outstretched to rest upon the head of the rector they were raising to their own high estate there came the words of Bishop Talbot, clear and in measured cadence:

"Receive the Holy Ghost for the office and work of a bishop in the church of God, now committed unto thee by the imposition of our hands. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen. And remember that thou stir up the grace of God, which is given thee by this imposition of our hands; for God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and love and soberness."

Receives Gift of a Bible.

Then, with hands still laid upon Dr. Stires, now fully consecrated and installed in his ecclesiastical rank, Bishop Talbot delivered to him a Bible. The Book was the gift of the rector's mother-in-law, Mrs. George W. Hardwick. As it was handed to him, Dr. Stires clasped it and again bowed his head as the presiding bishop enjoined:

"Give heed unto reading, exhortation and doctrine. Think upon the things contained in this Book. Be diligent in them, that the increase coming thereby may be manifest unto all men; for by so doing thou shalt both save thyself and them that hear thee.

"Be to the flock of Christ a shepherd not a wolf; feed them, devour them not. Hold up the weak, heal the sick, bind up the broken, bring again the outcasts, seek the lost. Be so merciful that you be not too remiss; so minister discipline that you forget not mercy; that when the Chief Shepherd shall appear, you may receive the never-fading crown of glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

The hands were removed and Bishop Stires rose slowly. The attending Bishops walked gravely back to their seats within the altar enclosure and the new prelate, the pectoral cross gleaming on his breast, was seated with them to join with thirteen of his family and kin in Holy Communion.

St. Thomas's, a parish of many distinguished communicants, has seldom held so brilliant a company as assembled to witness the consecration. Every seat in the church, capable of holding 1,800 persons, had been allotted and admission was by card only. Uniformed policemen and a squad of detectives cordoned the church and barred the way of the hundreds who came thinking that the general public would be admitted.

Crowd Outside Church.

The church was filled an hour before the rite began and persons were standing at the rear of the pews in the two galleries. About 500 persons, unable to get in, remained outside the church throughout the consecration, cheerfully disregarding the chill blasts. The service was broadcast by station WJZ.

The sermon was preached by the Right Rev. Charles H. Brent, Bishop of Western New York. He called for a "broadening of the Church for tolerance and for unity of Christianity." Catholicity in the Church, he said, should find it in the "thick of things." Emphasizing his call for unity, Bishop Brent declared

OLVANY WILL ALLOW THREE HYLAN CHIEFS TO SHARE PATRONAGE

Work for Walker in the Election Entitles Them to Recognition, He Says.

WON'T CHOOSE POLICE HEAD

Declares Tammany Will Keep Hands Off Both Police and Education Departments.

LISTENS TO JOB SEEKERS

Decisions Must Await Return of Walker, He Tells Them in Four-Hour Sitting.

George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, returned to his desk at the Wigwam in Fourteenth Street yesterday afternoon. For fully four hours he listened to suggestions and appeals on behalf of "deserving" Democrats who his district leaders thought had earned rewards in the shape of municipal jobs. Mr. Olvany held off the patronage seekers with the brief statement that nothing would be decided concerning appointments until Mayor-elect Walker returned from his vacation in the South.

One fact emerged from the talks Mr. Olvany had with his leaders. It was that John H. McCooey, Democratic leader in Brooklyn; Borough President Maurice Connolly, leader of the Democratic forces in Queens, and David S. Rendt, the party leader in Richmond, all of whom backed Mayor Hylan in the primaries, would get recognition in the distribution of patronage.

To what extent they will be recognized will depend, of course, on Mr. Olvany. As the result of the Walker victory on Election Day, he finds himself in a position of power in his party which his immediate predecessor in the leadership, Charles F. Murphy, did not gain until he had fought for a dozen years. Mr. Olvany made it clear to persons who talked with him yesterday afternoon that he considered the good showing made for Mayor-elect Walker in the three boroughs of McCooey, Rendt and Connolly entitled those leaders to a fair share of patronage.

No Choice for Police Head.

Talking with newspaper men, Mr. Olvany said that Tammany had no candidate for Police Commissioner. With both former Public Administrator James J. Frawley and Martin G. McCue, Clerk of the Surrogates' Court, almost within earshot, Chief Olvany said:

"You can dismiss as without foundation the report connecting Frawley and McCue with the prospective appointment of a successor to Commissioner Enright. The Florida dispatches about Frawley and McCue were only newspaper talk, nothing more."

Mr. Frawley had already said he did not want the job, and Mr. McCue had said that no one had approached him with a suggestion that he have it. Mr. Olvany said the final decision on the Police Commissionership would rest with Mayor Walker.

"It has been the policy of Tammany Hall to keep its hands off the Police Department and the Department of Education, and that policy will be continued," he said. "Since I have been sitting in my chair at the Hall, I have never asked a single favor from Commissioner Enright. As long as the department is run right, that is all we care about here."

Judging from other things in Mr. Olvany's talk it would appear safe to eliminate some names in the long list of persons who have received mention for the place. Owen D. Young and Franklin D. Roosevelt as non-residents, General John F. O'Ryan and Judge Alfred J. Talley of the Court of General Sessions, it was inferred, were among those who would not figure in the final selection.

While making holiday at Atlantic City Mr. Olvany has seen a good deal of Governor Smith, who is taking a brief vacation at the Sea View Golf Club at

TEMPLE EMANU-EL MAY SELL ITS SITE

Benjamin Winter Seeks to Trade Astor Home Plot—Wants Land for Skyscraper.

Congregation Would Build at 65th St. and 5th Av.—Negotiator's Career Picturesque.

Temple Emanu-El, on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street, one of the landmarks of the midtown section of the city, is being sought as a site for a skyscraper by Benjamin Winter, the operator who recently purchased the William K. Vanderbilt residence at Fifty-second and Fifth Avenue, the Vincent Astor mansion at Sixty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue, and the "French Flats," facing Central Park at Fifty-ninth Street and Seventh Avenue.

At Mr. Winter's office, when information was requested regarding a reported purchase of the property, it was admitted that negotiations were in progress, but it was said no papers had yet been signed.

According to the report in circulation regarding the property yesterday, the transaction involves a trade in which Mr. Winter is to give in part payment for the Temple Emanu-El property the Vincent Astor mansion at Sixty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue as a new site for the edifice.

On the other hand, Louis Marshall, President of Temple Emanu-El, declined to confirm the report of any such negotiations. Dr. Nathan Krass of Temple Emanu-El said he knew nothing about any proposed sale of the property, and referred the inquirer to Mr. Marshall, who, he said, had full charge of all matters pertaining to the property.

Plot Valued at $6,700,000.

The property now occupied by Temple Emanu-El is considered by real estate experts to be one of the most valuable corners on Manhattan Island and probably in the world. It has a frontage of 104 feet on the east side of Fifth Avenue and 184 feet 4 inches on the north side of Forty-third Street.

Although exempt from taxation, the Board of Assessors of the Tax Department of the City of New York place a value on the land at close to $3,000,000. It is understood, however, that a value of about $350 a square foot has been placed on the land by the owners. This would make a total value of about $6,700,000.

The Vincent Astor property occupies a plot fronting 150 feet on the avenue and 125 feet on the north side of Sixty-fifth Street. The land is assessed at $1,235,000 and the land with the building at $1,800,000. Mr. Winter purchased the Astor property last May, the property being held at over $3,000,000. At that time it was reported that Mr. Winter intended to improve the site with an apartment hotel, involving an expenditure of about $10,000,000. A skyscraper combining stores and an office

Bandits Get $57,760 From Chicago Bank Car, 2 of Sextet Wounded in Holding Up 5 Men

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Six bandits robbed a money car from the Drovers National Bank, after a street battle on the edge of the Stock Yards, today. They shot a policeman and got away with two strong boxes containing approximately $57,760. Two of the bandits were wounded.

Patrolman Patrick O'Shea, a veteran, was the robbers' victim. He was shot through the head and has only a fighting chance to live.

At Mercy Hospital Officer O'Shea said he recognized one of the bandits as Leroy Marshall, a lad of the neighborhood. Marshall was found and arrested, but denied the charge. Neighborhood hoodlums committed the robbery, the police believe.

O'Shea and his companions were taking two boxes of mutilated currency from the Drovers National to the Federal Reserve Bank to be exchanged for new bills. O'Shea was in the back of the car, sitting on the boxes. Louis Grebe was driving. Edward Ward and Henry Postina, bank messengers, and Charles O'Neil, clearing teller for the bank, also were in the car.

After leaving the Stock Yards bank the messengers turned over to Wallace Street. At Thirty-ninth and Wallace Streets they were crowded toward the curb by a Lincoln touring car in which six men were riding. Grebe and the others noticed that the men had shotguns and revolvers, but supposed they were from the detective bureau.

The bank car was jammed to a stop. Still thinking he was dealing with detectives, Grebe sang out: "Don't shoot. We're bank messengers.

A shot from the rear of the car was the answer. One of the bandits had shot O'Shea through the head without a word of warning.

O'Shea dropped, but contrived to shoot once as he fell. His bullet struck the hand the robber was reaching in toward the money boxes. With a curse the bandit summoned help. The boxes were tossed out and into the waiting car.

As the robbers ran back to their car Grebe fired. He hit one man, apparently in the leg. The wounded robber fell, then staggered over to the car and was hauled aboard.

PAUL DOUMER TRYING TO FORM A CABINET AFTER BRIAND FAILS

Plans to Meet French Fiscal Crisis by Immediate Increase of Taxation.

BARS LEVY AND CONVERSION

Seeks Support of Centre Groups, but Paris Doubts That He Will Succeed.

SOCIALISTS SEEK CONTROL

Accepted Briand Offer to Join Government, but Wanted to Run It—May Yet Do So.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The French political situation has gone for the moment from bad to worse. M. Briand has given up his efforts to form a government and tonight Senator Paul Doumer has been charged by President Doumergue to organize a new Cabinet. His prospects are far from bright.

M. Briand's check was due to the Socialists, who dominate the present situation. Starting out to form a Government of the Centre which would be independent of Socialist support, M. Briand met the decision of the Left bloc parties to stick together, and since they control slightly over half the Chamber that meant that M. Briand's Centre Government could probably not gain a majority.

Unwilling to place himself in the humiliating position M. Herriot and M. Painlevé occupied when, depending on the Socialists' support, they were at the mercy of Léon Blum and his satellites, the Foreign Minister invited the Socialists to take part in the Cabinet so as to involve their responsibility, it being his idea to put them in a safe minority in the Government.

Socialists' Price Too High.

Socialists met today and accepted the offer to take part in the Government, but they demanded seven of the fourteen Ministries, including the Premiership, Ministry of Finance and Ministry of the Interior. Of course M. Briand would not agree to any such plan as the Cabinet being dominated by the Socialists, whom he detests, and soon after getting M. Blum's answer he went to the Elysée and told President Doumergue he found it impossible to form a Government which would have any chance of a useful life.

President Doumergue then sent for Senator Doumer, former Finance Minister, who tonight is working on the basis on which M. Briand started, namely, the formation of a Government which can live independently of the Socialists. Sure to have a majority in the Senate, M. Doumer is seeking the support of the Centre in the Chamber. But inasmuch as he needs the Radical Socialists and inasmuch as up to midnight they are standing firmly with the Socialists, and because M. Herriot maintains the leadership of the country's politics through his chieftainship of the Left bloc, M. Doumer faces tough going.

May Call on Socialists.

In the lobbies of the Chamber tonight it is said not to be impossible, if M. Doumer fails, that President Doumergue will call on the Socialists to form a Government, relying on the Senate to defeat them in due time. This would be an expensive experiment, as the Socialists, it is believed, could not win out through any financial program of their own, but some observers think it is the only way to rob the Socialists of the power they hold in the existing circumstances.

It is probable that M. Briand is back of this suggestion, for there is no doubt that the veteran statesman wants to break up the Left bloc. It is generally believed he welcomed the stand the Socialists took today and that his foresight made it apparent to him that a Cabinet including even two or three Socialists would be surrounded by difficulties from the start.

It is possible that M. Briand figures things must get worse before they get better and that the best way to bring a reaction is to give the Socialists power for a few days or weeks. Perhaps he feels that after their failure a popular demand would bring the formation of a Government resting on the Centre of the Chamber which could thus bring peace between the two houses of the French Parliament.

But that lies in the future and for the present the situation in the French capital is not promising.

Doumer Plans Higher Taxes.

PARIS, Nov. 24 (AP).—The plan which Senator Doumer has prepared to meet the financial situation, if he accepts the post of Premier, is based on an increase in existing taxation, which he contends would furnish sufficient additional funds not only to balance the budget but meet the requirements of the Treasury and redeem the national debt fairly rapidly.

He intends, above all, to advocate only simple measures capable of yielding immediate results and susceptible of ratification by Parliament without giving rise to a long academic discussion.

M. Doumer rules out not only any capital levy but also forced consolidation of part of the short term debt and taxation of Government rentes. He estimates that the increase in the business turnover tax will yield at least an additional 4,000,000,000 francs yearly. The first year's yield will be applied to reduction of the fiduciary circulation.

which would have to be increased to meet the maturities on Dec. 8.

A strictly balanced budget naturally is an essential of M. Doumer's program, which will be completed by a set of measures tending to stabilize the franc and restore the value of Government paper.

He considers that the new Ministry should limit itself to putting the national finances on a sound basis. Should he head it, he will apply himself, with the help of Parliament, to accomplish that before Jan. 1, and, if he succeeds, he will consider his task ended. These are the ideas which the prospective Premier will submit to the leaders whose collaboration he wishes to obtain.

VYVERE GOT BUDGET CUT.

Informed Belgian Cabinet of American Bankers' Dissatisfaction.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 24 (AP).—Urgent cablegrams from M. Van de Vyvere, Minister of Agriculture, now in New York in connection with negotiations for a large loan for the stabilization of Belgium's currency, were responsible for yesterday's unexpected Cabinet meeting, at which 150,000,000 francs was slashed from the 1926 budget, it was learned today.

M. Van de Vyvere is understood to have recounted the dissatisfaction of the American bankers with whom he is negotiating concerning Belgium's financial plans. These bankers held that these plans did not fulfill the promises made during the initial negotiations for the credit, especially in regard to monetary circulation, the regular disbursements of the National Bank of Belgium and the reduction of the domestic debt.

Official circles, discussing the reported attitude of the American bankers, declared that the currency circulation of Belgium was between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 francs less than two months ago. Belgium, it was further declared, had kept every promise made in connection with loan negotiations.

The budget reduction, it is announced, was made with a view to consolidating the budget and giving additional proof of the Government's determination to restore finances along sane lines.

Governor General Hautain of the Bank of Belgium and Minister of Agriculture Van de Vyvere are in New York as the guests of Governor Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank, and have been holding conferences with a number of New York bankers regarding Belgium's stabilization program. They intend to be in New York for about a week longer.

Bankers said yesterday that the subject of a loan had not been touched on but that they considered a large loan as likely to develop. Belgium funded her debt to the United States last Summer and the American loan markets were open to her for whatever accommodation she might seek.

The last Belgian Government financing arranged in the New York market was a loan of $50,000,000 floated last June through a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co.

PEKING, Nov. 24.—Traffic on all railways was virtually suspended today, owing to movements of troops. According to Chinese opinion, developments are inevitable.

The immediately disturbing factor is the Honan Tuchun, whose forces are entering Chihli and Shantung in contravention of the agreement between Chang Tso-lin and Feng Yu-hsiang.

There are said to be 500,000 troops actually in or entering this province, representing four separate interests.

The presumption is that a combined attack on Chang Tso-lin is contemplated, and that in self defense he may be compelled to strike the first blow.

SAYS OUTER FORCE BROKE SHENANDOAH

Burgess, One of the Airship's Designers, Testifies That Added Weight Strengthened It.

ANDERSON IS QUESTIONED

Mitchell Witness Insists the Valve Capacity of Wrecked Craft Was Too Small.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The Shenandoah court of inquiry heard three witnesses today. Charles Paine Burgess, an engineer in the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics, one of the designers of the dirigible, who was examined on the structural condition of the craft, and Lieutenant C. A. Anderson of the Army Air Service, who was closely questioned on testimony he gave before the Mitchell court-martial, were on the stand most of the day.

Starr Truscott, another aeronautical engineering expert of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, was examined regarding duralumin tests made by the Bureau of Standards for the Navy Department. He stated that in his opinion the intercrystalling corrosion of parts of the duralumin framework of the Shenandoah had not weakened its structure or in any way contributed toward the break up of the airship.

Mr. Burgess was interrogated regarding computations made by him at the request of technical advisers to the court. These computations related to stresses to which the Shenandoah was subjected during the Ohio storm, and were based on scientific data from barometric and other readings. He stated that, in his opinion, the storm pressure was sufficient to break the ship in the critical position in which she rode during certain periods of the storm. His calculations, he said, convinced him that the Shenandoah was broken by aerodynamic forces combined with static forces. He thought the Shenandoah had been strengthened by the increase in structural weight due to "stepping up" all the secondary longitude frames of the airship, and admitted that the rigid was 3.6 per cent. greater in weight than called for by the designers.

This fact, witness said, had been determined by actual weighing of all the material placed in the ship.

"In actual words," said Mr. Burgess, "the designers guessed wrong only 3.6 per cent. in the weight of the ship. That was pretty good for the first ship designed by them. The Shenandoah's power plant was heavier than designed, consequently actual weight of the ship structure itself was very close to that fixed by the designs."

Strong Outside Force Applied.

Mr. Burgess saw no reason why there should be excessive pressure in the gas cells at maximum altitude, unless the manoeuvring valves had failed to function, and no evidence to show that had been adduced. The airship, he continued, was undoubtedly broken by some great aerodynamic force after it fell from peak altitude to 3,000 feet altitude and started to rise rapidly at high angle trim. He thought there must have been some very strong outside force applied or an airship of such staunch construction would not have pulled apart.

The absence of horizontal cross wires he considered unimportant, saying there were none in the original L-VS9 on which the Shenandoah design was based, and there are none in the German-built Los Angeles. The weight of the Shenandoah's hull was about 41 per cent. of her gross lift. The corresponding figure for the Los Angeles is 31 per cent.

It was true the Shenandoah was heavier than German war-time Zeppelins, the witness stated, explaining that these had been built primarily for very high altitude bombing. The Germans had cut down weight on these particular ships in every possible way, he said, and for that reason the Shenandoah was heavy as compared with them. The witness gave it as his expert opinion that the weight added to the Shenandoah added to the real strength of the ship.

Anderson Denies He Is an Expert.

Lieutenant Anderson, an Air Service officer from Kelly Field, Texas, was examined for two hours regarding his testimony before the Mitchell court that rigged airships should be equipped with parachutes, and that the Shenandoah's structure was probably weakened when she broke away from the mooring mast at Lakehurst in 1924. He disavowed any intention of posing before the Mitchell court as an expert, denied that he was expert in airship design and construction, and when asked specifically whether the break away from the mast had an effect on her later destruction, the witness very frankly said he was not in a position to say that that was true.

Lieutenant Anderson told the Shenandoah court he had not intended to have the Mitchell court understand him as saying as a fact that the valve discharge capacity of the Shenandoah's gas bags was insufficient. He did not know that to be so, but did, and still does, believe, he said, that the valve capacity of the Shenandoah was insufficient.

Asked upon what he based that opinion he replied that ten of the twenty-eight valves of the Shenandoah had been removed, leaving eighteen, and while this number "might be safe for normal conditions, gas valves are put in for emergency, and not for normal conditions." The witness said that the record as he understood it, failed to show whether the manoeuvring valves were all actualy open.

The officer was closely questioned regarding his testimony before the Mitchell court that rigid airships should be equipped with parachutes, and stood by that opinion today, but conceded that the question of equipping the Shenandoah with them was wholly one of opinion." The original "lay off" for the Shenandoah contemplated their use, he said, but the number was later reduced to two parachutes.

"The remark was made up there at Lakehurst," he said, "that two were carried to make it plural."

BERLIN TAXI FARES SIMPLE AS A TAX BLANK

City Fathers Make Three Rates, None Corresponding to the Meter Reading.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—Figuring income taxes and paying Berlin taxi bills have been put in the same category of evils. Hereafter there will be three taxi rates, none of them corresponding to the meter. Large taxis will charge 85 per cent.; two-seaters, 75, and motorcycle side car taxis 50 per cent. of the prewar taxi rate, which the meters now record.

However, before deducting 15 per cent. from the meter the minimum fare must be subtracted. After deducting 15 per cent. from the remainder the minimum fare must be added. In addition to this are several variables and constants.

The Berlin city fathers made this decision today while taking an open-air ride on the River Spree. The papers express the hope that the next session of this venerable body will be held in the warm and comfortable rooms of the City Hall.

TOWN IS FIRST BOMBARDED

Dramatic Turn in the Military Situation Causes a Sensation at Beirut.

BEIRUT, Nov. 24.—The French garrison at Rasheiya, after a strong attack, was delivered this afternoon by relieving forces. The Druses in falling back left considerable losses in dead and wounded. The French at the same time recaptured the important key village of Merj Ayun.

General Gamelin has addressed felicitations to the High Commissioner for the colonies and to the gallant defenders of Rasheiya, which was only retaken after hand-to-hand fighting in the streets.

This now, and, according to military experts, important defeat of the Druse forces, when learned at Beirut, caused a sensation, since the operation was affected less than forty miles from the City of Beirut itself.

On the afternoon of Monday, the Druses, desiring to take the fortress at Rasheiya, made a vigorous attack and succeeded in penetrating within the fortress itself, but the French forces by a rally equally strong, forced back the invading forces. Relieving attachments by a forced march arrived just in time to prevent capture of the fortress, which, despite the fearless defense, would have soon been overwhelmed by superior numbers.

The relieving forces had not stopped for a whole day and night and upon the morning of the second day found themselves within sight of the besieged fortress. Despite the fact that they had not eaten for nearly twenty-four hours, the plucky troops went into battle with a vigor and enthusiasm which soon compelled the Druses to retreat. Soon afterward the French Air Forces arrived and flew over the village in advance of the victorious French forces.

This has equalled in dramatic intensity any of the relief expeditions in fighting against the Riffians.

Town Bombarded, Set on Fire.

BEIRUT, Nov. 24 (AP).—Prior to the relief of the Rasheiya garrison, French artillerymen within the citadel bombarded the town, which was then on fire.

All today there was severe fighting in the Bika Valley, where the insurgents attacked the columns of French reinforcements proceeding from the Beirut-Damasus Railway to Rasheiya.

The French forces, comprising 2,500 cavalry and infantry, with Spahis and Moroccans, later advices show, defeated the Druses with severe losses. The Druse forces at first numbered only 1,000, but as the fighting progressed they sent scouts into the villages shouting: "Rise up, brothers; the French are coming!" and 1,000 more hardy mountaineers poured from the foothills to join the rebels.

Several times during the fighting airplanes from Rayak joined in spreading death among the tribesmen, who lost 200 killed.

New High Commissioner Sails.

MARSEILLES, France, Nov. 24 (AP).—Henry de Jouvenel, new French High Commissioner in Syria, is leaving for Beirut today to assume his post.

"I shall take no decision until I become fully acquainted with the situation," he said, "but once such decisions are taken they will be executed with all the necessary energy."

M. de Jouvenel has conferred with Generals Gouraud, Weygand and Sarrail, his military predecessors in Syria, as well as the British Foreign Secretary, Austen Chamberlain, and the Turkish Ambassador in Paris. He will visit the British authorities in Egypt and Palestine en route to Beirut.

HOGGAR TOMB YIELDS MORE TREASURES

Gold Ornaments and Hundreds of Beads Are Found by Prorok Expedition.

HOGGAR, Nov. 16, delayed (By courier via Tamanrasset).—The ancient tomb unearthed by the Prorok expedition at Hoggar yielded additional rich contents of the greatest archaeological value during the further excavation investigation.

Above the burial chamber were fragments of semi-decayed matting. Below this was a layer of clay supported by a carpet of leather richly fringed. In the earth beneath this was found the first unbroken vase, of iridescent glass, and then a plate decorated with delicate designs in silver. Farther down the explorers encountered innumerable fragments of painted wood, and some round stones which probably supported an elaborate canopy over the body. Then they found a solid gold buckle, earrings of gold and fine workmanship, a delicately carved gold column, a sculptured bronze bracelet, small gold rings and the wooden base of a fan.

Every handful of dust is carefully sifted and this painstaking has been rewarded with rich finds of beads of carnelian, gold and lapis-lazuli. The hundreds of these beads are enough to compose a most intricate necklace or head dress. There is also a golden pendant of skillful workmanship.

Then was unearthed a Libyan Venus. Just below her ostrich quills evidently belonging to a characteristic headdress worn in ancient Libya. A few inches further the excavators came upon a skull surmounting a skeleton reclining in a rock cavern. It was remarkably well preserved. Tomorrow they will uncover the entire skeleton and continue the search for further bodies which M. Chapuis believes are in the royal tomb.

The hill on which stands the tomb is seamed with tracks of caravans of the old trade roads to the Sahara gold coast.

Camels arrived at noon today bringing food from Tamanrasset just as the party in the tomb were nearing the end of their supplies. A camel from Insalah bringing food, oil and gasoline has not arrived and the expedition is unable to move its cars until it does.

Leach Warns New Policemen of Volstead Law Temptations.

Graduation exercises of three hundred police recruits were held last night at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory in East Twenty-sixth Street, and the men will start to patrol beats today. The men have completed a two months' course at the police training school, and now must go through a probationary period of three months on active duty.

Acting Police Commissioner John A. Leach reminded the men of the duties of policemen in protecting life and property and warned them of temptations that would arise.

"The greatest temptation to a patrolman is that of breaking the Volstead law," he said. "This is one of the chief causes of men failing in this calling. Remember that you are pledged to support the Constitution of the United States as well as that of the State."

The graduation exercises included calisthenics, jiu-jitsu, boxing exhibitions, rifle calisthenics and military drill. Prizes were awarded to Arthur Lempke, Charles H. Strasser and Peter A. S. Samuelsen, of the graduating class, who had obtained the highest percentages in the examinations.

BELGRADE, Nov. 23.—The irrepressible Stefan Raditch, the new Minister of Education, after signalizing his entry into the Cabinet by a disturbing statement of policy on the delicate international question of minorities, now has thrown salt on the sorest spot externally—Belgrade's relations with Italy. Speaking to Slovenes in their capital at Laibach, close to the Italian frontier, he sharply warned Rome of the consequences of any invasion of Yugoslavia. He denounced the Fascist agitation for Dalmatia and, taking pains to distinguish between "the admirable people of Italy" and the Black Shirts, described the latter as a "blot on Italian civilization."

Raditch's statements gain significance since he is leader of the Croats, who, being economically far more interested in the port of Fiume than the Serbs, are more bitter against Italy. During the Fiume quarrel, moreover, Raditch headed the Croatian struggle against the Serbs for more power within the kingdom and allowed Rome to play on the economic differences and political rivalry of the two leading members of Yugoslavia in this question. Raditch's entry into the Cabinet is supposed to mark the real union of Serbs and Croats.

"Now we are united," Raditch declared, "we will no longer, as in the past, be tools of Czarist or Soviet Russia, England or France, least of all Italy. If the policy of adventure gets the upper hand in Italy, Rome will find against it not only Yugoslavia but Czechoslovakia, Poland, Rumania and Turkey. There are no written conventions among them against Italy, but they will be bound by bonds stronger than treaties—as when Belgium was invaded. Then we shall see if on the other side of the frontier (believed to refer to the fact that many Slovenes are included within the eastern border of Italy) Italy is so holy and unattackable. "If there is open agitation in Italy to make Dalmatia Italian or to move the Italian frontiers closer to Laibach or Agram, if Italy violates the principle of nationalism, the above named powers and another which I will not name, will tread her down. What is happening in the interior of Italy pains, but does not concern us; but when Fascism touches our frontiers we have behind us a hundred million people from the Baltic to the Black Sea."

The last remark is thought to have been inspired by Mussolini's reference to two million Italians ready to march at his orders. Raditch ended with a plea for the union of all Slovenes in Austria and Italy with those of Yugoslavia.

Says He Anticipated Dr. W. F. Prince of Boston in the Exposure by Six Weeks.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Answering the charge of Dr. Walter Franklin Prince of Boston, that certain spirit photographs, recently acclaimed, were fakes, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle today said:

"Dr. Prince shows a curious ignorance as to what is going on in psychic circles. If he had Light, the chief London psychic weekly, he would have seen six weeks ago a letter from me commenting on the 'old master' photographs.

"If there was any exposure it was I who made it, not he. I showed that one of the figures shown in a photograph was Albert Moore's 'Blossoms.' The other I could not place, but I know now it was a Murillo.

"It is not fair to say that such transferences are final proofs of fraud, for there are many cases, a mystery every psychic student knows, in which pictures have appeared which could doubtless have been copied by the medium.

"Now, six weeks later, Dr. Prince makes the same discovery.

"The photograph was shown three years ago in New York. It was the only one of forty-five which I showed that I publicly refused to guarantee.

"I had evidence in its favor, but it was not final, so when Dr. Prince wrote me a letter the next day to say that he was sure it was an imitation I at once withdrew it and explained what I had done to the audience. It was shown no more.

me the information in private, rather than express his opinion publicly, but it seems I was premature in my conclusion.

"The fact remains, however, that the only photograph questioned was the only one that I refused to guarantee. That will give some idea of the care and judgment which I use in choosing my slides."

ARGUE KLAN LAW VALIDITY.

Counsel Take Issue on Public Effect of State Statute.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Arguments on the constitutionality of the Walker Anti-Klan law were heard today by the Court of Appeals. This law was designed to unmask the Klan and requires that the names of members be filed with the Secretary of State, together with a transcript of the oath of membership.

The case came up on appeal from a judgment of the Appellate Division, Fourth Department, which held the law was sound and at the same time denied application for a writ of habeas corpus by George W. Bryant, a Buffalo Klansman, arrested on Oct. 1, 1924, for violating the civil rights amendment incorporated in that statute.

District Attorney Guy B. Moore, declaring the statute a legitimate exercise of the State's police power, said that certain oath-bound organizations have operated disastrously to the public welfare by attempting "in one way or another to overthrow the aims of Government by promoting disorder and bloodshed."

He denied the charge that it was class legislation, citing the exemption of labor and benevolent orders.

John K. Gerdin, counsel for the Klan, insisted that the law was inimical to the public interest, was based upon surmise, speculation and presumption, and was a vicious attack upon the guaranteed and sacred right of personal liberty.

Police Band Is Twice Misled by Other Arriving Mayors and Plays Premature Welcome.

HAVANA, Nov. 24.—Mayor-elect Walker of New York continued today to be the recipient of Cuban hospitality. He called this morning on Mayor Cuesta at the City Hall, where a detachment of the police band of fifty pieces was drawn up to receive him. The premature arrival of Mayors Suedigar of Miami Beach and Dammers of Coral Gables caused the band to play and the police to salute. Mr. Walker, who had stopped at a branch of the National City Bank, arrived later with Mayor Romph of Miami, and the official welcome was repeated. Mrs. Walker was introduced to the leading city employes.

Commissioner Enright was at the reception and dinner last night, and also attended the reception to Mr. Walker in the Havana Yacht Club with Mrs. Enright. He was greeted pleasantly by the Mayor-elect, who in his speech referred to the efficient manner in which Commissioner Enright arranged for the entertainment and care of the Cuban delegates in New York last Summer. Mr. Walker had no private talk with Commissioner Enright, and the meeting was said to be without political significance.

Mr. Walker also visited the Vedado Tennis Club and attended the jai alai game in the evening. He has postponed his departure to Thursday morning and will return to Miami Thursday night.

building is to be erected on the site of the W. K. Vanderbilt house, Fifty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, by Mr. Winter. Ground will be broken for this structure next month and the building will be completed for 1926 occupancy.

Once a Painting Contractor.

Mr. Winter, who came to this country from Poland when he was 19 years old, in 1901, entered the realty field about eleven years ago. His first real estate deal involved a lease from which he obtained a profit of $1,000. Before that time he had conducted a thriving business as a painting contractor.

His early ventures were confined largely to buying and selling in the tenement and apartment house market. During the World War, when rents were rising and the construction of dwelling properties was stopped, his deals increased in size and number until the boom days of apartment house trading in 1919, when he became recognized as one of the big traders in that market. Since then he has had a part in such deals as the assembling of the Seventh Avenue block front between Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Streets for the New York Athletic Club, a $4,000,000 transaction; the Astor Court Apartment at Broadway and Ninetieth Street and the Della Robbia Apartments at 740 West End Avenue.

This last transaction was completed on the day following his purchase of the Vanderbilt mansion. In the last few months Mr. Winter has figured in a number of deals ranging from $1,000,000 upward in the midtown zone between Forty-second Street and Central Park South.

MITCHELL DECLARES ARMY AND NAVY FAIL

tance came when the Court asked Colonel Mitchell whether he had intended in his San Antonio statement merely to imply that the system was almost treasonable in that it had not, in his opinion, properly carried out a trust. This query was answered in the affirmative by the witness.

Representative LaGuardia of New York provided a bright spot in the late hours of the trial when he described the tests of anti-aircraft guns at Fort Tilden as carefully arranged to aid the artillery, and told the members of the court that he had attacked them in a statement because his experience had made him feel that army and navy officers, generally, sought to carry out the desires of the General Staff. He did not know General MacArthur was on the court, he added, when he made the criticism referred to by the court.

Representative Perkins of New Jersey, another witness for the defense, testified that three naval officers had told him they would not give their views in favor of a unified air service before a Congressional inquiry for fear that they would displease superior officers, and then be transferred to remote posts of duty.

Perlis Increase, Says Mitchell.

Major Guilion began his cross-examination by asking:

"In your statement of Sept. 5 and in your direct examination by Mr. Reid you made reference to accidents in the Army Air Service?"

"Yes, which ones were they?" replied Colonel Mitchell.

"Well," said Major Guilion, "you referred to flaming coffins,' did you not?"

"I did."

"All right, now I ask if you can tell us the number of flying hours per fatality in the year 1921?"

"I haven't the record with me."

"If I should say that for every fatality in 1921 there was 934 hours of flying, would you be surprised?"

"I have not the records with me," Colonel Mitchell again replied.

"Can you tell me the number of flying hours per fatality for 1922?"

"I have not the records with me."

Major Guilion then informed the witness that the number of hours per fatality in 1922 was 1,327; in 1923 the number was 2,046, in 1924 the number 3,365, while in 1925 the number was 5,269. In each instance, he explained, the reference is to fiscal not calendar years.

"Do you know the number of flying hours in the Air Service has increased from 934 to 5,269 per fatality in the last five years?"

"I don't know without referring to my notes, and I will say that that is a very misleading statement."

"Are you prepared to say that is not so?"

"I am not prepared to say it is not so, but it is very misleading."

"Do you know the percentage of increase in safety?"

"There is none. There is a decrease in safety."

"If, in 1921, there were 934 hours per fatality and in 1925, 5,269, doesn't that indicate an increase in percentage of over 500 per cent.?"

"It does not. It is misleading."

Says DH's Are Still "Coffins."

"Since there were five times as many accidents five years ago in new equipments as there are now, in what you say 'war' and unsafe planes, does that indicate the equipment now is faulty?"

"It indicates that five years ago we were doing more military work than at the present time. The change in design of the DH has improved the plane, but they still are flaming coffins."

Major Guilion asked Colonel Mitchell if he remembered the accident which caused the death of Lieutenant McAvoy of the Reserve Corps. Lieutenant McAvoy lost his life March 25 last, when a machine in which he was the observer ran into a fog bank off the Virginia Capes. The observer was drowned. The board named to investigate the accident held that Lieut. Col. Schauffler of the Reserves, who was piloting the machine, should have turned back to Langley Field instead of trying to fly through the fog.

"The simple fact that it was a DH is enough," remarked the defendant.

"Well, do you agree with the finding of the board?"

"No."

Major Guilion read from the records of the boards that had investigated the deaths of other army pilots and Colonel Mitchell declared that every case cited went to prove the truth of his assertion that the war-time DH's, now in service, are "flaming coffins."

Major Guilion took up the charge made in the San Antonio statements that officers of the Air Service are "so bluffed and bulldozed that they dare not tell the truth in a majority of cases, fearing that they will be sent to the most out of the way places.

"Did you refer," Major Guilion asked, "to army and navy air officers generally when you wrote that?"

"I referred to myself, principally, "replied the accused.

"Then you mean that you dare not tell the truth?" pursued the prosecutor.

"No. I refer only to the part about being bluffed and bulldozed," Colonel Mitchell explained.

"Then in this statement in which you mention airmen you meant only yourself?" asked Major Guilion.

"I meant myself principally," said Mitchell. "As far as I am concerned, I'll tell you the truth, but the other officers are afraid."

"Then, are these three others you speak of guilty of perjury or false swearing before these committees?" Major Guilion asked.

Mr. Reid objected to the question and the Court sustained the objection.

"How do you reconcile your statement of Sept. 5, in which you said you were afraid to tell the truth with the statement you now make that you always tell the truth?" exclaimed Major Guilion.

"I made no such statement," replied the witness, and he glared at the prosecutor.

"Do you consider that you were sent to an out-of-the-way place, as you charged in your statements officers who tell the truth are?" asked the Judge Advocate.

"I certainly do, so far as influencing air development is concerned," was the somewhat heated reply of Colonel Mitchell.

"Is San Antonio an out-of-the-way place?"

"So far as air development is concerned, yes."

"Well, is it customary for staff officers to have commands?"

"I was so assigned so I would not have a command," replied the witness.

Prosecution Charges Plagiarism.

At this point the prosecution tried to get into the record its charge that Colonel Mitchell when he wrote "Winged Defense" had been guilty of plagiarism. The Judge Advocate produced a manuscript which he said was that of a lecture delivered some years ago before a War College class.

"I am going to show," Major Guilion declared, "that the accused cribbed page after page of this book, 'Winged Defense.'"

"He is not going to try a copyright case here," declared Mr. Reid, as he interposed an objection.

Colonel Winship again entered the breach and gave Major Guilion to understand that he had to confine himself to the charges and the record. Then General Howze, President of the court, told the Judge Advocate to take another line of questioning.

Major Guilion read the names of various officers of the army and navy who are in administrative positions in the Air Services. He asked Colonel Mitchell if he considered them qualified to direct military and naval aeronautics.

"It's easy enough for anybody to get a trick license to call themselves flying officers," said Colonel Mitchell.

"Has the War Department a general order defining its air policy?" asked Major Guilion, handing a copy of the order to the witness.

"Yes," replied the accused, "that's it. It is not worth the paper it is written on, and is one of the most dangerous documents that could be gotten up for the national defense."

"Did not the order originate with the Joint Aeronautical Board?"

"Perhaps so, but they are not flying officers."

Colonel Mitchell was asked about a statement he made yesterday in regard to being unwilling to discuss all details of information he had obtained of the air activities in Japan and the suggestion made that he had discussed it with newspaper men.

"I said yesterday that I did not want to divulge the source of my information in open session," the Colonel replied. "I spoke to the press about the number of factories in Japan and the number of airships there and this was a matter of common knowledge to every other person except in the United States."

"Is it one of the duties of the Chief of the Air Service to establish policies?" was the next question, and Colonel Mitchell made another surprise reply.

"Yes," he said, "but he has very little voice in such matters."

Colonel Mitchell said that he was Assistant Chief of the Air Service for six years, including the time when the serviceability tests for the round-the-world flight were made in 1919. There were six deaths during these tests, he said, nearly all of those killed flying in old DH-4 machines.

Prosecution Springs a Surprise.

Then the prosecution sprang its surprise on Colonel Mitchell by asking him if he could remember testifying before Congressional committees in 1918 when he was an officer in the Signal Corps. The witness replied that he could not remember so far back and would have to refresh his memory.

Major Guilion produced a record of Congressional hearings in 1918 and read excerpts from testimony by the Colonel in which he expressed the opinion that there should not be a separate air service and that disgruntled individuals, in his opinion, should not make statements which tended to disorganize the service.

There was a ripple of laughter among the spectators and Colonel Mitchell himself smiled broadly. He is now advocating a separate air service and is on trial for making statements which the high ranking officers contend help to destroy discipline and disorganize the service. But Colonel Mitchell was quick with his reply when asked if he had made the statements attributed to him before a Congressional committee in 1918.

"I was a member of the General Staff then," he said, "and I never made a worse statement. I said a good many things then. That was before the war."

The cross-examination was ended and Attorney Reid, counsel for the defense, questioned the witness. He asked if the Colonel had in mind the defense of the Hawaiian Islands, the Philippines and Alaska, when he made his statement charging the system with almost treasonable administration.

"And also the United States," the Colonel replied.

He was asked if the coast of the United States was properly patrolled and replied in the negative.

Explains His Treason Charge.

Several questions were then asked by General Howze, who had received them from members of the court. Replying to them, Colonel Mitchell said that as Assistant Chief of the Air Service he had made hundreds of recommendations and that there had been no restriction placed upon him.

The court wanted a clearer interpretation of his definition of treason and to determine whether the Colonel in his statement had meant to charge only betrayal of trust.

"I mean," replied Colonel Mitchell, "that the people put their trust in the War and Navy Departments to give the country adequate defenses, and they have not done so."

Asked to be more explicit about his charges that he knew of officers who were afraid to testify as they believed, Colonel Mitchell replied that there had been a number of such cases brought to his attention. He was not asked to give names. Several officers, he said, had told him they were afraid they would be transferred to distant points if they gave information which was not pleasing to those in command.

The court wanted Colonel Mitchell to tell which nation had the largest Air Service and he said he believed Great Britain. He thought either France or Italy had made the greatest progress in technical research and that the United States had made some in certain lines.

Perkins Testifies for Defense.

Colonel Mitchell was excused and Representative Perkins of New Jersey, a member of the Lampert committee of Congress which investigated proposed legislation for a unified Air Service, was called by the defense.

Mr. Perkins said that three naval officers had told him that if they were called they would not testify to what they felt was best. These officers, said Mr. Perkins, said they believed in a unified service, but if forced to go on the stand would testify the other way. When he asked why, one of the officers, according to Mr. Perkins, remarked that "it's a long way to Guam." They all expressed fear that they would be transferred to distant points, Mr. Perkins said.

The court wanted to know if any of the army officers had given Mr. Perkins the impression that they were afraid to testify truthfully about their convictions and he replied in the negative.

Captain A. W. Johnson, Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy Department, was called in an effort on the part of the defense to prove that the production of a moving picture, "The Eyes of the Fleet," as carefully censored by the navy, that it was prepared to show the ineffectiveness of the airplane as an opponent of warships and was intended to counteract the public effect of statements which had been made by Colonel Mitchell.

Mr. Reid produced a copy of a memorandum dealing with the picture and asked Captain Johnson to describe the efforts which had been made to find the original. The Captain said extensive efforts had been made when the department was asked about it a few days ago by the Mitchell defense, but without success. Mr. Reid then asked if, on the original, there was not a pencilled footnote that the object of the picture was to combat charges made by Colonel Mitchell and that the picture was being prepared for exhibition during the Summer before Congress met again.

Counsel for the prosecution objected to this line of questioning, contending that it was necessary for Mr. Reid to prove that there had been an "original" and this Mr. Reid promised to do later on in the trial.

LaGuardia Defends Proceedings.

A good deal of zest was given to the proceedings when Representative LaGuardia of New York was called by the defense. Mr. LaGuardia said that he had been an aviator in the World War and was on the Italian front. He expressed the opinion that anti-aircraft guns were of little or no use for defensive purposes.

When flying over the enemy front, he said, it was possible to see or hear the explosion of the anti-aircraft guns in time to change the altitude of the plane and thereby escape danger of being hit. He replied, "I do not," when asked if he considered anti-aircraft guns a protection against aircraft.

Then Mr. LaGuardia described tests of anti-aircraft fire which he had witnessed at Fort Tilden. One of these, he said, occurred on Aug. 17, 1925. The bombers flew up and down lazily, Mr. La Guardia said, waving his arms to illustrate the movements, while the artillery officers got over in corners with their heads together, like football players.

The method employed, Mr. LaGuardia said unsmilingly, although there was a titter in the courtroom, was to get the planes within range and take a shot at them.

"There was a system of radio messages to coax these planes in range," he explained, and the titter rose to laughter until the Court rapped for order and threatened to clear the room.

Then Mr. LaGuardia produced a number of messages he said were sent to the planes by radio. One of them read: "Wait a few minutes"; another, "Repeat your course by flying in reverse"; another, "Course F-1 O. K., 1,500; what's the lay?"

Still another message read: "Fly course F-3 at 1,500"; another, "Repeat course F-4, do not turn sharply going east"; another, "Repeat your F-4 course and come down 100 yards."

The theory, Mr. LaGuardia said, apparently was that, knowing the exact time of the flight and the altitude of the planes, the artillery could time their firing and might get a hit.

"In New York protected?" he was asked.

"It would be no trouble at all," replied Mr. LaGuardia, "to attack New York from the air if the protection was only by anti-aircraft defense."

Representative LaGuardia was asked about the air equipment used by the militia at Miller Field, and said that there were not enough planes and that those they had could only be flown under ideal weather conditions. He said that one of the boys in his office had been killed in one of the flights. Asked if this had been due to the unfitness of the airplane, Mr. LaGuardia said he could not say, but that there was "no reason why it should take a nose dive."

Says Officers Bow to General Staff.

The prosecution asked but one question in cross-examination, whether Mr. LaGuardia had not made a statement in New York that Colonel "Billy" Mitchell was not being tried by a jury of his peers, but by officers who were prepared to find him guilty.

There was more fun in store for the spectators, however, as the court took a hand in the proceedings and asked him just what he meant by the statement.

The first laugh came when Mr. LaGuardia, turning to the court, said that when he made the statement he did not know General Douglas MacArthur was on the court. He was pressed for further explanation and went on to say that his experience as a member of Congress, with officers of the General Staff, was that the officers generally wished to carry out the wishes and desires of the General Staff.

There was, in his opinion, Mr. LaGuardia added, little that was different in the situation found there from the conditions in political circles. There was, he felt, the same desire to carry out the wishes of those in control.

He said that he had had much experience as a member of Congress with this kind of thing. One officer in the Quartermaster's Office, he said, had told him he had to testify to the worth of a self-greasing axle in order to please a superior.

James T. Williams Jr., editor of The Boston American, testified that copies of propaganda material inimical to the interests of Colonel Mitchell had been brought to him at his offices by an officer, as an example of the material which was given to the service and which had been made available to the press.

The defense was filling a mass of documentary evidence when adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Anthracite Strike

[This is one of a series of advertisements in which the issues of the anthracite strike are discussed]

In advocating continuous operation, pending the making of new agreements, and arbitration to settle differences which can not be disposed of by negotiation, anthracite operators are standing for the policy that is the rule of organized labor as a whole, and of organized society.

It is the exception for workers to reject arbitration and to insist that a strike "automatically" begins when an agreement expires.

The American Federation of Labor is on record as the unqualified advocate of arbitration which has as its object the heading off of strikes and securing continuous production.

Thirty-two unions, barbers, teamsters, printers, stereotypers and many others, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, have contracts embodying the continuous operation-arbitration principle.

Insistence upon the contrary policy of strikes as a first instead of a last resort has brought about three anthracite strikes in less than four years.

The establishment of the habit of peaceful settlement of disputes in the anthracite industry is demanded by every consideration of the welfare of the public, the workers and of the industry itself.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS CONFERENCE

RHINELANDER ASKS TO AMEND CHARGE

Defense Opposes Move to Alter Complaint to Negative Fraud in Annulment Suit.

COURT WILL DECIDE TODAY

Plaintiff's Case Closes—Mrs. Rhinelander Too Ill to Testify—Jacobs on the Stand.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 24.—An attempt to amend the complaint against Alice Jones Rhinelander, the negro wife of Leonard Kip Rhinelander, who is being sued for annulment of their marriage, was made this afternoon after the jury had been excused because Mrs. Rhinelander was too ill to go on the witness stand. Lee Parsons Davis, her attorney, had intended to call her as the first witness, but he said he had to change his plans because of her breakdown after being forced to show part of her body to the jury the day before. She was too weak today to submit to examination.

The request for an amendment to the complaint caused considerable surprise. Former Judge Isaac N. Mills, Rhinelander's chief counsel, after completing his case, in which he attempted to show fraud, said he wished to change the complaint from affirmative fraud to negative fraud. In other words, he wished to charge that whereas Rhinelander may not have believed his wife to be colored, she was guilty of negative fraud when she did not say she was colored. Rhinelander has testified that she said she was white and that he believed her.

Opposed by the Defense.

This situation proved embarrassing for both sides, for neither wants a mistrial—Judge Mills because to withdraw a juror and amend the complaint before trying the suit again would be admitting a weak case, and Mr. Davis because he feels that he has the suit won on the issue as presented and does not want to open the way to a complaint which might be more difficult to oppose. Judge Mills said that the old procedure in amending a complaint during a trial was to withdraw a juror and go to Special Term for an amendment, and argued that under the new Civil Procedure it was possible for Justice Morschauser to permit an amendment, so that it would be permissible for Judge Mills to argue that Mrs. Rhinelander should have told her husband she was colored before he married her.

Mr. Davis objected strenuously to permitting the amendment to the complaint at this juncture, inasmuch as his whole theory of the case had been based upon a complaint which alleged affirmative fraud, but said that, although he did not feel that Justice Morschauser could permit the amendment, he would waive technicalities. He also made it very plain that he did not want a juror withdrawn.

"First they say she said too much, and now they say she said nothing," said Mr. Davis. "Judge Mills wants two arrows to his bow. I won't quarrel over the technicalities involved, but I feel that in asking an amendment at this late date they are guilty of laxity."

Court to Decide Today.

Judge Morschauser said that he would take the matter under consideration and make his decision tomorrow morning. There were some indications that he would not grant Judge Mills's request because of the nature of the case, although it would rest with counsel to end the trial by demanding that a juror be withdrawn and a mistrial declared.

Only a few witnesses were called today. Mrs. Miriam Rich, the wife of the furniture dealer who took Mr. and Mrs. Rhinelander out to dinner and the theatre, furnished some amusement during the morning. She said she was much upset because of a remark she had heard from a member of the Jones family as she passed them on the way to the witness stand, and her resentment was shown in the manner in which she replied to Mr. Davis in his cross-examination. She was indignant at Mrs. Rhinelander, she said, because she had deceived her as to her color when Mrs. Rhinelander was entertained at her house.

"The whole of Mount Vernon had a good laugh at me, and my husband, too," she said.

"You are the laughing stock of Mount Vernon?" asked Mr. Davis, solicitously.

"Yes, in the social circles where I am accustomed," she replied.

The witness said Mrs. Rhinelander told her that "she was a poor girl of dark color, of Spanish descent, and the millionaires didn't want her." She fully believed Mrs. Rhinelander to be white, she said, because she had a dinner at the Jones home and met there twenty refined white people. Mr. Jones said he was English and dropped his "h's," saying his "'appy 'ome had been broken up," she said.

Couple Planned a Reunion.

The witness testified that Rhinelander telephoned to her on the night he was taken away from the Jones home by Mr. Jacobs and asked her to take good care of his wife and that he would never forget her. At this time Mrs. Rhinelander was staying at Mrs. Rich's house. The Rhinelanders had planned a reunion which never took place, she said. They intended to give a dinner at their apartment, which they occupied for a short time, the witness continued, and invite Philip Rhinelander, young Rhinelander's father, and some of his friends. The Riches were to be included. Mrs. Rich also said she had been told it was Leon R. Jacobs, one of Rhinelander's attorneys, who suggested that the Rhinelanders had better separate for a time because of the Ku Klux Klan.

At the start of the afternoon session Rhinelander was recalled to the witness stand and Mr. Davis asked him:

"You remember the day you applied for the marriage license, don't you?"

"Yes," he replied.

"Did the man to whom you applied ask either of you if you were white or colored?"

"No."

"He just put it down himself?"

"Yes."

"That's all," said Mr. Davis, and Rhinelander resumed his seat at the counsel table.

Judge Mills then announced that the plaintiff rested his case.

Davis Begins Defense.

Beginning his defense, Mr. Davis said that he had been forced to change the presentation of his defense because of Mrs. Rhinelander's illness. He moved to dismiss the complaint, but the motion was denied by Justice Morschauser.

The first witness Mr. Davis called was Mrs. Barbara Reynolds of New Rochelle, who at the time the Rhinelander marriage first became public was a newspaper reporter.

"Do you know Mr. Rhinelander?" Mr. Davis asked.

"Yes, I met him Nov. 13, 1924," she said.

"Where did you meet him?"

"In the Jones residence."

"Under what circumstances?"

"I was there to get an interview for the Standard News Association."

"What was said?"

"I was waiting at the house and Mr. Rhinelander came along. The first question I fired at him was, 'Mr. Rhinelander?' and he said 'yes.' Then I knew he was my man. I asked him 'is it true that you are married to the daughter of a colored man?' and he said 'yes.' Then I asked him where he had been and he said he had been in New York. I asked him if his people were alive. He said his mother was dead. I asked him if it would make any difference if his father knew of the marriage. He replied, 'Oh, yes, it means my wife's happiness and mine.' He asked me to withhold the story."

Defense Calls Jacobs.

Leon R. Jacobs, one of Rhinelander's attorneys, was next called by Mr. Davis, and some sharp exchanges were anticipated, as all through the trial Mr. Davis had made him the target of many of his remarks. The examination was brief, however, and devoid of incident. Mr. Jacobs said he did not draw up the bill of particulars, which Rhinelander admitted to be false in many of its representations, but that Judge Mills had done so. Mr. Jacobs said he got the facts from Rhinelander and told them to Judge Mills, who dictated the bill.

Robert Brooks, a butler, and negro brother-in-law of Rhinelander, was then called and proved to be one of the most modest witnesses in the case. He said that Mrs. Rhinelander introduced Rhinelander to him and that he later saw him nearly every night at the Jones home. Rhinelander never showed that he noticed Brook's color, the witness said, or objected to it, and they soon began to call each other Leonard and Bob.

Rhinelander came to his home for dinner, he testified, and also played cards with him when some of Brooks's friends were present. "All my friends are colored," he said. This was in 1924, the year that Rhinelander married Alice Jones.

After the adjournment it was announced that there would be no sessions of the court on the Friday after Thanksgiving, and as Mr. Davis does not expect to finish until tomorrow night, the case probably will go into next week.

Doumergue Declines to See Soviet Envoy When Latter Insists on Having "Red" Music

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Diplomatic Paris is talking today of an incident between the Quai d'Orsay and the Soviet Embassy. When preparations were begun for his official reception by President Doumergue at the Elysée Palace, Christian Rakovsky, the new Russian Ambassador, sent to the Presidential Palace a request that the Garde Republicaine Band play the "International." Master of Ceremonies de Fouquières replied politely that in France the Red tune was considered a revolutionary song and that while the French did not question the rights of Moscow to choose it as its favorite selection, the occupant of the Paris Presidential Palace did not feel the same way about it, and that the band would play the "Marseillaise," with which he hoped Mr. Rakovsky would be content.

This did not satisfy Rakovsky. He went to the Quai d'Orsay and insisted to Foreign Minister Briand that the Elysée must echo to the strains of the "International." He even brought Senator de Monzie along to back up his insistence. M. Briand, in warm tones, replied that no order signed by him would ever make the Garde Republicaine Band play the Soviet hymn. Rakovsky went away furious. The French Government forthwith took Rakovsky at his word that he would not go to the Elysée unless the "International" was played and he has been notified that the President of the Republic will not receive him. He retains the privilege of presenting his credentials at the Quai d'Orsay without ceremony and without the "International" at any time he feels like it.

PARIS, Nov. 24 (AP).—Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Soviet Russia, who is now in Germany, is expected to visit France soon. Official circles say he has made no arrangements to see Foreign Minister Briand and that no overtures have been made from Moscow regarding the opening of debt-funding negotiations or other matters. It is thought that he will go directly to Southern France. He has been on a leave of absence because of illness.

POLICE VEX CROPSEY IN BRUTALITY CASE

Justice Holds Two Detectives and a Patrolman Accused of Beating Prisoner.

ASSAILS ANOTHER AS LIAR

Orders a Policeman From Stand as Drunk and Says Some Men on Force Shield Others.

Things moved with surprising swiftness in the Brooklyn Supreme Court yesterday afternoon when Justice Cropsey, sitting as a Magistrate, resumed the inquiry into charges of police brutality brought by Bernard La Porta, who was arrested early on the morning of March 29 for killing Nicholas Cataldo, a friend, in the Ambassador Dance Hall at Manhattan and Meserole Avenues, Brooklyn. The scene of the alleged beating with fists, rubber hose and blackjacks was the detectives' room at the Greenpoint police station, and the charges involved two detectives and three policemen. In the two-hour session of the court one policeman reached the witness chair only to be ordered from the stand as intoxicated, and another policeman was accused by the Court of lying and declared to be part of a system which makes a policeman lie rather than testify against other members of the force.

After taking the testimony, Justice Cropsey held Detectives Fred Wendberg and John J. Cosgrove and Patrolman Henry C. Camping of the Greenpoint Station in $500 each for Special Sessions. Charges against Policemen Peter M. O'Brien and James P. Seymour of the same station were dismissed.

Neither Captain Charles E. Lee of the Greenpoint Station nor Lieutenant Joseph Brown, in charge of detectives in that district, threw much light upon the treatment La Porta received after his arrest at the dance hall. Captain Lee was off duty at the time. He testified that he did not see La Porta until about three days later in the Greenpoint Hospital, where the prisoner was taken after his collapse in the Bridge Plaza Court, and where he remained for a month. The lieutenant was also not on duty on the early morning of March 29, and when he saw the prisoner he noticed only that he had an eye closed and that his face was swollen.

Heard He Was Beaten in Hall.

The witness said he had heard that La Porta was beaten up in the hall. It was Wendberg who told him this, he said. Justice Cropsey wanted to know whether the policeman had seen La Porta beaten up, and the Lieutenant replied that they had not seen the beating.

Lieutenant Louns C. Wagner was in a small room at the station house in the early morning hours of the day of the arrest. The scene of the alleged beating was in the next room, and there was a door into the room where Wagner was on signal monitor duty, but the witness said he heard no outcries nor sound of scuffling. The same testimony was given by Sergeant John Shattuck, who relieved him.

It was Patrolman Matthew Maloney who with Patrolman Peter O'Brien arrested La Porta after the shooting, who aroused the Court to make the statement that the witness was palpably lying. He and O'Brien took the prisoner back up the stairs of the dance hall and then to the station house. He said he had handcuffs on La Porta and that he went on one side of the prisoner and O'Brien on the other. He said that as the three came down the dance hall stairs La Porta either fell or tripped him and the three fell in a heap at the bottom of the stairs. It was then that La Porta got his pants torn. At that time, he said, La Porta had a black eye and a cut on the face.

Robert E. Elder, counsel for the policemen, asked the witness if La Porta had not resisted arrest, and Maloney replied that he had and that he had to drag him part of the way to the station house.

"Why this prisoner only weighs 130 pounds," said Justice Cropsey. "Why couldn't you carry him?"

The policeman said that they had not carried La Porta, but had dragged him along the street with the handcuffs on.

"Did you require medical attention?" asked the Court. "No," said the witness.

When Justice Cropsey wanted to know why the witness had not told all the facts to the District Attorney, Maloney said that Mr. Dodd did not want to hear any more. This statement brought Assistant District Attorney James I. Cuff to his feet and he read from the minutes of the Dodd inquiry to confound the witness. Justice Cropsey insisted: "Why didn't you tell the District Attorney you dragged him all the way to the station house?" The policeman replied that Mr. Dodd had told him: "That's all."

"He did not," said Justice Cropsey emphatically. "You have just said he did not. Why do you want to lie about it?"

Next Witness Causes Stir.

The next witness reached the witness stand by navigating a course close along the wall of the courtroom. He gave his name as Christopher B. Schweide, or so the court stenographer got it, a policeman of the Greenpoint station.

"Where have you been today?" asked the Court. The witness with a confidential air said that he had just broken a leg.

"What?" said the Court in surprise. The witness replied that it was true and that it happened yesterday.

"This witness is drunk," was the judicial opinion. "Get a doctor and we will find out."

Other witnesses took the stand and it was about ten minutes later that Dr. John J. A. O'Reilly of the District Attorney's office arrived. "This man says he has a broken leg," the Court told the physician. "Take him into the other room and if he has not a broken leg find out what else he has."

As the doctor and the policeman started toward the side room Captain Lee started after them. Justice Cropsey asked him where he was going and the Captain said the policeman was one of his men.

"We don't need a police captain in there," said the Court. "We have trouble enough without any more in it."

Captain Lee attempted a reply, but the Court shut him up with a sharp, "Sit down."

When the examination was concluded Dr. O'Reilly said the witness did not have a broken leg but appeared to have been drinking. Schweide told the Court that he was not drunk, but that his nerves were on edge. He said he had been off duty, on vacation, for two weeks. Justice Cropsey took a parental attitude in his talk to the policeman, but ruled he was too drunk to testify.

"Now, Captain," he said to Captain Lee, "if you wish to talk to your officer you can do it. Perhaps you will think he is not drunk."

Other Police Testify.

Several policemen of the Greenpoint Station testified, but none had heard outcries and none had seen any beating of La Port. The police witnesses included several on duty at the Bedford Avenue Station, for it was to that station La Port was taken to a cell.

One of them, Bernard Mayer, who had been in charge of the cells, admitted on the stand that he had not asked La Porta if he wanted medical attention. Pressed by Justice Cropsey, he said he knew that the regulations required that such a question be asked a prisoner.

"I know it used to be in the rules," said Justice Cropsey, "but it seems to have been forgotten."

While holding that no case had been made against O'Brien and Seymour, the Court refused a plea by Mr. Elder that Cosgrove be discharged. Mr. Elder pointed out that Cosgrove had not been in the station house until after 3 A. M. The Court said that much had happened after that time. Justice Cropsey gave it as his opinion that no conscientious trier of the facts would discharge the three policemen he ordered held.

Justice Cropsey then declared that it was men like Maloney who brought discredit upon the whole department. His opinion was, he said, that it was men of his stamp who were part of "the system that swears any way to help a fellow-officer out."

The three accused policemen were released in the custody of their counsel. They will be admitted formally to bail this morning.

WALLSTREETTRADER OUT AFTER 58 YEARS of them, many a time, have underestimated his resources and tried to "slap him" with so much stock that he would have to call a halt. He would simply take all offered, in his own peculiar manner, and then proceed to bid up the market for more, if he was bullish, or offer more, if bearish.

One of the most tempestuous battles of his long career was with Jesse L. Livermore in Baldwin. Livermore, then known as the "boy trader" and with tremendous resources because of recent successes, started to sell Baldwin after Mr. Field had acquired a big line of it. Some in Wall Street say this line was about 100,000 shares and that it stood him around $100 per share. Livermore, who at that time made most of his money on the short side, decided the stock was too high and started to sell it, continuing to pour stock into the market up to $110. Field took most of it and added continuously to his line.

The position became more difficult because at that time Livermore had a big following in the stock market and when the word was spread about that he was selling Baldwin, many other speculators jumped into the market and helped him sell. Field stuck to his guns. He continued to stick by them, and bought almost the entire capital stock of the Baldwin Locomotive Company. He showed every inclination to buy more. Finally, the offers on the short side became less and less frequent and aggressive. Field sensed the weakness and began to bid for stock. Soon he had the convoy of bears bidding through the nose for stock with which they had tried to overwhelm the courageous trader.

Lost Millions in Woolen.

Now and then he lost money in the market. Many times Jakie Field has recounted to friends the whipping he was obliged to take in American Woolen, when that corporation was in the heyday of its success under the leadership of William M. Wood. He acquired a large line at between $110 and $115 a share on what he considered Grade A information. Later he ascertained that a pool in Woolen had unloaded its stock on him, had given him the celebrated double cross, and that the people who gave him the information had been selling stock to him. By the time he was able to retire and wipe his stock slate clean of American Woolen it was close to $70. He had lost several million dollars.

near-by Absecon. He was asked if any decision had been reached by the Governor as to a successor to Major Gen. Charles W. Berry, Controller-elect, as head of the National Guard. Mr. Olvany replied that he understood the appointment was still open. It will be made by the Governor soon after his return from New Jersey. He is expected back on Sunday or Monday.

Mr. Olvany said that contrary to some reports, he did not expect to take a hand in the selection of a successor to Mayor-elect Walker in the State Senate. The vacancy must be filled at a special election to be called soon by the Governor. Mr. Olvany said that those chiefly concerned were the district leaders in the territory included in the Twelfth Senate District, which is made up of the First and Second Assembly Districts.

In the first, Daniel E. Finn is leader of the west side part, and Assemblyman Peter Hamill of the east side part. In the Second, Representative Christopher D. Sullivan is the east side leader and Harry C. Perry leader on the west side. Finn, Hamill and Sullivan all were at the Wigwam and talked with Leader Olvany. Mr. Finn, who undoubtedly will be in a position to name Walker's successor, said that a meeting would be held, probaly on Monday, at which a man would be selected.

Mr. Olvany said he understood that John J. Ryan, secretary to Park Commissioner Francis D. Gallatin, had a pretty strong following. Mr. Ryan has had legislative experience, having been a member of the Assembly for three terms.

Name of Leonard Kip Rhinelander Not in 1926 Edition.

The name of Leonard Kip Rhinelander was omitted, it was learned yesterday, in the 1926 edition of the New York Social Register, which is now being distributed to subscribers.

Young Rhinelander's name and the name of his wife were printed in the January, 1926, list of dilatory domiciles, and the date of their marriage and the names of Mrs. Rhinelander's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, were given. Mrs. Rhinelander's name was omitted in the yearly directory of 1925 and now young Rhinelander's name, hitherto printed with that of his father, Philip Rhinelander, has been omitted.

COMMISSION NOT TO MEET.

Reorganization Executive Committee Only Convenes Friday.

By inadvertence it was said in an article in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday morning that there would be a meeting of the State Reorganization Commission, headed by Charles Evans Hughes, at the Bar Association rooms on Friday morning. The meeting on Friday evening, however, is not of the full commission, but of its Executive Committee.

It was pointed out yesterday that not only members of the commission who had attended the opening meeting of that body last Thursday when organization was effected had been appointed on the several subcommittees by Mr. Hughes, but that these committees had been made up from the official roster of the commission, including every person invited to serve who had signified his or her willingness to become affiliated with that body.

QUEEN'S BODY TO GO TO LONDON QUIETLY

King Wishes the Time of Arrival Kept Secret to Avoid Any Display Tomorrow.

AMERICANS IN PARIS MOURN

Thanksgiving Day Dinner There Is Canceled in Tribute to Britain and Canadian Guests.

By T. R. YBARRA.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—By special request of King George, the Lord Chamberlain commanded today that no news be given out regarding the time when Queen Alexandra's body will be brought from Sandringham to London. Information was refused on whether the body would arrive in London at the Liverpool Street station or the King's Cross station.

It is expected, however, that the body will be brought to London late Thursday afternoon or early in the evening, and be taken across the city to the Chapel Royal in St. James's Palace after dark.

Officials in charge of the funeral are concentrating on Friday as the principal day of ceremony, and wish to make the arrival of the body on Thursday and its transfer to the chapel as quiet and inconspicuous as possible.

The route of the procession from the Chapel Royal to Westminster Abbey will be via The Mall, through the Admiralty Arch and down Whitehall and Parliament Street. Troops will line the entire route and the bands of Guards regiments will play funeral music. There will be no mounted troops. The navy's representatives in the procession will be 200 men from the Portsmouth Gunnery School, a party of unarmed seamen from the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, and fifty marines.

Two thousand policemen will be detailed to special duty in connection with the funeral.

Space is being reserved in Westminster Abbey for members of Queen Alexandra's household and 300 Members of Parliament. Admission to the abbey service will be restricted to ticket holders.

"Yeomen of the Guard," the picturesque "Beef Eaters" from the Tower of London, well-known to countless American visitors, will mount guard beside the Queen's coffin Thursday night in the Chapel Royal. They will resume their watch in Westminster Abbey after the service has been held there on Friday, and continue the guard until the removal of the Queen's body to Windsor Friday evening.

Steady Pilgrimages to Sandringham.

The pilgrimage to Sandringham Church was continuous today during the hours when people were allowed to pass the coffin of the Queen Mother. At one time the line of autos outside the park was half a mile long, and people afoot and on bicycles came in steady procession. They belonged to all classes. It was market day in the near-by town of Kings Lynn, and many farmers, when they had finished their business there, drove out to Sandringham to pay tribute to the memory of her Majesty.

Among the floral tributes by the side of the coffin today there was noticeable a little spray of two red carnations, to which a card was attached, reading:

"From your faithful old C.—A." It came from Miss Charlotte Knollys, her Majesty's aged friend and ladyin-waiting. A large number of wreaths is reaching Sandringham House, from members of the royal family down to the humblest servants of the dead Queen. There is a little bunch of cream-colored roses with a card saying they are from "Stephen, a little boy of 6, who will always remember how the Queen smiled at him a few weeks ago."

Children will have a prominent place on Thursday when the gun carriage conveys the coffin to Wolferton station for removal to London. All the schools on the estate will be closed and children of West Newton and Sandringham will be grouped inside the park while the body is borne through the line of little ones to the main road. Children from other royal villages will be stationed at points along the road.

Foreign Minister Chamberlain today informed the Foreign Ministers of the powers intending to sign the Treaty of Locarno here ton Tuesday that, owing to the changed program caused by the death of Queen Alexandra, the British Government would consider it natural if authority to sign the treaty were given to the Ambassadors in London.

He added, however, that any Foreign Ministers preferring to come to London themselves would be assured of a warm welcome.

The decision that in view of the death of the Queen Mother all festivities in connection with the signing of the treaty would be canceled already had been communicated through the British Foreign Office to the Governments.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The American Club of Paris has canceled its annual Thanksgiving eve dinner here "as a mark of profound respect and condolence to the British nation on the death of Queen Alexandra, and in token of sincere sympathy for their Canadian friends, particularly the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, and Senators Beaubien and Wilson, who were to be their guests of honor on that occasion."

Service in St. Paul's Chapel Here.

A memorial service for Queen Alexandra will be held at noon on Friday in St. Paul's Episcopal Chapel, Trinity Parish, Broadway, between Vesey and Fulton Streets.

The service will be attended by members of the Sulgrave Institution, Daughters of the British Empire and the Society of the Sons and Daughters of St. George. The officiating clergyman will be the Rev. Dr. Joseph P. McComas, the vicar.

Destroy Bust of King and Garden When Prince of Wales Visits There.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—A "rag" by Cardiff University students, involving the capture and destruction of a bust of the King, a scuffle with the police, the destruction of the valuable botanical garden and the wrecking of the university Common Room, took place when the Prince of Wales visited Cardiff.

The students placed the bust on the ground and gave the college yell around it. When the police tried to intervene the students formed an immovable scrimmage wall.

An attempt by Technical College students to capture the trophy led to a row in which one college boy had his arm dislocated.

Princess Mafalda Has Influenza.

DR. STIRES ELEVATED TO THE EPISCOPATE

that it was "a pressing necessity." At one point he criticized Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

While he urged that the Church not thrust itself forward in lay matters, the Bishop said that "science without a soul is a menace, just as the State, industry and society without a soul is a menace."

At the close of his sermon, Bishop Brent addressed himself directly to Dr. Stires, who had been seated, with his attending presbyters, at the foot of the chancel steps and in the middle aisle. Dr. Stires rose as the Bishop turned to him, and, with uplifted face followed his words intently. Bishop Brent urged upon the rector zeal in his new post.

The colorful procession of churchmen that preceded the service in the church assembled in the parish house of St. Thomas's at 3 West Fifty-third Street, at 10 o'clock. There the clergymen, many from points far out on Long Island and from up-State, donned their robes. Most of them wore the simple white surplice of their office, with the stole about the neck, but scattered through their ranks were the color splashes of the hoods of collegiate degrees.

Promptly at 10:30 o'clock the procession filed slowly out of the parish house and moved along Fifty-third Street to Fifth Avenue and thence, through the main doors, into the body of the edifice.

Order of the Procession.

A crucifer was at the head of the marchers and he was followed by Dr. T. Tertius Noble, organist and choirmaster, leading the choir of St. Thomas's, wearing white vestments. Flagbearers preceded the master of ceremonies, the Rev. Dr. Edward Clowes Chorley, and the marshals, the Revs. Wilbur L. Caswell, Charles K. Gilbert, William H. Owen Jr., Wallace J. Gardner, De Witt L. Pelton and Robert S. W. Wood.

The next group was composed of the city's Protestant churches. They included the Rev Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, pastor emeritus of the Park Avenue Baptist Church; the Rev. Dr. Howard Duffield, the Rev. Dr. Christian W. Reisner, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church; the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Madison Avenue Methodist Church; the Rev. George H. Smyth of Hartsdale, N. Y., and the Rev. Dr. Edward S. Emett, pastor of the Manhattan Congregational Church. Following these clergymen were the ministers of other dioceses of the Episcopal Church, more than fifty being represented.

The robes of the Dean and Faculty of the General Theological Seminary brightened the spectacle at this point. The rather stiff wind, which whipped the flags and surplices, caused several of the older men in the procession to hastily raise their academic hoods for protection. In the ranks of those representing the seminary were the Very Rev. Hughell E. W. Fosbroke, Dean, and Professors Frank Gavin, Leonard Hodgson and Charles H. Boynton.

The clergy of the dioceses of New York and of Long Island were at this place in the procession, and next in line were the Wardens and Vestry of St. Thomas. The Wardens were Charles Steele and William H. Truesdale and the vestrymen were Charles H. Stout, George H. Fahy, Alexander M. Hadden, Samuel W. Fairchild, Robert B. Dodson, Lancester Morgan, William Fahnestock, William A. Kissam and Robert Scoville.

Many Visiting Clergy.

Diocesan officials of Long Island preceded the Dean and chapter of the Cathedral of the Incarnation at Garden City, which will be Bishop Stires's See. The Very Rev. Oscar F. R. Treder as Dean walked in advance of the chapter, the lay members of which were Edward H. Floyd-Jones, Walter R. Marsh and Charles Stewart Butler. The Archdeacons of the Long Island diocese, the Rev. Dr. William Holden, the Rev. Roy F. Duffield and the Rev. G. C. Clark, were the vanguard of the diocesan Standing Committee. The committeemen were the Rev. Dr. H. C. Swentzel, the Rev. Dr. St. C. Hester, the Rev. W. R. Watson, the Rev. Dr. J. Clarence Jones, Townsend Scudder, Colonel Jackson A. Dykman and Robert Low Pierrepont.

Dr. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Trinity, as a crucifer, walked before the bishops who participated in the rite. Back of him came the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Pardee, Secretary of the Episcopal House of Bishops, and the Most Rev. Alexander, Archbishop of the Greek Church in North and South America. The Bishops, marching in twos in the order of their consecration, were:

Warren L. Rogers, coadjutor, Ohio.

Music In the Church.

Dr. Stires was behind the group of Bishops, attended by the Rev. Dr. Milo H. Gates, Vicar of the Chapel of the Intercession, and the Rev. Dr. Alexander G. Cummins, rector of Christ Church, Poughkeepsie. The presenting Bishops, who were William C. Brown of Virginia and Bishop Coadjutor Charles Lewis Slattery of Massachusetts, followed.

Bishop Brent, as the preacher, was in front of the co-consecrating prelates, Bishop John Gardner Murray of Baltimore and Bishop William T. Manning. Bishop Talbot, as presiding ecclesiastic, was last.

Even before the procession began to wend its way slowly down the aisle the hymns of processional had begun. The sweeping majesty of the sacred music, the deep tones of the organ and the blending voices of the male choir gained in volume as the clergymen proceeded into the church. The Bishops were escorted to chairs within the altar rail, while the others were seated in pews in the main aisle which had been set aside for them.

When all were in their places Bishop Talbot began the communion service. He offered a prayer and then were read the collect, the epistle, Acts xx., 17, and the Gospel, which was from St. Matthew, xxviii., 18. The congregation joined the clergy in reciting the Nicene Creed and as the intonations of the many hundreds died echoing in the vaulted roof, Bishop Brent entered the pulpit for the sermon.

He recalled the boldness with which Jesus claimed authority over all things, and after analyzing His courage Bishop Brent gave it as the first duty of modern Christian leadership to "renew Christ's claim of authority over all things."

"The trouble is in the specialisms of science," he said. "Our day is analytic. Science remains as Gilbert White defined it, 'the extension of a common knowledge,' but its various departments, which have been pursued independently, are only now being drawn together again into a unity of variety. Institutes are being established for welding together the findings of the various branches of science. The human mind is capable of receiving the whole truth, but it is small in its greatness. Its common fault is generalization from insufficient data, from a single branch of study with inadequate references to other branches. And so we get 'biologisma' and other 'materialisms.'

"A man may be tripped to a fall and be cooped up in materialistic darkness by resting in the findings of a single science. This can easily become the fate of a modern student unless he is taught from early childhood to live and think in the whole world with the recognition that Jesus Christ is in supreme authority over all.

"I recognize that I am reasoning from the opposite pole to my friend Harry Emerson Fosdick in November Harper's. He speaks for those who 'strain after a cosmic theory, a belief in God as an hypothesis to explain the universe, and often they have a desperate time getting it.' Then he recommends a creed beginning with 'I believe in Man,' on the score that Christ 'could have gone on through a long and peaceful lifetime saying what he pleased about God, but he was hated and crucified because of his attitude toward man.'

"Precisely so. But was not his mind toward man the logical conclusion of his mind toward God, whom he invariably called 'Father'? He is making theology practical. If God is His Father, then men are brethren. He clung tenaciously to God as His Father and the father of the human family, and in this was able to deal with man as brother, and only so. There is more peril than help in any other approach. The main effort of Jesus Christ was to secure from men belief in Him, the son of man, as the Son of God that all men might accept God as Father and man as brother. It is this which lifts up the whole human race to an unwonted height.

"Again, it is the part of a Christian leader today to accept his position and to teach and preach as one commissioned by and for the whole Church, 'a priest in the Church of God.' He cannot be anything less or look upon himself as anything else. The seat of sectarianism and of catholicity is within the soul. It is neither boastful nor presumptuous for one to insist upon the broadest possible relationship with the whole Church of God. No thoughtful man today can conscientously submit to ordination or consecration to life and service that is not as wide as human contacts permit.

Must Act for Unity.

"Who would be satisfied with being a Bishop in a church which contains a couple of million members, or less than 2 per cent. of the total population of the United States—this and nothing more? A true man wishes to lend himself to the largest possible ends at least to reach his own notion, which is but a fragment of his whole duty, by his service. I admire the quiet assumption by which the Pope proclaims himself to be the 'servant of the servants of men,' and considers the moral and spiritual well-being of the race as being in his keeping. I would emulate it and spur others to emulate it in the spirit of love —whosoever would become great among you shall be your servant; and whosoever would be first among you shall be bond servant of all.'

"We must act as if there was unity, and unity will come in the doing. We must relate our Christianity to that of others by whatever means will best bring about an understanding and a fellowship, without ignoring or injuring the special gift we enjoy and which it is our business to make available for the whole fellowship. Our light is a light to be set on a candlestick, that it may light the whole house. It is not to be kept safe under a cover, where it will be protected from the wind. It must be put within the gaze of all men. The more catholic a Church claims to be, the more it should be found in the thick of things, displaying its catholicity to those who do not have it. Aloofness and service are not friends."

Bishop Brent said that while there were those who questioned the authority of Jesus "over politics, national and international, industry and economics," the blame rested chiefly with the churchmen, who "have weakly surrendered or weakened the jurisdiction over life which Our Lord committed to His Church.

"We seek for reconciliation and cooperation here," he said, "as in the case of religion and science. The duty of the Church is not to interfere with the proper functions of the State, of science, of economics, but to claim final jurisdiction over the moral and spiritual implications in their operation.

Soulless Science a Menace.

"It is the common business of the Church to enlist in the service of the Kingdom of God on earth technical and expert knowledge of every sort. If it does not, there will be, indeed there already is, the devil to pay. Science without a soul is a menace. So is the State, so is industry, so is society. St. John says any organization or phase of life apart from God 'lieth in the evil one.' We should aim at the focusing of all that is best in Christian thinking about the present social life of the world, its merits and defects, its tendencies upward or downward, the opportunities it affords Christian witness and service and the possibilities of shaping it along better lines.

"If this is true, then it can never be sufficient for the Bishop of a diocese to be content with having jurisdiction over a group of parishes considered as religious clubs without reference to the community of which they are a part. The diocese of Long Island is a redeemed waste cast up by the sea, made beautiful as a resting place and a playground for rich and for poor. The City of Brooklyn is a marsh land framed into a populous borough of the largest city in the world. It is waiting to be given a soul, its races reconciled, its divisions healed, its materialism cured, its economics Christianized, its politics purified and its mission discovered."

The Bishop commended this vision of his diocese to Dr. Stires, adding that "unity is no longer a beautiful dream." He declared that civil law had too often superseded God's law in the mind of the average citizen, and that until mutual understanding was achieved between the churches their progress would be halting, like that of a lame man. He said that Dr. Stires's preparation for the episcopate had been rich and full.

Dr. Stires rose as Bishop Brent leaning over the pulpit, spoke directly to him. The bishop urged Dr. Stires not to be fearful of being misunderstood in his new post. "The way of the fearless leader is lonely," he reminded him, and advised him to face his problems confident in the authority vested in him.

Upon the conclusion of the sermon, Dr. Stires was vested with his rochet, a garment similar to a surplice but with closer sleeves. He was then conducted to Bishop Talbot who was seated in front of the altar.

"Reverend Father in God," were the words of the presentation, "we present unto you this godly and well-learned man, to be ordained and consecrated Bishop."

Bishop Talbot, in accordance with the rite, asked whether the customary testimonials dealing with Dr. Stires's personal and religious life had been prepared. Informed that they were ready and waiting, the Bishop directed that they be read. The certificate of Dr. Stires's election as Bishop was read by Dr. J. Clarence Jones. After reading the document, which he did facing the congregation, Dr. Jones handed the certificate to Dr. Chorley.

The canonical testimonial, dealing with the meeting of canon law, was read by Origen S. Seymour, for the Standing Committee of the Long Island diocese. The certificate of ordination, narrating Dr. Stires's ecclesiastical preparation and attesting to it, was read by the Right Rev. Beverley Dandridge Tucker, Bishop of Southern Virginia.

The consent of the Long Island Standing Committee to the consecration of Dr. Stires was presented by the Rev. Dr. Henry G. Swentzel, rector of St. Luke's Church, Brooklyn. The impressiveness of the proceeding and the nervous reaction upon those participating was plainly reflected in Dr. Swentzel. His hands shook so much one could hear the rustling of the paper he held. The consents of the Bishops were then read by the Right Rev. Lucien L. Kinsolving, Bishop of Southern Brazil.

Dr. Stires was conducted close to Bishop Talbot and stationed to stand facing him. The retiring Presiding Bishop of the House of Bishops required Dr. Stires to make the Constitutional Declaration. Dr. Stires's voice was strong and clear as he said:

"I do believe the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament to be the Word of God and to contain all things necessary to salvation; and I do solemnly engage and conform to the doctrine, discipline and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America."

The Promise of Conformity.

Bishop Talbot then asked the candidate for the Bishopric to give the "promise of conformity."

"In the name of God, Amen," was the response. "I, Ernest Milmore Stires, chosen Bishop of the Protesant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Long Island, do promise conformity and obedience to the doctrine, discipline and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America. So help me God, through Jesus Christ."

Rising from his chair, Bishop Talbot, his hands lifted as though calling down a benediction, asked the congregation to pray.

"Brethren," he said, "it is written in the Gospel of St. Luke that our Saviour Christ continued the whole night in prayer before He chose and sent for His twelve Apostles. It is written also that the holy Apostles prayed before they ordained Matthias to be of the number of the twelve. Let us, therefore, following the example of our Saviour Christ and His Apostles, offer up our prayers to Almighty God, before we admit and send forth this person presented unto us to the work whereunto we trust the Holy Ghost hath called him."

All in the church then knelt and said the Litany, the congregation responding to the lines as read by Dr. Stetson. The full order of the consecration service was contained in pamphlets which had been handed to persons entering the church. The text of the Litany, however, was not included, and when this point in the rite was reached there was a fluttering of the leaves of Prayer Books throughout the church as the congregation turned to find the place.

In place of the words "that it may please Thee to illuminate all Bishops," the Litany was altered, as more appropriate to the occasion, to read: "That it may please Thee to bless this our brother elected, and to send Thy grace upon him, that he may duly execute the office whereunto he is called, to the edifying of Thy Church and to the honor, praise and glory of Thy Name."

Congregation Hears Examination.

After a short prayer Bishop Talbot again addressed Dr. Stires.

"Brother," he said, "forasmuch as the Holy Scripture and the ancient canons command that we should not be hasty in laying on of hands and admitting any person to government in the Church of Christ, which He hath purchased with no less price than the effusion of His own blood; before we admit you to this administration we will examine you in certain articles, to the end that the congregation present may have a trial and bear witness how you are minded to behave yourself in the Church of God."

Bishop Talbot then put the following questions to Dr. Stires and received the following answers:

Q.—Are you persuaded that you are truly called to this ministration, according to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ and the order of His Church? A.—I am so persuaded.

Q.—Are you persuaded that the Holy Scriptures contain all doctrine required as necessary for eternal salvation through faith in Jesus Christ? And are you determined out of the same Holy Scriptures to instruct the people committed to your charge; and to teach or maintain nothing, as necessary to eternal salvation, but that which you shall be persuaded may be concluded and proved by the same? A.—I am so persuaded and determined by God's grace.

Q.—Will you then faithfully exercise yourself in the Holy Scriptures and call upon God by prayer for the true understanding of the same; so that you may be able by them to teach and exhort with wholesome doctrine and to withstand and convince the gainsayers? A.—I will so do, by the help of God.

Q.—Are you ready, with all faithful diligence, to banish and drive away from the Church all erroneous and strange doctrine contrary to God's Word; and both privately and openly to call upon and encourage others to the same? A.—I am ready, the Lord being my helper.

Q.—Will you deny all ungodliness and worldly lusts, and live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world; that you may show yourself in all things an example of good works unto others, that the adversary may be ashamed, having nothing to say against you? A.—I will so do, the Lord being my helper.

Q.—Will you maintain and set forward as much as shall lie in you, quietness, love and peace among all men, and diligently exercise such discipline as by the authority of God's Word and by the order of this Church is committed to you? A.—I will so do, by the help of God.

Q.—Will you be faithful in ordaining, sending or laying hands upon others? A.—I will so be, by the help of God.

Q.—Will you show yourself gentle and be merciful for Christ's sake to poor and needy people and to all strangers destitute of help? A.—I will so show myself, by God's help.

Bishop Talbot closed the examination with a brief prayer, and as the choir sang a hymn Dr. Stires was assisted into the remainder of the Episcopal habit, donning the chimere, or upper robe, of black satin, with loose sleeves of lawn. He was then led to the prayer desk and then "Veni, Creator Spiritus" was said over him, Bishop Talbot quoting one verse and the congregation the one following.

"Lord, hear our prayer," said Bishop Talbot, in closing the antiphony.

"And let our cry come unto Thee," responded the congregation.

Takes His Place as Bishop.

Moving with measured steps, the consecrating Bishops walked down to form the circle about the kneeling Bishop-elect, Bishop Talbot having recited a final prayer. The words of consecration were said and hands were placed upon Dr. Stires, and he was made a Bishop, going to his place with his fellows, as the presiding Bishop placed the bread and wine of the Holy Communion upon the altar.

Throughout the ceremony Mrs. Stires and the immediate family occupied a pew in the first row. After Bishop Stires and the other prelates had partaken of communion, Mrs. Stires and her four sons knelt at the altar rail. The sons were Ernest Van R. Stires, who is in the second year of his studies at the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va.; Hardwick Stires, who is in business here; Arthur Stires, also in business in New York, and Milmore Stires, who is a freshman at Cornell. The wife of Hardwick Stires was with him. Mrs. Ernest Van R. Stires, who was Miss Louise Homer, eldest daughter of Mme. Louise Homer, Metropolitan opera star, was unable to be present. Mrs. Hardwick, the mother of Mrs. Stires, was in the group of thirteen at the altar.

After the communion service had ended the procession reformed, but this time returned to the parish house through the church. Those who were in the ranks of the marchers joined Dr. and Mrs. Stires at the Hotel Plaza as the luncheon guests of the Warden and Vestry of St. Thomas's.

Bishop Stires will preach the Thanksgiving Day sermon at St. Thomas's tomorrow. It will be his last sermon as rector of that church. He will be installed in his see of the Cathedral of the Incarnation next Sunday, and will conduct the service following his installation. On Sunday night he will dedicate an organ in Holy Trinity Church, Clinton Street and Montague Street, Brooklyn, in memory of Charles J. Peabody.

Bishop Stires's first confirmation will be that of the class in St. Matthew's Church, Tompkins Avenue and McDonough Street, Brooklyn, on Dec. 2.

Who Was Consecrated Bishop of Long Island in St. Thomas's Church.

TAX BILL PRAISED AS NON-POLITICAL

Republicans and Democrats Declare Partisanship Was Set Aside in Preparing Measure.

MANY COMPROMISES MADE

DEEPER CUTS STILL SOUGHT

Garner and Hull Give Democratic View of the Bill and Mills Speaks for Republicans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The nonpartisan aspect of the $330,236,600 tax reduction bill just approved by the Ways and Means Committee was heralded by Democrats and Republicans today as the outstanding feature of this measure. Representatives Garner of Texas and Hull of Tennessee, Democrats, and Representative Mills of New York, Republican, came out in statements declaring that politics should have no part in revenue legislation and that it was their hope that the committee had established a precedent in that respect.

The fact that compromises were necessary between men of the two parties before the bill could be carried to completion in the committee was emphasized by Mr. Garner and Mr. Mills, both intimating that without this adjustment the committee would have been in a hopeless tangle. While Mr. Mills did not estimate the ultimate figure the bill would involve, Mr. Garner and Mr. Hull expressed the view of the majority when they said it would reach $350,000,000 before it left the Senate.

A point of difference in Democratic ranks was shown when Mr. Hull said he would like to have seen smaller personal tax exemptions than those passed by the committee on motion of Mr. Garner. The latter called for $3,500 exemption for married men and gained his point, but Mr. Hull said today that had the figure remained at $2,500 all the unisance taxes could have been repealed. Mr. Garner thinks they can all be repealed anyway, as he looks for a $100,000,000 surplus in 1927-28.

Representative Garner said in his statement:

"The proposed tax bill is not what I would have written, nevertheless it is tax reduction and better than the present law in many particulars, and th t is what the American people want. All important legislation is the result of a spirit of patriotism and compromise, and that spirit was manifested by the members of the committee. The result is that for the first time in more than half a century we have a peacetime major tax bill framed upon a non-partisan, statesmanlike basis.

Differed Chiefly on Amount of Cut.

"The principal difference between the parties in this bill is that the Democrats (I think it is the viewpoint of them all) believe that the reduction is not as great as it can be and ought to be. In fact nearly every member of the committee was impressed with the idea that at least $350,000,000 taxes could be repealed and most of them were of the opinion that $400,000,000 reduction could be had without the slightest injury to the Treasury.

"If the present proposed reduction is left in the bill, I venture the assertion that there will be a surplus for the fiscal year 1927-28 of more than $100,000,000, and there will be another demand for tax reduction at that time."

Representative Mills's statement said:

"While, of course, all of its provisions do not accord with my own personal views, the bill is in the main sound and is the first measure that has come from the Ways and Means Committee since we first started to raise big money, some ten years ago, in which economic facts did not have to give way to political theories.

Says Relief Is Distributed Fairly.

"It distributes the relief from taxation with fairness among all classes of taxpayers; reduces the excessive rates of the present law; eliminates provisions injected into the law by the partisan conflict of 1924 and condemned by taxpayers and tax administrators alike; closes a number of existing gaps, strengthens the administrative machinery, and, generally speaking, lays a solid foundation for a peacetime tax system.

"I would have preferred to repeal the Federal estate tax now rather than at some future date, just as I would have been better pleased with a 15 per cent. maximum rate rather than a 20 per cent. one. But, in view of the confusion which exists in the field of inheritance taxes, I am not disposed to criticise those who, until the confusion has been cleared up, believe that the Federal Government should not retire.

"I believe that the present personal income tax exemptions are liberal enough. In a Democracy like ours it is almost essential that as many citizens as can with justice be asked to should have a direct, even if very small, financial interest in the cost of government.

"But here again I am disposed to go along. It is impossible to have a nonpartisan bill and a unanimous report without concessions on both sides. The proposed exemptions are below those granted in the 1916 law which may fairly be said to represent the American conception of a peacetime income tax, and, with the increase in the cost of living, there is something to be said on the other side."

The statement by Representative Hull said in part:

"The tax measure unanimously ordered reported to the House is a wise an splendid bill, with certain important exceptions, and the harmonious and constructive manner of its preparation is proof that internal taxes are essentially nonpolitical. The new bill further illustrates what the Ways and Means Committee would doubtless have accomplished much earlier had not officious outside interference confused and obstructed the legislative situation.

"Had the maximum graduated rates on income and inheritance been dropped for the present to a 25 per cent. maximum and the exemptions for arried persons left at $2,500, with $400 for dependants, Congress could have repealed all, or virtually all, temporary war and nuisance taxes and also given substantial relief to those with incomes of $25,000 to $80,000. It is never justifiable to reduce our permanent taxes to the lowest peace level until temporary war taxes are first removed.

"In view of revenue necessities, I doubt the wisdom of the committee in departing from this view, as well as its action in making the repeal of the higher estate tax rates retroactive to June 2, 1924. This latter action grossly violates every rule of sound public policy. The committee should have avoided this $20,000,000 loss in revenue and at the same time effected other reductions and repeals to the extent of $350,000,000. I trust the foregoing readjustment may be made in the House or Senate."

NOEL'S COUNSEL ASKS CLEMENCY FOR SLAYER

Tells Court of Pardons at Trenton That Youth Is Insane—To Seek New Trial if Effort Fails.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 24.—William A. Wachenfeld, counsel for Harrison W. Noel of Montclair, convicted slayer of Raymond Pierce, appeared today before the Court of Pardons at the State Capitol here and pleaded for clemency on the ground that the youth is insane. After listening to his argument the court adjourned late in the afternoon and instructed Mr. Wachenfeld to return next Tuesday for further presentation of his case. Noel was sentenced to die in the electric chair at the State Prison here in the week of Jan. 10. In addition to the Pierce murder Noel kidnapped and killed little Mary Daly of Montclair.

Mr. Wachenfeld came to the State House in the morning prepared to ask Chancellor Walker for a writ of error to the Supreme Court in the hope of obtaining a new trial for Noel, or, failing that, to appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals, the highest State court. After a conference with Merritt Lane, who was Noel's counsel shortly after the alleged crime, but who did not appear in the trial, it was decided to ask the Court of Pardons to intervene.

Should the present move fail, it is understood that Mr. Wachenfeld will then fight for a new trial for Noel.

Noel, who was sentenced on Monday, will be taken from his cell in the Essex County Jail in Newark today and placed in the death house in the State prison in Trenton. Noel maintained throughout the day the same apathetic attitude which has characterized his behavior since he was arrested.

WHITNEY SPENT $29,389.

TALK OF PERSHING LEAVING ARICA SOON

Dispatch of the Denver to Take the Place of the Rochester Is Only Move by Washington.

CAPITAL SILENT ON BREAK

Ex-President Alessandri Assails Americans for a Program of "Conflict, Discord and Hatred."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP).—Washington officials continued to watch with apparent concern today the developments in the situation in Tacna-Arica growing out of President Coolidge's arbitral decision in the old dispute between Chile and Peru over those provinces. The only comment, however, was an official explanation that the movement of the cruiser Denver from Panama to Arica had been ordered merely to relieve the Rochester, which has been there since Aug. 2 and is in need of repairs.

Unofficial reports, meanwhile, have shifted the centre of interest from the complicated details of preparation for the plebiscite ordered to determine sovereignty over the provinces and the protests of Chile against expected demands for new guarantees, to the person of General Pershing, the American chief of the plebiscitary commission.

With the news that the Denver had been ordered to hold itself in readiness to proceed to Arica, it became known that General Pershing had hoped to visit the United States for the Christmas holidays. Whether he still plans to leave Arica in the face of the difficulties that have arisen in connection with the plebiscitary mission's work is not known here. The decision rests with General Pershing.

General Pershing did not communicate with the State Department on Saturday, Sunday or Monday, but full reports on the situation which arose on Saturday in the withdrawal of the Chilean delegation are understood to have been received today. No information was given out, however, respecting their contents.

Alessandri Blames Americans.

ARICA, Chile, Nov. 24 (AP).—Americans in Arica are accused by the former Chilean President, Arturo Alessandri, of promoting "conflict, discord and hatred" between Chile and Peru instead of trying to solve peacefully the dispute over Tacna and Arica.

The former President's charges were made in a speech delivered yesterday afternoon at the funeral of a carabinero, José Zurita, who was killed in an attack last Friday on a carabinero station house at Morutia.

"We went to Washington," Señor Alessandri said, "and there met with the justice and cooperation for the work of peace which we were looking for. But through events, which I hope will be corrected, those charged with carrying the olive branch as messengers of that great American people, instead of bringing peace, seem to have carried out a program bringing conflict, discord and hatred among the two peoples which they were to join with the holy bonds of fraternity and love."

Chile had given all the guarantees demanded preliminary to holding the Tacna-Arica plebiscite, with the result that Chilean carabineros were killed. The Chileans were replying to injustices with kindness, but their patience would end and then "we will rise to show the world that the sons of this land know how to fall in defending justice and right."

COOLIDGE AROUSED BY LEWIS'S LETTER

the principal developments in the coal situation here yesterday.

Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, Health Commissioner, opened the first of the soft coal demonstration stations at the health centre at 192 Hester Street, in the heart of the east side. He announced that similar demonstrations will be held in all Department of Health centres throughout the city beginning today.

Dr. Monaghan personally built a roaring soft coal fire in an old-fashioned stove at the Hester Street centre, with Frederick S. Bevin, Chief of the Special Service Division, and Joseph Lonergan, Chief Sanitary Inspector, standing by with kindling and scuttles.

After bringing the coal to a blaze, Dr. Monaghan explained the various points to be observed in making soft coal fires in the anthracite-burning equipment generally used here. He said that success depended upon proper handling of dampers to make sufficient draught, and reminded that narrow flues tended to check the rush of air and thus delay combustion and retard the carrying off of gases. He also emphasized the need of keeping a red spot of fire constantly visible to ignite gases given off by this type of fuel.

The 75,000-ton shipment of Welsh anthracite was reported received yesterday by Burns Brothers, and executives of the corporation said it was the beginning of a steady flow of coal from overseas. The coal arrived in eight specially chartered steamers, which had been delayed a few days by gales at sea. Additional fleets were on the way, which, it was said, would assure a regular importation of about 75,000 tons a week.

Burns Brothers asserted the foreign anthracite burned better than Pennsylvania anthracite, being slightly more brittle. Yesterday's shipment included all sizes, from stove, egg and nut to the smaller varieties. The stove coal, it was said, would be sold at the prevailing prices for anthracite here. These were quoted at from $20 to $22 a ton. The actual price would be announced today, after transportation costs had been figured, it was said. A sample truckload of the new coal will be exhibited in front of the Hudson Terminal Building at 30 Church Street about 11 o'clock this morning, it was announced.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP).—Major W. W. Inglis, Chairman of the Anthracite Operators' Scale Committee, said tonight that he would confer tomorrow with Governor Pinchot at Harrisburg. Major Inglis received a telegram from the State Executive today asking him to meet the Governor at the capital at his earliest convenience.

LEWIS WILLING TO RESUME.

Would Present All Demands Before Having Judgment Passed.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24 (AP).—Continuance of the strike in the hard coal fields was placed on the shoulders of the anthracite operators tonight by John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, who declared that he had made overtures for a resumption of the wage negotiations, but that they had been passed by the mine owners unheeded.

"The miners," said Mr. Lewis, "in a statement last week, offered to resume negotiations for a new working agreement with the operators covering a period of from one to five years, provided the negotiations would be amicable.

"Several days later the anthracite operators' committee met in the Railroad Club, New York, but at the conclusion of this meeting there was no answer to my statement. Monday that same committee met in the office of Samuel D. Warriner, and whether or not they discussed our proposal, they did not respond. The public is interested in knowing their attitude. 'Why don't we hear from them?'

In interpreting his meaning of "amicable" negotiations the miners' leader said he would sit with the General Wage Scale Committee of the miners and the negotiating committee of the operators to hear the fifteen demands of the miners without passing judgment on the demands until they had been fully presented. He said he took this stand because of frequent references by the operators that they would consider nothing that would disturb the factor of mine costs, which would eliminate the request of the miners for a 10 per cent. increase in wages.

COAL REGION LEADERS ACT.

Business Men Seek Plan for Resumption of Wage Parleys.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP).—Representatives of civic organizations throughout the anthracite region met here today in an effort to devise a plan to bring about a resumption of the wage conferences between the hard coal operators and the miners. The meeting lasted four hours and was behind closed doors. E. W. Giering, President of the Wilkes-Barre Chamber of Commerce, presided. A brief statement, given out at the conclusion of the meeting, said:

"A meeting was held this afternoon in Scranton by representatives of various chambers of commerce of the anthracite region to discuss the anthracite situation.

"Ralph E. Weeks, E. J. Lynett and R. A. Amerman, constituting a special committee to act as Scranton Chamber of Commerce mediators, reported their efforts to date.

"After a thorough deliberation the Scranton committee was instructed to formulate some practical method by which a resumption of conferences between miners and operators could be negotiated."

COMMISSION TO ACT ON IRISH BOUNDARY

It Decides That Dr. McNeill's Resignation Does Not Invalidate Its Award.

HE QUITS DUBLIN CABINET

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The Irish Boundary Commission, following a conference with a representative of the British Government tonight, announced its intention to deliver its award at an early date and intimated that the resignation of Professor Eain McNeill, representative of the Irish Free State, was not in its view valid.

It is difficult to see in the face of the Commission's determination how a crisis will be avoided in Ireland. The award as soon as issued will become law if the commission is right in its contention that the resignation of one of its members has not invalidated its decisions.

The Irish Times declares tonight that the stability and prestige of the Cosgrave Government suffered a severe shock and that its fall would almost certainly shatter the constructive work of the last four years and reopen sluices of political social disorder.

Eamon De Valera has issued a statement warning the Free State that the award of the other body provided for in the Irish Treaty, the Financial Commission, will be even more disillusioning.

Professor McNeill has not only resigned from the Boundary Commission but has quit his post as Minister of Education of the Free State as well, and his resignation has been accepted. He made a personal explanation in the Dail Eireann today in answer to the comment on his resignation yesterday by the remaining members of the commission.

Laying particular emphasis on the fact that he always regarded himself as a plenipotentiary, he said he had agreed with his fellow-commissioners to preserve absolute secrecy and had been so faithful to the agreement that his own brother did not know what the commission was doing. He wished to controvert, he said, most distinctly the coloring which the statement issued by the Boundary Commission yesterday gave to the facts. It was true, he said, that he had agreed as to the high desirability of arriving at unanimous award.

"I think it would be wrong, indeed absurd, to suggest that I bound myself in advance to accept any award," he declared. "If, pursuant the formulation of an award which would be based on the right principles of interpretation and their consistent application."

There had been profound differences between himself and the chairman, Justice Feetham, on the fundamental principles of interpretation, he added. Dr. McNeill had held that Article XII. of the Irish Treaty meant that the people of the border land would be enabled to exercise the franchise denied and withheld by the Act of 1920. Justice Feetham has held that the 1920 act and the time elapsed since had created a status quo which ought not to be departed from unless absolutely necessary. He had been influenced in reading Article XII, Dr. McNeill charged, by a political condition, namely, that if the wishes of the inhabitants were found to indicate a desire to be included in the Free State and if inclusion would have the effect of seriously reducing the area of the six counties as to produce a political effect on the North, then the political consideration should override the wishes of the inhabitants.

Dr. McNeill said that a completely revised boundary line was presented to him on Oct. 17. He had come to the conclusion that as a whole that line could not be defended. It is indefensible as a right interpretation of the treaty and, he declared, therefore, he withdrew from the commission, not without reluctance as he had been anxious to secure an award that could be signed by the three commissioners.

He had also resigned from the Cabinet he asserted, as he did not feel he ought to belong to a Government responsible for dealing with the situation that had now been created.

Thomas Johnston and other members of the Dail pressed for a statement of the Government's position, whereupon President Cosgrave, jumping to his feet with obvious impatience, said:

"It isn't sufficient to say tear up the treaty and let's have another scrap."

He declared that the situation was so grave that he could not even indicate a date on which he would be able to state the Cabinet's policy, and declared that if the Dail were dissatisfied with this attitude he would call on the Government to resign.

Macy Christmas Parade Tomorrow.

The annual Christmas parade conducted by R. H. Macy & Co. will take place tomorrow morning, starting from 145th Street and Convent Avenue at 9 o'clock. The line of march will be down Convent, Morningside and Manhattan Avenues to 110th Street, west to Broadway, south to Columbus Circle and south on Eighth Avenue to Fortieth Street. The procession will end in front of the new Macy Building on West Thirty-fourth Street. Five bands, clowns, wild animals from the Central Park Zoo and uniformed toy soldiers will march in the parade.

COL. COOLIDGE GETS UP AND TAKES AN OUTING

President's Father Shows Great Vitality After His Illness, but Is Still Weak.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Nov. 24 (AP).—Today saw Colonel John C. Coolidge, father of the President, up and out and fighting for his health after more than a week's battle against a dangerous attack of heart disease.

Just before Dr. Coupal's departure, Colonel Coolidge came out on the porch of his house and shook hands with newspaper men, who congratulated him on his recovery. Then, unassisted, although leaning slightly on a slender cane, he walked down the steps from the porch to the lawn.

There, despite a bitter wind, he posed while photographers snapped him in various positions. The Colonel smiled and showed that he enjoyed the experience, and bravely removed his hat to allow himself to be "caught" bareheaded.

Led by the Colonel, the party then moved across the road for a brief inspection of the woodpile alongside the Community Church. References to the pile brought smiles to the face of the President's father, but he admitted he didn't feel quite as well as he looked.

"Are you expecting to go to Washington for Thanksgiving?" he was asked, and his reply was characteristically brief.

"I'll let you know," he said.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Coolidge is uncertain whether his father will be here for the Winter. Word received from Major James F. Coupal, the White House physician, says the Colonel is not suffering from organic heart trouble, but that the heart blocks are due to weakened blood vessels in the brain. If they should become worse or more frequent, it is feared that paralysis may result.

WISE CHALLENGES FUND.

Again Insists Russian Colonization Must Not Dominate.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, speaking in behalf of the Executive Committee of the American Jewish Congress, of which he is President, issued another challenge to the Joint Distribution Committee yesterday to say clearly how it plans to apportion the $15,000,000 it expects to raise for relief and land settlement in Europe. Dr. Wise said:

"Up to this time there has been no response to the suggestion of the American Jewish Congress, at its Philadelphia session, that the Joint Distribution Committee give out a budgetary statement indicating in a general way the proportions in which the moneys to be collected are to be expended in Eastern and Central Europe, particularly with reference to the project of colonization in Russia.

"If the work of relief is to be carried on in a broad and beneficent way, the most adequate provision must be made for the one outstanding and hopeful opportunity of creative settlement, namely, in Palestine, and it must be made clearer than it has yet been made that the extension of Russian colonization is not to become the dominant feature of the relief program of the Joint Distribution Committee."

Dr. Joseph A. Rosen, who sailed last night on the Mauretania, to continue his work of Jewish land settlement in Russia, said that nearly 30,000 Jews had settled as farmers on land allotted by the Soviet Government, under his guidance, in the last four years. He predicted that the number would be doubled in 1926.

REDS' LAWYER CLASHES WITH JUDGE IN LONDON

Ex-Liberal M. P. Is Prevented From Implying That Home Secretary Is Guilty of Contempt.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Lively passages between Judge and counsel today diversified the hitherto even tenor of the trial of the British Communist leaders at Old Bailey.

W. M. R. Pringle, a former Liberal member of Parliament, who is appearing for two of the defendants, alleged that the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, in a speech last night had approached perilously near to contempt of court, if he were not actually in contempt of court.

Mr. Justice Swift then said:

"If the Home Secretary has been guilty of contempt of court, then you must move in the ordinary way before the proper tribunal."

Mr. Pringle retorted:

"I have felt it my duty because at this stage of the proceedings"—

Justice Swift: "Let me hear no more of it."

The Home Secretary, addressing his constituents last night, is reported to have said:

"I have held myself in restraint during the last few weeks. I have made no speeches in reference to communism or the position of Russia as affecting communism in this country. But when the trial is over those of you who are Communists will be ashamed of yourselves."

Another scene followed when Mr. Pringle, in pointing out to the jury the danger of taking isolated passages from speeches and documents, illustrated his point by beginning to read a speech by Lord Carson in Parliament on the Ulster question. The Judge stopped him.

Mr. Pringle objected that he had been deprived of "the fairest weapon in the memory of an advocate—a concrete illustration."

"You are not deprived of anything," interrupted the Judge sharply, "and I will not allow you to tell the jury so."

Sir Douglas Hogg, the Attorney General, then commenced his speech for the Crown, which he will continue tomorrow.

sued a call for a special session at the Legislature eight years ago for the purpose of startling impeachment proceedings against Governor James E. Ferguson, and that immediately following this call the Governor issued a proclamation for the convening of the Legislature to consider certain subjects of legislation. This action on his part, however, did not prevent the House from going ahead and conducting an investigation which led to Ferguson's impeachment by the Senate.

Plans Full Investigation.

It is the avowed purpose of Speaker Satterwhite and other members of the House who have petitioned him to issue a call for a special session to investigate all branches of the State Government. It is stated that an auditing of the books of the Highway Commission, the penitentiary system and other departments over which Governor Ferguson, through her husband, Jim Ferguson, has exercised more or less direct supervision will be one of the first things ordered by the House. No person ventures to predict how long the session will last.

The only statement coming from the Governor's office, which might be taken to indicate that she requested the resignations of Chairman Frank Lanham and Joe Burkett, of the Highway Commission, was this formal note to the press:

"The Governor stated she has been doing her best to work out the situation in view of the interest of all parties concerned."

Following his resignation communicated to the Governor over the telephone yesterday Burkett sent her the following telegram:

"Realizing that there is much criticism of your Administration because of suits recently brought involving the Highway Commission, for whose acts you are in no way responsible, and whose acts have as a matter of fact been in all good faith to further the best interests of good roads in Texas and for the best interest of the State, and not desiring to hinder but rather to help your Administration, which has been a most successful one, I herewith tender my resignation as Highway Commissioner, effective at your pleasure.

"I have done no wrong. I have given of my time and money to build up a better system of roads in Texas, and especially West Texas, and I am sure the people of that section will testify that the roads there are in better shape than ever before. But under the present conditions I feel that my serving on as a member of the commission will handicap road building in Texas to some extent at least, and also your Administration. I am not selfish enough to put personal preference ahead of the good of your Administration."

Mr. Lanham, one of the resigned Commissioners, appeared before the Grand Jury today in response to a subpoena. He was in the Grand Jury room for two hours. It is reported the Grand Jury will make its final report tomorrow.

Moody to Federal Supreme Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A young pleader before the Supreme Court today attracted much attention. He was Dan E. Moody, Attorney General of Texas, who argued the side of his State in a nineteen-year-old controversy with Oklahoma over boundary lines.

Mr. Moody will return to Texas tomorrow to resume charge of the inquiry he is conducting into charges of frauds in State highway contracts.

"The matter of the highway cases is before the Grand Jury and in view of that I do not think it proper for me to discuss it," he said today. He also took the position that it was not proper for him to discuss reports that an effort would be made to impeach Texas's woman Governor, who, with Mr. Moody, led the fight against the Ku Klux in last year's Democratic primaries.

RA'L MEN SURVEY COMMUTER AREAS

State Suburban Transit Body Inspects Sites Proposed as Terminals to Relieve Traffic.

THREE PLANS CONSIDERED

Commission to Announce Findings Dec. 15—Will Recommend Them to Legislature in February.

Members of the New York State Suburban Passenger Transit Commission and officials of the four railroads serving the commuting traffic of Westchester and Long Island made a tour of inspection yesterday of these areas in connection with the investigation being carried on to relieve the congestion in the terminal facilities of New York. The commission, appointed last April by legislative action with the approval of Governor Smith, will consider three proposed plans for transit relief at its final meeting on Dec. 15 in the rooms of the Bar Association, and will at that time draw up recommendations which are to be submitted to the Legislature next February.

It was pointed out by Leverett S. Miller, President of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad, that the chief problem in taking care of the enormous commuting traffic lies in terminal facilities within the city.

"As soon as traffic warrants it," he said, "we are ready to extend our line to Port Chester, build permanent stations to replace the present temporary ones, and add necessary equipment. We could today increase our traffic 100 per cent. with added cars, and with increased shop facilities and shortening of signal blocks this figure could again be doubled. In other words, our present commuting traffic of 10,000,000 yearly could be increased to 40,000,000. But Port Chester is as far north as we can go until we get relief in the terminals at the south."

Mr. Miller said that since the increase in commutation rates on the New Haven and traffic on the New York, Westchester & Boston had increased 40 per cent.

No indication as to which of the proposed plans was favored by the commission was made by J. Griswold Webb, Chairman of the body. In addition to the Harkness, Brinckerhoff and Turner plans the details of which have already been made public, the commission, Mr. Webb said, may consider a fourth.

The party left the Grand Central Station at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the special business car of E. J. Pearson, President of the New Haven Railroad. After inspecting construction work at Larchmont and Port Chester the party boarded two special cars of the New York, Westchester & Boston Railroad, stopping to inspect the 180th Street station, Manhattan. Crossing the Hell Gate Bridge after a luncheon in the Pearson car, the party visited the site of the proposed union railroad terminal and proceeded to the Pennsylvania Station by way of the New York Connecting Railroad and the Long Island Railroad.

Schoharie County Gains 262.

ALBANY, Nov. 24 (AP).—State census figures made public today by Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, Secretary of State, gave Schoharie County a population of 21,565. This is a gain of 262 during the past five years, and, with one exception, is its first increase since 1860. Between 1875 and 1880 the county gained 535 residents.

FOREIGN DECORATIONS DON'T WORRY COOLIDGE

He Thinks Americans Receiving Them Will Not Feel Beholden to the Givers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Coolidge does not hold the same view as Senator Norris as to the effect of foreign decorations on Americans. There are said to be 2,322 Americans, soldiers, public men and others, who received the Legion of Honor from France.

In the opinion of the President substantially all the decorations were bestowed as a friendly appreciation for efforts made by Americans during the war and after its conclusion. The President does not think that any recipient would feel himself beholden in the future to the nation so honoring him, but would accept the honor merely as an appreciation for something done in the past.

Secretary Kellogg informed Senator Norris today that he did not have the entire list of Americans decorated, but only the number of Government officials so honored.

BAZAAR TO BE OPEN TONIGHT

Crowds at W. K. Vanderbilt House Necessitate Evening Sessions.

On account of the crowds that have thronged the W. K. Vanderbilt house at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-second Street since it was opened for inspection on Monday afternoon, Miss Anne Morgan and Miss Elizabeth Perkins, who have arranged the exhibition and bazaar for the Film Mutual Benefit Bureau, announced yesterday that special exhibitions would be given tonight and Saturday evening. The proceeds of the exhibition are being used by the bureau to further its work among the poorer school children of this and other large cities.

The principal feature this evening will be a fashion show depicting the costumes of society women from the time the mansion was built in 1880 up to the present time. The show has been arranged by Best & Co. and twenty mannequins will exhibit the different gowns.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be an old-fashioned Thanksgiving party. Ted Lewis and his jazz band will play for dancing.

On Saturday evening the American Woman's Association will be sponsors of a party for members and their friends.

The Imprudence of Prue

Some of Aunt Prue's most recent conduct has been so unusual we hoped she wouldn't mind breaking into print. She assured us she would be delighted.

"When I read the newspapers," she said, "I know how Cousin John felt when he refused to go to any more funerals.

"He couldn't feel right at his friends' affairs unless he could invite them to something in return."

So we are able to report Aunt Prue's quaint way of using a combined waxer and polisher as a baby carriage.

She should be told that the purpose of the affair is to eliminate the necessity for groveling on hands and knees to wax and polish floors.

It not only does the work better but it operates as easily as a carpet sweeper. One side waxes, the other side polishes and the whole thing complete costs $25.00.

WOMAN TESTIFIES AGAINST VAN RIPERS

Miss Maud Tefft, Ill, Brought From Reformatory as Witness in Alleged Mail Frauds.

CRIES TELLING OF LOSSES

Was Sentenced for Using Bank's Funds in Oil Speculation—Never Regained Money, She Says.

Miss Maud E. Tefft, shabbily dressed and a sufferer from tuberculosis, was wheeled into the Federal court yesterday to testify for the Government in the trial of Lewis C. Van Riper, his son, Charles E., and nine other defendants on trial before Judge William H. Sawtelle on a charge of fraudulent use of the mails. Miss Tefft had been brought here from the Rhode Island Reformatory, where she is serving a sentence of eighteen months for having used for her own purposes about $60,000 of the funds of the Kingston (R. I.) Trust Company, where she was employed as treasurer.

The Van Ripers and their associates are accused of having sold for hundreds of thousands of dollars worthless stocks in several companies which they are alleged to have had organized for swindling purposes. How they got hold of Miss Tefft did not appear, but when they found her she had saved more than $16,000 of her earnings and was looking forward to a comfortable old age, she testified. Harry Hedrick, who published a "financial" paper in the interests of the various Van Riper schemes, was the first of the defendants she saw, Miss Tefft asserted.

Several prospectuses of oil companies were spread before her, she testified, and all promised fabulous returns. Finally, she said, she selected the Ertle Oil Company as the most alluring, and invested the major part of her savings in the stock of this concern, and spent the rest in buying stock of the Great Northern Gold Mines and of the Pareo Oil Company, all of them promoted by the Van Ripers and their associates.

Fearful on Stand.

Up to this point Miss Tefft maintained her composure. She sat in the witness chair clad in a dark blue waist and skirt and a brown cloak trimmed with fur. Her hands were bare. She can speak only in a whisper and the nurse and guard who came with her from the reformatory repeated her statements when the lawyers failed to catch them. When she began to tell of losses and her fear that her savings would be wiped out and how, perhaps, she could save them if she only had a little more capital, her voice frequently was tearful. She almost collapsed when she told of "borrowing" from the trust company without the knowledge of its officials.

Miss Tefft was questioned by Federal Prosecutor George S. Leisure, who led her gently along to describe her many talks with Hedrick and how much money he obtained from her. In about ten months, she said, she had turned over to him about $50,000 of the trust company's funds, and on one occasion she loaned Hedrick $1,000, besides paying money for worthless stock. When she had reached the point where it appeared that she could not get any more money without detection, Hedrick's interest in her, she explained, began to fade. Once she was so anxious to see him that she called him on the long-distance phone and asked him to help her return some of the money she had taken. Otherwise, she told him, she would have to serve a term in prison. On another occasion she explained that the bank examiners were due at the offices of the trust company and that they would be sure to miss the money. But Hedrick remained cold, she said.

During the many talks with Hedrick, the witness testified, he had told her that he would help her over any sudden emergency and that very soon her stock would begin earning enough money to enable her to pay all she owed and to live in comfort even after. But nothing ever came of these promises. Miss Tefft's testimony was not shaken by cross-examination. When her ordeal was over she was wheeled out of the court and began her journey back to the reformatory. The trial will be continued today.

SCAFFA ASKS DISMISSAL IN DONAHUE GEM CASE

Lawyer Says Indictment Is Not Justified—Court Reserves Its Decision.

Decision was reserved by Judge Talley in General Sessions yesterday on the motion of Frederick J. Sullivan, counsel for Noel C. Scaffa, a private detective, for dismissal of the indictment against Scaffa last month in connection with the return of $663,000 worth of jewels stolen from Mrs. James F. Donahue on Sept. 30. Mr. Sullivan contended that the indictment, which charges compounding a felony in accepting the jewels from Sam Layton and paying $65,000 for their return, was not justified by the evidence presented to the Grand Jury.

Chief Assistant District Attorney Pecora, opposing the motion, said that Scaffa's statement to the prosecutor on the day the jewels were handed over to the police by the detective showed that the return of the jewelry was effected "under circumstances showing an implied agreement to compound a crime."

Scaffa has until today to file additional briefs supporting his contention, and forty-eight hours were allowed the prosecutor to file answering briefs. Scaffa will have to appear in court today, however, to enter his plea of not guilty.

Admits She Stole $500 for Finery.

An indeterminate term in the penitentiary was imposed yesterday by Judge Mancuso in General Sessions on Mrs. Hattie Silverman, 23 years old, of 1,773 Vyse Avenue, the Bronx, when she pleaded guilty to attempted grand larceny. She was accused by John J. Heitler, President of the Ripple Garage Company, 4,350 Broadway, of stealing about $12,000 in the ten months she clerked for him, but she told Judge Mancuso that the total of her thefts would not amount to more than $500. She spent the money for personal adornment. She was paid $35 a week.

ALDERMEN ALL VOTE TO KEEP RENT LAWS

Board Unanimously Asks the Legislature to Extend the Statutes.

SAYS CRISIS STILL EXISTS

Removal of Restrictions Would Put Poor at Mercy of Profiteers, Resolution Adds.

The Board of Aldermen went on record unanimously yesterday as favoring an extension by the State Legislature of the emergency rent laws which, unless extended, will expire on Feb. 15 next.

Action was taken by the Board of Aldermen in the form of a resolution introduced by Alderman Edward W Curley of the Bronx, setting forth that a housing crisis, as proved by the recent public hearings before the State Commission on Housing and Regional Planning, still existed. The Curley resolution was seconded by Alderman Peter J. McGuinness, who declared that the emergency rent laws should be reframed so that they would have more and sharper "teeth" to prevent unscrupulous landlords from ruthlessly raising the rent of every new tenant. Alderman McGuinness said that in his district, the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, landlords had advanced rents in jumps of from $10 to $25 when new tenants moved into their apartments.

The Republican wing of the board, led by Minority Leader John Wirth, joined the Tammany members in favoring the extension of the emergency rent laws. Alderman Wirth, however, said he had never been convinced that the emergency laws had been really beneficial to the class they were primarily intended to help in the housing crisis. He declared that they had not greatly encouraged the building of the types of moderate-priced walk-up apartments that are so badly needed to reduce congestion among tenants of limited means.

The resolution, which will be sent to Governor Smith and both branches of the Legislature, says that over 100,000 families would be at the mercy of "unprincipled and profiteering" landlords if the rent restrictions were removed.

GET MAN WITH STOLEN ART.

Paris Police Seize Uruguayan Carrying Three Masterpieces.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—A young Uruguayan art dealer named André d'Angiois, born in Montevideo 28 years ago, was arrested today in Paris while carrying three pictures by van Ostade, Corot and Henner, stolen from the Museum at Laon, France, on Saturday.

The capture was due to a suspicious Paris antiquarian, who was asked by d'Angiois to estimate the value of the pictures, which were similar to the published descriptions of those missing from Laon.

The antiquarian warned the police, who waited near his shop until the Uruguayan left with the pictures under his arm. D'Angiois was carrying two other pictures which he said he bought in a Paris sale, and the police are checking his statements.

BOARD'S SHIP SALES TOTAL $60,000,000

GIVES RECORD SINCE 1921

Shipping Board's Chairman Answers Manufacturers' Export Association of New York.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—T. V. O'Connor, Chairman of the Shipping Board, made public today the text of a letter he has sent to the American Manufacturers Export Association of New York in reply to its resolution charging that the present organization of the shipping agencies of the Government "appear to be inadequate and to interfere with the acquisition and operation of shipping by private capital" and demanding that "as soon as practicable existing steamship services be turned over to private enterprise."

In his reply Chairman O'Connor states that the policy of the Shipping Board "has been one of persistent effort to sell ships to private capital" and that since 1921 it has sold 965 vessels, aggregating approximately 4,000,000 tons, for more than $60,000,000.

He points out that the board, in trying to sell ships, disregards the original cost and that its principal efforts are to obtain continued operation of the vessels, guarantees of adequate service, and to learn the financial ability and seagoing experience of buyers.

The letter says in part:

"We would welcome any suggestion which would assist in the transfer of the present Government-owned fleet to private American capital for guaranteeing operation faster than is being done at the present time; and certainly we would be glad to know where the present Government agencies interfere with the acquisition and operation of shipping by private capital, provided it refers to private American capital. * * *

"The Shipping Board's policy has been one of persistent effort to sell ships to private capital, and since 1921 it has sold to private capital 965 vessels, for which it had received something over $60,000,000. We still have many ships for sale. Do any members of your association want to buy them? Or do you know any other American who wants to buy? The board, in trying to sell ships, disregards the original cost. Continued operation, guarantee of adequate service, the financial ability and seagoing experience of the buyer—these are the chief considerations. * * *

"I note that among your directors are included important executives in some of the largest manufacturing companies in the United States. I wonder to what extent these manufacturers are using American owned vessels for their export trade? You would know more about that than I. Many of the ships which we are now operating we are unable to sell. We might sell the same ships very readily if they carried 50 per cent. of the American exports.

"I am sending herewith a copy of a list of ships sold by the board since 1921 totaling 965 vessels, or approximately 4,000,000 tons, for which we received $60,534,017.94."

The accompanying detailed list of vessels sold by the Shipping Board shows that since 1921 the board has sold 215 cargo boats, 64 tankers, 25 combination passenger and cargo vessels, 37 tugs, 456 ships to be scrapped and 171 of miscellaneous types.

GEN. DU PONT RESIGNS FROM MIZNER CONCERN

Disapproves of Officers' Methods —Row Over Directors, Says Florida Development Co.

General Coleman du Pont announced yesterday he had resigned from the directorate of the Mizner Development Corporation, builders of Boca Raton, a new colony near Palm Beach, because of "differences of opinion between him and the officers and some of the other directors as to proper methods of business management and organization."

"The methods of the present officers in control of the corporation," said the statement, "are not such as to meet the approval of General du Pont, and the differences of opinion are so radical as to make it impossible for him to remain longer on the board. General du Pont still believes that the Boca Raton development has wonderful possibilities under proper business management, and the future of the State of Florida is as firm as ever."

Addison Mizner, President of the corporation, said last night:

"The differences between General du Pont and the directors are solely over the personnel of the directorate. He wanted some men on it and the directors wanted others, whereupon General du Pont resigned."

Mr. Mizner said he and his associates had purchased control of the company to "insure the continuance of the present building and development program" and "the continued administration of the company's affairs by the present executives," who were credited with the sale of $50,000,000 of property within the last six months. The directors of the company, Mr. Mizner said, were himself, his brother, Wilson Mizner; Anderson T. Herd, George S. Graham, William A. White and Ward A. Wickwire.

The company announced yesterday that it would start on Monday the sale of the first plots of beach property in the North Beach addition of Boca Raton.

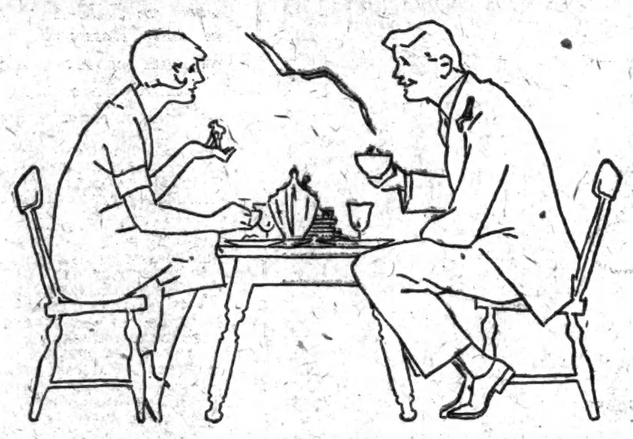
WHY have animal crackers and cocoa for tea all your life?



THAT's children's food. Easily prepared. Easily digested. Wouldn't hurt anybody. But when you grew up, you supposedly put away childish things. Including childish food. Childish ideas. Childish opinions—easily prepared, easily digested, couldn't hurt anybody.

But did you, though? Where do you get your points of view on current topics? Do you know both sides of a question and then can you make up your own mind? Or do you gobble up some predigested opinion you read some place? That's an animal-cracker-and-cocoa opinion. A childish idea. Yet, you say you are grown up!

Mature minds find their best pastures in browsing through the Forum, a magazine of liberal opinion. Orthodox and heterodox, radical and conservative, its pages are open to them all. The Forum is the most unusual magazine in America today. Not one view, but many views of social, religious, political and economic questions are aired in its pages. Look below, for instance:

THE KLAN: DEFENDER OF AMERICANISM?

by Hiram Wesley Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan

In the September Forum, William Robinson Pattangall, leading Democrat of Maine, threw down the gauntlet by declaring that the un-Americanism of the Klan attacked and undermined the very spirit of Americanism which it was its avowed objective to defend. And now cometh Imperial Wizard Evans, who replies that the intolerance of the Klan is a necessary counter weapon with which to combat the intolerance of Catholics, Jews and other groups. This is unquestionably the most significant and outspoken article ever signed by a Klan leader.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS AND CITIZENSHIP, by Patrick Joseph Shelly. The education of the growing soul is as necessary as the education of the growing mind. American public schools do not educate the soul. Therefore, all Catholic children should be sent to parochial schools. Such is the view expressed in this article. Stimulating, to say the least, to find it lying cheek by jowl with the Imperial Wizard's paper. But that's the Forum—many points of view, not one.

WHAT IS THE SENATE? By George Wharton Pepper. The senior Senator from Pennsylvania describes the striking contrast between what the Senate was meant to be and what the various lobbies are turning it into.

THE SUICIDE OF POLAND, by Robert Dell. The Poles may have been downtrodden people and all that, but they're committing the same mistake in regard to the Jews that Prussia committed in regard to the Poles—eradicating national sentiment by oppression.

LIFE VERSUS LIVES, by Havelock Ellis. Fourth paper in the "War or Peace?" series. This most eminent of neo-Malthusians solves the problem of over-population as he solves everything—sexually. He would have two kinds of marital relations, "family marriages" and "companionate marriages."

THE PEARL OF LOVE, by H. G. Wells. For once the scientist-novelist-philosopher lays aside his seriousness and writes a delicate fantasy, just to show that he can.

THE HOME LIFE OF A FISH, by William Beebe. The commander of the Arcturus chats pleasantly of "the personality, the raison d'être of some fish," as he puts it. It happens to be the Xesurus Laticlavius or Side-Striped Scraping-Tail.

COMMUNIZED EMOTION, by Carl Dreher, who ridicules the everlasting sob-stuff you meet in the daily papers. But the Heroic Fireman, the Bandit-Infested Love-Nest, the Daring Bank-Robber and the Prince of Wales may not have such a deleterious effect as Mr. Dreher believes.

JUSTICE, by Louis Bromfield. The young author of "Possession" and "The Green Bay Tree" writes a short story around an appealing episode in the police court, where "justice" again yields to custom.

Besides the articles above, you will find, as always, in the Forum a bouquet of modern poetry, in many tendencies and moods. Robert Herrick's new novel of university life, "Chimes," appears in its second installment. Also, the usual Forum departments.

The world of current thought is as near as the nearest news-stand. Go out and get the December number of the most unusual magazine in America. Or clip the coupon below for our special mail subscription offer.

PADEREWSKI

Plays in Recital this Afternoon
CARNEGIE HALL

JUST as every appearance of Paderewski is an event of first importance in the music life of a community, so are his public statements heeded as rare and significant utterances of a great world-figure.

The article below, contributed by Paderewski, should be read by everyone who loves and appreciates music. It should be read particularly by parents who wish their children to enjoy the inestimable benefits and advantages of a music understanding.

CULTURAL AND EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES OF

by I. J. PADEREWSKI

"I HAVE been asked often for suggestions or advice on musical matters, a course of studies for adults or children, or some method to help an aspiring pianist. I welcome the present opportunity to advise publicly the general adoption of the instrument known as the Duo-Art Piano

Of Utmost Significance to Music Study

"I specifically name the Duo-Art, for, while there are a number of reproducing pianos, undoubtedly possessing certain merits, the Duo-Art far surpasses any of these in musical value and in repertoire In my estimation, this instrument is of utmost significance to music study, whether the aim be simply an understanding and appreciation of the beauties of music, or a determination to make a life struggle to master the art

Far-Reaching Influence on Musical Taste

"In its broadest aspect, the Duo-Art will exert a far-reaching influence on musical taste Children in the home possessing the Duo-Art Piano must naturally and unconsciously become discriminating listeners. Hearing frequent repetitions of the great masterpieces as played by skilled performers, the foundation is laid for musical enlightenment which means enjoyment and gratification in later life.

Children Become Discriminating Listeners

"Whatever musical talent a child may possess is stimulated in such an atmosphere, and when lessons begin, the instructor finds a willing and apt pupil instead of one whose view of music is entirely confined to uninspiring exercises and practice.

Invaluable in the Home or Conservatory

"For students, whether in the home or in the conservatory, the Duo-Art is invaluable While it can in no manner take the place of painstaking and exhaustive studies of manual technique, it teaches the technique of expression most effectively. Through this instrument and its rolls a student may acquire an intimate knowledge of the style of leading pianists, may hear the subtleties of great master works expounded by the most competent authorities

Aid to Advanced Students

"Another point not to be disregarded is the Duo-Art's aid to advanced students in saving valuable time There is great temptation to waste precious hours in playing new works, either to get acquainted with them, or simply for the pleasure of hearing them. This time might much better be spent in studying exact details of fingering, pedaling, or phrasing, looking to the Duo-Art for the mere pleasure of hearing works that have no relation to the study being pursued.

A Truly Great Invention

"The Duo-Art is, therefore, a truly great invention. Music does not live until audible. By causing it to live, by exhibiting it in its most beautiful aspects to countless thousands, the Duo-Art is not only a perfect performer, but a precious assistant, a helpful friend whose noble purpose and beneficial influence must be recognized and appreciated."

SAYS LOCARNO PLAN AVERTED ALLIANCE

Stresemann Declares Powers Would Otherwise Have United Against Germany.

ANSWERS HOSTILE ATTACKS

Frontier Revision Is Still Governed by the League Covenant, He Tells the Nationalists.

By LINCOLN EYRE.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—If the German envoys had not initialed the security treaties at Locarno, the allied powers then and there would have concluded a defensive alliance against the Reich, Foreign Minister Stresemann told the Reichstag this afternoon, replying to Nationalist criticism of the Luther Cabinet's policy. Flatly denying the Opposition's charge that the treaties involved renunciation of German territory (by which is meant Alsace-Lorraine), Dr. Stresemann declared that Great Britain expressly emphasized the League of Nation's right to revise the frontiers fixed by the Versailles Treaty.

Separate motions voicing lack of confidence in the Government were submitted by the Nationalists, the Volkische Party and the Communists, but since all of them are based on specific hostility to Locarno, there is no chance of their adoption. The Socialists might have been placed in a quandary had a resolution condemning the Ministers' policy as a whole been presented, but their adherence to the Chancellor's foreign program has already been won.

The Opposition parties also clamored for a two-thirds majority as necessary for ratification to the security accord, as these instruments, in their view, affect the German Constitution by depriving the Reichstag of the privilege of declaring war on France. The Governmental faction, however, is satisfied to abide by the findings of the judicial experts, who deeme a simple majority sufficient, so the anti-Locarnoists' objections are bound to be overruled.

Clara Zetkin Returns to Reichstag.

The Communist Deputies welcomed Clara Zetkin, the venerable German revolutionist, back to leadership today. Frau Zetkin, who seems in feeble health despite her two years rest cure in Russia, arrived from Moscow only today. Her predecessor in the Communists' Reichstag command was Ruth Fischer, the Red Joan of Arc, whose rabid radicalism led to her loss of that post. Frau Fischer is now in Moscow trying to get back into the good graces of the Third International.

A Locarno debate was inaugurated this morning by Otto Wels, spokesman for the Socialists, who said:

"It must be generally recognized that we stand at the parting of the ways of European politics. The present objective is to scrap wars and the heritage of destruction and to pave the road for reconstruction and new relations among nations. The Nationalists must realise from the Chamberlain memorandum that Germany's rejection of the Locarno accords would result in England's erecting a new entente against Germany. These treaties are in no sense directed against Russia. Russia can best avoid the danger of the League of Nations being used against her by emerging from her self-imposed isolation."

In conclusion Wels hinted at the Socialists' resolve to participate in the new German Cabinet by stating that the treaties could be applied only by a Government imbued with real socialistic spirit.

Nationalists Renew Attack.

Count Westarp, the Nationalists' orator, who followed Wels, delivered a long philippic against Locarno that merely rehashed all his oft-repeated arguments. The Rhineland compact contained a clear denunciation of German land, he affirmed, and in all other respects failed to safeguard vital German interests. He insisted that the Government's measures required a two-thirds majority for passage, "since, according to the Constitution, peace or war is determined by legislative bodies."

While proclaiming Locarno as "the end of the era of sanctions and force," ex-Chancellor Fehrenbach, for the Catholic Centre, formulated a strong demand for allied liberation of the second and third Rhenish occupation zones as the "imperative consequence" of the treaties ratification.

Dr. Stresemann's speech consisted chiefly of detailed rejoinders to his opponents' criticisms. He declared: "I venture to point to the preamble to the Locarno compact, which takes express account of that article in the Versailles Treaty which obliged us to recognize any measures taken by the Allies in place of the cancelled guarantees of Belgium's neutrality. I may also observe that France made it plain at the end of the Locarno conference that had the Germans placed themselves in opposition, had the treaties not been initialed, Briand, nevertheless, would not have come home empty handed, for then the allied nations would have reunited among themselves. So long as France's need for security was not satisfied a Damocles sword of a one-sided settlement against Germany would have hung over us.

"I cannot understand how it can be claimed that Germany has renounced territory or compatriots. The English Foreign Minister categorically stated that stipulations of the League covenant regarding frontier revisions were not affected by the Locarno Treaties."

The fact that these accords stipulate the continued existence of the Versailles Treaty, Stresemann satirically remarked as act of such tremendous significance since many treaties voluntarily ratified by the Reich in recent years, notably the commercial treaty with the United States, contain a similar provision. Disavowal any affront to Russia at Locarno, Stresemann exclaimed:

"Should we have signed a Russo-German commercial accord before the conference if we had meant to be dragged into anti-Russian activities? We have often enough proclaimed our will to live in peace with Russia. It is also up to Russia to declare that she does not wish to disturb the peace of Europe.

"In conclusion the Foreign Minister disclosed Germany's readiness to cooperate in a world economic conference proposed by H. Loucheur, not, as he added, to promote the illusory project of the United States of Europe, but to encourage the idea that "German collaboration with other nations is not merely a German proposition but a European and world question."

War Trials to Be Dropped.

BERLIN, Nov. 24 (AP).—During the Locarno debate today Dr. Stresemann informed the Reichstag that the French and Belgian Governments had declared it undesirable to continue the trials of absent German officers for alleged war-time crimes.

"We attached great importance to converting the Foreign Ministers of France and Belgium to our viewpoint in this matter," Dr. Stresemann said. "In view of the attitude of the French and Belgian Governments on this question now we have no reason for undue distrust."

This is presumed to mean that France and Belgium will drop the proceedings against the so-called German war criminals and the demands for extradition of these persons.

BALFOUR SEES LEAGUE AIDED.

He and Lord Grey Declare Locarno Treaty a Strong Move for Peace.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The Locarno treaty, far from being an attack on the League of Nations, was one of the most valuable supports the League ever received, said Lord Balfour in defending the treaty in the House of Lords today.

"It has been suggested by many distinguished men," he said, "that, disguise it as we would, the treaty really was a blow, not intentionally but in effect, at the League; that it set aside the League as guardian of the peace and arbiter of harmony and substituted for it what could relatively be described as a private arrangement between certain great powers from which the League, except in name, was manifestly excluded.

"That is a complete and profound misapprehension. Many people who believe future civilization depends on the prestige and growing power of the League, nevertheless conceive that a strain is being put upon that machinery which might break it. That fear is based on the fact that certain nations are still outside the membership of the League.

"It seems to me that one of the things done at Locarno was to remove such a danger. The treaty underpinned the weakest part of the League."

Explaining the Government's course in regard to consulting the Dominions about British participation in the Locarno pact, Lord Balfour said everything possible was done to obtain direct consultation. He had no misgivings because the Dominions were not included in the pact. He was sure that if war were ever forced on Britain because of carrying out the treaty the whole moral force of the world would be behind her.

"If the Dominions realize these things, will anybody tell me that so long as the British Empire exists it will not get as a single body when that great moment comes?" he asked.

Viscount Grey expressed a hope that in the course of a few years "we may arrive at a reduction of armaments on the part of Germany's neighbors which will make it appear that if Germany remains with small armaments it is not because any inequality was imposed on Germany by the Treaty of Versailles, but because her present position in regard to armaments enables other nations to reduce theirs.

"It was the piling up of armaments before the war which made the war, if not inevitable, at least something always near. It must always be so. So long as Europe is covered with powder magazines, there can never be any feeling of security.

"It is essential, in keeping the peace, that material for making war be reduced. Armaments in Europe always have been materialized animosity or materialized fear. The whole question is, will Locarno be so fruitful that it will undermine that sense of fear in Europe? It has done this much, it has diminished the chance—if not, indeed, made it impossible—of Europe dividing itself divided again into two armed camps."

MADE TREATY ON A BOAT TRIP.

Chamberlain Reveals Incidents Behind the Scenes at Locarno.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary, took the League of Nations Parliamentary Committee tonight behind the scenes which formed the stage setting for the Locarno Treaty. He threw a new light on the celebrated lake trip, arranged by M. Briand on the first Saturday of the conference, which happened to be Mrs. Chamberlain's birthday. In the light of his revelations, this inland excursion deserves a place in history more important than many a voyage of discovery around the globe.

The boat was named "Orange Blossom," and was used largely for bridal parties.

"And," M. Briand observed, "it is a true marriage we are celebrating."

After enjoying the scenery from the deck the delegates adjourned to the cabin, where most of the difficulties about Germany's entering the League finally were resolved.

The discussions continued, and were going on admirably until at a critical point the vessel slackened speed and it was found she was back at Locarno. Orders were hastily given to put off again, and the cruise continued in the darkness until further important progress had been achieved.

CLEARED OF KILLING BOY.

Suspect Then Held on Suspicion of Injuring Man in Bronx.

Upon the recommendation of Assistant District Attorney William Kier of the Bronx, Magistrate Edward Weil in Morrisania Court discharged yesterday Louis Basile, 23 years old, of 305 East 150th Street, who had been held without bail, charged with felonious assault, in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday night of 12-year-old Angelo Tramazzo of 295 East 150th Street. The boy was shot during a round-up of alleged gangsters.

Basile was rearrested, however, by Detective Slater on suspicion of having struck Joseph di Piro, 20 years old, of 29 East 150th Street, during the same altercation in which the boy was shot. Di Piro is now in Fordham Hospital, suffering from a badly lacerated scalp. Basile was held in $2,000 bail for a hearing on this charge Dec. 1.

ROBBER BAND RAID A MICHIGAN TOWN

Try to Blow Safe of Cassopolis Bank and Fire at All Who Approach.

CASSOPOLIS, Mich., Nov. 24 (AP).—Armed bandits terrorized Cassopolis for nearly three hours early today, firing at every resident who dared to appear on the street, and finally dashed out of town to the accompaniment of their own revolvers after failing to rob the First National Bank.

Their number was variously estimated by excited Cassopolis residents at from five to ten. Entering Cassopolis shortly after 2 o'clock in the morning, they held undisputed possession of this Cass County seat town until 4:35 o'clock. They fired between 100 and 150 shots and only one shot was fired in return. Revolvers and sawed-off shotguns were used.

George Jones, a stock buyer, was the only casualty. As he emerged from his house he was greeted with a volley. A shotgun slug inflicted a neck wound and he retreated into the house.

The gunmen worked methodically. Immediately upon arrival two of them took guard positions outside Patrick Wallace's all-night restaurant. The others entered the place and forced Wallace, Clyde Benham, the night watchman, and Forster Cooper to line up against the wall. Each prisoner's hands were bound behind his back. Leaving a guard over the men, the other bandits went to another restaurant and treated its proprietor, John Berner, similarly.

Then telegraph and telephone wires were cut. Only one strand was overlooked—the wire connecting Cassopolis with Niles—and it was over this wire that a telephone operator soon afterward sounded the alarm.

The front door of the First National Bank was next forced, the robbers taking their four prisoners inside with them. The outer door of the safe was dynamited, no effort being made to deaden the sound of the explosion. The noise brought several persons to the street and to windows, and the bandits on guard fired at them. There apparently was no effort to kill. The revolver and shotgun barrage was merely a warning.

Coolidge Gets 'God's Bog' Berries.

CARVER, Mass., Nov. 24 (AP).—Sauce from "God's Cranberry Bog," dedicated here last Spring to the support of the Little White Church at the Wayside, will add spice this year to thousands of dinners, from that of President Coolidge to that of a Cape Cod missionary in India. The Rev. Charles W. Hilden, leader of the congregation, has received an acknowledgment from the President's Secretary, which read: "It was indeed kind of you to send to the President the cranberries which carry with them such interesting associations, and the President has asked me to express to you his thanks for them."

MUST PAY $27,575 TAX ON RUTH-MAYS SALE

Red Sox's Appeal From Commissioner Is Denied by the Federal Tax Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The United States Board of Tax Appeals today denied the appeal of the Boston American League baseball club from a decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, that the amounts received by the club from the sale of George H. ("Babe") Ruth and Carl W. Mays to the New York Yankees should be taxed as income for 1919, instead of being spread over a three-year period ending with 1921, covering the contracts of these players.

The Commissioner assessed the Boston club $27,575 for deficiencies in income and profits taxes for 1919. The Tax Appeals Board holds that the club must pay this.

Much baseball history is contained in the findings of fact cited in the opinion by the board.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

New York String Quartet.

The New York String Quartet, playing last night in Aeolian Hall, devoted two-thirds of its program to Czech music of past and present periods. This program, interesting to New Yorkers, would have been hailed in Prague with intense approval. In that city there is going forward an intense propaganda for a national art. The young musicians are composing furiously, and furthering by all means in their power their native product. The patron saint is Smetana, the old national bard, whose operas and symphonic poems are heard with immense enthusiasm. Dvorak, more popular, less heroic, is by comparison ignored. Among the younger men who are sedulously cultivating new methods of musical expression is Erwin Schulhoff. His "Five pieces for string quartet" were heard last night for the first time in this city.

Nothing could better have illustrated the amount of water that has flowed under the bridges of the Vltava since the days of Smetana than the contrast between his simple and pathetic quartet, "Aus meinem leben" and the brilliant, sophisticated, superficial music of Schulhoff. Smetana writes from the consciousness of his people as well as himself, with a Slavic simplicity, power, pathos that go to the heart. Schulhoff employs, with facility and jocoseness, the most advanced devices of the polytonalists—the Stravinskys, the Schönbergs—for a series of ingenious, amusing pieces which mean nothing.

These pieces are five in number, in the styles, respectively, of a Viennese waltz, a Serenata, a Czech dance, a Tango and a Tarantella. They are reasonably entertaining, but little more. The jokes are Viennese, and rather conscious. There is, it may be said, a phenomenal dexterity. Schulhoff, a young man of 21, has already produced much music. He is a brilliant pianist. There was a night in an inn at Salzburg two Summers ago when he executed parodies on the keyboard fully as amusing and less palpably contrived than those heard yesterday evening. And he did not have to publish them. And the composition heard last night need not necessarily have been published.

The New York Quartet had prepared this music carefully, a little too carefully. More swing, more abandon, bonhomie, would have been in place. The performance of Smetana's composition was earnest, on the whole well balanced and phrased, though the tone of the quartet would gain by more smoothness, texture, and nicer intonation. Beethoven's F major quartet, op. 18, brought an end to the concert.

CHALIAPIN ANGERS MOSCOW BY ABSENCE

Operatic Basso Declines to Fix a Date for Return—Quoted as Selling His Soul.

MOSCOW, Russia, Nov. 24 (AP).—Moscow threatrical circles express resentment over the long absence from Russia of Feodor Chaliapin, famous operatic basso. Many attempts had been made by the theatrical authorities, without effect, to persuade him to return to Moscow this season. While not stating definitely that he had forsaken Russia for good, Chaliapin declined to fix a date for his return.

This attitude has aroused bitter comment in the Soviet press, which accuses the singer of having "sold his soul to Mammon." A member of the Moscow Theatrical Guild who interviewed Chaliapin in Paris before his departure for the Metropolitan season in New York quoted him as saying:

"I have concert engagements in America and Australia for several years, and am obliged to carry them out. I left Russia without a cent and found it necessary, therefore, to sell my soul to the devil. Yes, I sold it, and it is not my fault. As soon as I fulfil these contracts I hope to be able to accept your invitation to come to Moscow and Leningrad."

Chaliapin left Russia toward the end of 1922 and obtained a Soviet passport for one year on the understanding that a percentage of his fees would go to the Soviet famine fund. He has since obtained an extension of his passport.

DAISY KENNEDY CHARMS.

British Violinist Gives an Afternoon of Melody in Town Hall.

Daisy Kennedy, the British violinist, who appeared here in recitals before her marriage to John Drinkwater, author of the play of "Lincoln," returned yesterday in a novel program accompanied by Walter Golde at the Town Hall. It was an afternoon of melody of quaint charm. Avoiding all virtuoso style, Miss Kennedy's most formal number was a Joachim suite in E minor, following an unnamed composer's sonata from the eighteenth century and a set of dances by Bach.

Folk songs and dances filled the program's second half, the first and best being Harold Craxton's "Two Almans" arranged from early seventeenth century English rounds. An old Chinese folktune of the Yangtse River, elaborately harmonized by Eugene Goossens, retained harmonic intervals of exotic flavor, and there were others by O'Connor Morris, Kreisler and Zimbalist.

STANISLAVSKY NOT BLIND.

Moscow Art Theatre's Director Suffering From Eye Weakness.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—The report circulated in the United States that Stanislavsky, director of the Moscow Art Theatre, has become blind, is not correct. He is working as usual. He gave last Saturday the Russian classic "Gore of Uma." Owing to his advanced age he has suffered a certain eye weakness for the last three years, though there is nothing organically wrong. Before his latest trip to America friends feared the effect of the strain, but no harm resulted.

For the last year or more, however, Stanislavsky has been accustomed to reading as little as possible, which fact perhaps gave rise to the rumor. There is said to have been a reference to his eye weakness in a Russian theatrical newspaper a few weeks ago which neither he nor his friends took the trouble to contradict, as it was thought the facts in the case were generally known here.

Staged by William J. Wilson and Joseph Santley; settings by Watson Barratt; produced by the Shuberts. At the Forrest Theatre (49th Street, west of Broadway).

It is a sweet and pleasant and tuneful musical piece that the Shuberts last night submitted as the opening attraction of the new Forrest Theatre, in West Forty-seventh Street. "Mayflowers" it is called and the elaborate program has it that it is "from a play by Arthur Richman," but it is surely no breach of confidence to reveal that the Richman play is "Not So Long Ago." Joseph Santley and Ivy Sawyer are its featured players.

Miss Sawyer has so long been concealed under the diamond horseshoes, silver wigs, living dishes and golden meshbags of the Music Box revues in which she appeared that one had almost forgotten what a gorgeous musical comedy personage she is. And so last night's audience revelled in the sweetness and grace and beauty she brought to the rôle of the belle of those distant '90s. In "Mayflowers," moreover, she is even able to bring plausibility and a touch of dramatic pathos to the act finales, wherein the separation of the lovers leads to the full stage reconciliations that lie ahead, and greater praise can there be for no musical comedy star.

Mr. Santley, of course, is the hero, the gentlemanly scion of the Ballards, who cares not that his love is but a seamstress, a rôle which but yesteryear was played by Sidney Blackmer. The demands of the part are for a personable, manly and forthright actor, and that Mr. Santley surely is. In addition, with Miss Sawyer he sings and dances a second act number, unstartlingly called "Mayflower, I Love You," so that it becomes as beguiling and generally enchanting a number as the musical comedy stage of the moment has to offer.

The first night audience found great pleasure, too, in the antics of Gaile Beverly, a boisterous young woman who is reminiscent of both Luella Gear and Ida May Chadwick, which should give the reader a rough idea. Most of the rest of the play's comical offerings were in the not altogether capable hands of Robert Woolsey.

The score of the piece, by Edward Kunneke and four or five others, is lively and melodious, and some of its numbers are exceptionally well sung by William Valentine and Nydia d'Arnell. There is, further, an attractive newcomer named Nancy Carroll among a quartet of four fascinating young women in attendance upon Miss Sawyer. The chorus is active, comely, well-attired and intelligently directed, and Watson Barrett has supplied handsome settings.

Geraldine Farrar in Light Opera.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 24 (AP).—Geraldine Farrar made her début in light opera here tonight, temporarily forsaking grand opera and the concert stage to appear in the first American presentation of Franz Lehar's operetta "The Love Spell." A distinguished audience that filled Parsons Theatre to capacity welcomed her in her new venture.

Miss Farrar appears to advantage in this piece, the story of which is laid in present day Spain. She is supported by William Kent, Louise Brown, John Boles, Florence O'Denishawn and a company of one hundred. Following the Hartford engagement Miss Farrar will open in New York in "The Love Spell."

"THE DEACON" INTERESTS.

Not a little report from the hinterland had preceded the comedy called "The Deacon," which came to town last night at the Sam H. Harris. It was, said the advance stories, admittedly compound of the simple things of the theatre, but, like the earlier "Lightnin'," vivified by one human and theatrically effective character. This estimate turned out last night to be only partially accurate. For fleeting seconds, when the deacon of the title was plying his trade as a card sharp, the play would triumph over its ingredients and come to full life, but one was generally conscious that here was something strictly of the theatre, played by actors.

The "Lightnin'" parallel is perhaps unfortunate, for one cannot expect the achievement of Frank Bacon to be lightly duplicated. The task of Berton Churchill, who is the pious-spoken rascal of the new comedy, was made further difficult by the fact that he had the misfortune to resemble W. C. Fields and to be playing a character not remote from the Professor McGarrie of "Poppy." One accordingly continually expected an unction that was not forthcoming and was periodically plunged into disappointment by Mr. Churchill's emergence as an actor rather than as a human being.

The play's moments of deliciousness, however, did much to compensate. The deacon, drawn with seeming reluctance into a poker game for which he was plainly destined to emerge a victor, was a figure of vast potential entertainment. One regretted the first-act curtain, which descended just as the deacon had fortuitously won the deal in a game with a sharper who little suspected the identity of his adversary. One enjoyed, likewise, the great-hearted way in which the deacon set the affairs of all the deserving minor characters at rights before passing blandly out into the night.

The play tells a somewhat intricate network of story, framed against a rural hotel. In addition to the deacon it contains another interesting character in a prizefighter, remarkably well played by Al Roberts. The play won many laughs from its first New York audience, but it will be enjoyed chiefly by those not too long accustomed to the theatre and its ways.

ERNEST HUTCHESON PLAYS.

Pianist Gives a Postscript to His Seven Historical Programs.

Ernest Hutcheson, the pianist, played to a large audience at Carnegie Hall last night, in what was to be his "only New York recital," but served as a postscript to his seven historical programs last year. There were classics, a Bach-Liszt G minor fugue and the "Sonata Quasi una Fantasia" of Beethoven. The modern high-light of Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exposition" led presently to a local composer of interest.

Abram Chasins's "Procession" was from a recently thrice heard "Master Class" suite, while his novel "Flirtation in a Chinese Garden" and "Rush Hour in Hongkong" were both redemanded by last evening's listener. Mr. Chasins's "Flirtation," on the white keys alone, contrived ingenious dissonances in C major.

After both encores, the composer bowed from a box where he sat with his aunt, Mrs. Fonaroff, of the institute, formerly a violinist of the Olive Mead Quartet, in which she succeeded Elizabeth Houghton and the late Bertha Bucklin.

Mr. Hutcheson concluded with two folktune versions by Grainger and his own transcriptions of the "Midsummer Night's Dream" scherzo, played by Bachaus last year, and "The Valkyries' Ride."

DANTCHENKO EAGERLY AWAITS SEASON HERE

Head of Moscow Musical Studio, on Eve of Sailing, Confident of Success.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Vladimir Nemirovitch Dantchenko, director of the Moscow Musical Studio, is looking forward with great zest to his New York season, to begin soon after he arrives there on the Majestic, which sails tomorrow. He anticipates a good reception, although "America spoiled me," as he told THE NEW YORK TIMES today.

"You've had Caruso," he added. "We've nobody like him. But while audiences sat back comfortably to listen to Caruso and other great singers they lean forward when they attend my performances—chairs need no backs."

Dantchenko explained that his troupe doesn't produce operas in the customary manner. "The old manner," he said, "is for singers to make the most of their voices, with the minimum of acting. Their real field is the concert hall. My troupe has been trained for six years to sing, dance, act and interpret characters as well. While the voice counts for much in my productions, I select artists for rôles according to their age. I haven't old-fashioned ballets, but when musical dramas require dancing, all the characters on the stage do dancing. We don't allow corpulent fifty-year-old matrons to play the parts of girls of sixteen, but pick young women for that. And we ban wigs, whiskers, tin swords and other claptrap."

Mlle. Bakianova, his leading star created a sensation in Berlin, Leipsic and Prague. Mlle. Kemarskaia is very good. The leading men are Lossky and Welikanoff. The troupe is comprised of eighty persons, with Kappelmeister Bakaleinikoff. It is bringing its own settings. Those for "Carmencita" and "Lysistrata," by Rabinowitch, won prizes at the recent International Decorative Arts Exposition in Paris.

Dantchenko will begin his New York season with "Lysistrata," by Aristophanes, set to music, then the play "La Perichole," by Offenbach, interpreted as bouffe melodrama. For the third piece he will play "Carmencita, and the Soldier"—with Bizet's music and Merrimee's version of the tragedy. This drama aroused many controversies in Russia and Germany, because it revolutionizes the methods of producing "Carmen," not always to the taste of conservative musicians, who criticize the cuts in Bizet's music. Dantchenko took what was essential out and left the other parts "just as Shakespeare is produced nowadays without any one pretending to find fault." But the great Russian artist at the head of this troupe of intelligent, highly trained artists is entirely sincere and feels sure his sincerity will be received warmly by "unpretentious Americans who are true lovers of art and are attached to all that is great."

HARRIET EELLS IN SONGS.

Mezzo-Soprano Is Well Received at Recital in Aeolian Hall.

Harriet Eells, mezzo-soprano, who gave a recital yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall, is another singer of the Sembrich school. This was immediately apparent in her performances of a group of songs by Schubert, Brahms and Strauss. These songs had the right ring; their feeling was communicated to the audience; interpretation was based upon an appreciation of text as well as melodic line, and the technical basis which facilitated the phrasing of a musician. Miss Eells was especially successful in the "Weib uber das Feld" and the "Liebliche Wangen," but throughout the group she showed a real insight into the music and its school. As an encore she sang Richard Strauss' "Zeignung."

But Miss Eells's accomplishments were not confined to the songs of Brahms. In Debussy's "La Chevelure" she proved that she had not only assimilated the shadowy atmosphere of the French composer, but that she could give it expression. The "Serenade Italienne" of Chausson, with its Latin warmth and piquancy, and the imaginative quality of Respighi's song, "Rgia," found sympathetic treatment.

This voice is lyric rather than dramatic in quality. It is employed with sincerity and, already, a fine artistic discrimination. A final group was happily not of the hackneyed character that such a group often displays. It included songs by Bax, Griffes, Gilere and Rachmaninoff. Griffes's "Feast of the Lanterns" is a charming effort, and in the two songs by Rachmaninoff Miss Eells again showed her taste and feeling. She was well received by the audience, and added several encores to the program. Kurt Schindler accompanied with skill and discretion.

"The Devil to Pay" Here on Dec. 3.

"The Devil to Pay," by Herman Heijermans, will open at the Fifty-second Street Theatre on Thursday night, Dec. 3. The cast will include Margaret Wycherly, Whitford Kane and Ethel Strickland.

ON behalf of the non-municipal hospitals of Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn, the United Hospital Fund of New York is this week turning to the more fortunate men and women of the community for a million dollars—for the relief of the sick poor in its 57 hospitals without regard to race, creed, or color.

Last year these hospitals

Admitted a new patient on the average every thirty seconds . . . Answered an ambulance call every twelve minutes, and . . . Gave 47% of their 3,342,506 hospital days of service FREE.

In the past the United Hospital Fund has collected over seven million dollars to aid the sick poor and help make a healthier and safer community for all of us.

You are now given the opportunity to carry on this work on the larger scale that the growing need demands—and to do it

THE PLAY

YOUNG BLOOD, play in three acts. By James Forbes. Settings by Clark Robinson. Staged by Mr. Forbes. Produced by the Dramatists' Theatre, Inc. At the Ritz Theatre.

Although Mr. Forbes's new drama, "Young Blood," mounted last evening at the Ritz, concerns the distressful blunders of the typical younger generation, it seems chiefly concerned with putting the blame on the business-beset male parent. In a measure this comedy is "The Famous Mrs. Fair" refurbished to assail the opposite sex with its lack of domestic responsibility; for Mr. Dana, who plays poker on the club car, properly funks his duty toward his motherless boy, and for a time things go badly in the spacious Dana home. Before they are sufficiently righted to bring down the curtain on a satisfactory conclusion Mr. Forbes has displayed great industry in collecting all the most absurd slang in current or recent use and galvanizing it into use for the stage; and a talent no less skilful and no more inspired for arranging his material in effective order for the stage. Except for a rather flimsy concluding act, "Young Blood" offers steady amusement and a moral not too subtle for easy recognition.

In fact, Mr. Forbes writes in the vernacular throughout. His people are of the stage and short-story vernacular; they are "well off"; they "run over" to Chicago in the club car to put through big bond deals, while their children play around and do badly at college. Between father and son there is a bond of good feeling verging upon affection and a boredom concerning mutual prerogatives and responsibilities. More conspicuously, as "Young Blood" suggests, the children speak in the vernacular. During the opening scenes young Dana, Sammy Bissell and Georgia trundle about the most absurd slang phrases that have appeared since Ring Lardner's Al was recording his baseball adventures. Obviously, they do not come spontaneously to the lips. Mr. Forbes has rather squeezed them into journeyman use for his play. The result is highly entertaining. However remote this gibberish may be from that in use among the younger set, or however concentrated it may be for the purposes of this drama, the effect is what Mr. Forbes intended. And it sugar-coats the moral of the piece.

The story likewise keeps to the vernacular in development and in situation. One parent, proud of his son but absorbed in big business; the son, a champion on the tennis court but a "boob" in his college studies; one girl next door who understands the stupid vagaries of masculinity but endures them in the interests of love; one serving maid, who befriends the son in his hour of need, plies him with liquor and, in short, seduces him forthwith for better or for worse. When all these familiar elements are put into play one against the other, misunderstanding, flying into rages, asking forgiveness, lying when convenient and telling the truth when need be, the result is vendable drama of no mean order.

Sometimes the result is a little too mechanical to serve; sometimes it is a little too easy to convince. Sometimes the material is a little too convenient and obliging for the necessary stage illusion. The college from which Alan Dana Jr. is graduated, "by the request" of the Dean and examiners, seems more personally interested in the youth than the familiar dignity of academic manners allows. Professor Eames comes round personally to the Dana house to express his sorrow over Alan's failure and to assure the pater that he will do anything that he can. And, in fact, the governing body is finally prevailed upon to revoke its irrevocable decision and to give Alan another chance. In most of the situations Mr. Forbes deals in stencils.

Nevertheless, by virtue of these stencils, one recognizes in "Young Blood" the qualities of the American life in which the dramatist is dealing. It is gay, easy-going, cynical, excited and thoroughly congenial, and at the same time it displays loyalty, ability and a certain sense of fair play in social relations. Young Alan may be a loafer and something of a cad, but he takes his medicine without whining. Georgia may be quite without illusion in matters that were once beyond her years, but she does not fail when she is needed. And Alan Senior may be interested chiefly in "watering the stock" as the son puts it amusingly, but when the need arises he shelters his youngster completely. However shoddy the preliminaries and ingredients may be, there is something fine, in the general atmosphere of the play.

With a less able group of actors "Young Blood" might come off too artificially for its service. The performance throughout is warm and sympathetic. As the short-tempered father, Mr. Trevor is attractive and plausible. He does not sweeten the sentimentalities nor make the conventional too bare. As the unfortunate son, Mr. Dressler gives a splendid bit of acting. Miss Hayes makes young Georgia a pert, wise little minx with individuality and emotion. And Miss Eldridge puts flesh on the bare bones of the conventional "gold-digger." If Mr. Forbes's lines do not seem too artful and mechanical in the delivery, and if his situations draw the proper response of pleasure or pity from the audience, he must be grateful to this particularly intelligent group of actors. They stand by him well. In essence, "Young Blood" is largely stage hokum. In performance, it is wholesome, forceful drama.

"DRIFT" HIGHLY DRAMATIC.

An Opulence of Emotion in New Melodrama at Cherry Lane.

DRIFT, a drama in three acts by Maurice V. Samuels, with Hyman Adler. Staged by William S. Rainey. Scenery by Joseph Mullen. At Cherry Lane Playhouse.

For one act and two scenes last night the audience at the Cherry Lane Playhouse failed to get the drift of "Drift," by Maurice Samuels, which is starring Hyman Adler during a limited engagement.

The play starts out as a highly dramatic comedy, of colorful character and energetic action, a sort of combination of "Grumpy," "The Music Master" and "Enter Madame."

However, when the old grandfather collapses, gurgling on the floor, after denouncing the hero's father as the man who betrayed the heroine's mother; after the heroine rushes on the stage in hysterics, sobbing that she has murdered the chauffeur to save herself from W. T. D. ("worse than death"), one suspects that "Drift" is a melodrama.

And melodrama it is, of unusually well-executed order, of humor, excellent characterization, and a degree of reflection, but melodrama which uses every device known to hokum in order to intrigue the audience and explain the action.

Never doubt that all is explained, only too fully, and by the least suspected character. The millionaire marries the gypsy's daughter, the villain is whitewashed, and the villainess dismissed. Hyman Adler's performance as Rigo Karolyi, the gypsy violinist is congenial and noteworthy, and Cecile Cummings is to be congratulated upon a successful impersonation of a drunken society woman. The California settings—the action takes place on the outskirts of San Diego—provide a sufficiently opulent garb for the opulence of emotion with which "Drift" deliberately toys.

Henry Baron's Productions.

Henry Baron announces that he will produce three plays in New York around the Christmas holidays. These will be "A Weak Woman," adapted by Mr. Baron from the French of Jacques Deval; "Atout-Coeur," "Hearts Are Trumps," by Felix Gandera, and a melodrama entitled "Temptation," also from the foreign.

GALA DAY OF OPERA FOR PONSELLE SISTERS

Carmela to Make Her Debut in 'Aida' Matinee, Dec. 5—Rosa in 'Trovatore' at Night.

Carmela Ponselle's matinee début as Amneris in a Metropolitan "Aida" on Dec. 5 is to be coupled with a reappearance of Rosa Ponselle on the evening of the same day in "Trovatore." The new contralto, who has sung in opera elsewhere and once in concert here with her sister, will appear for the first time as a member of the company in which she once helped to establish the soprano as a star. The double event will mark a long gala day for Americans in opera and, except for the Polish brothers De Reszke years ago, perhaps the first time a single family has furnished two stars to the premier stage of New York.

The Metropolitan's fifth week will open, as announced yesterday, with an all-star concert next Sunday, in honor of Italian opera's local centenary. Opera repetitions include "Lohengrin," next Monday, with Jeritza; Wednesday "Boris," with Chaliapin; Thursday "Barber of Bagdad," Rethberg and Bender, and "L'Heure Espagnole," Bori and Tibbett; Friday matinee "Tosca," with Jeritza, and Friday evening "Mefistofele," with Chaliapin.

CLOVER GARDENS
Thankful?
Peggy, you just bet I'm thankful that there's one nice, refined yet merry place in this township where the average can afford to dance. Clover Gardens, of course! No "cover charges" or "extras."
Hear you have a lucky complex, Peggy. Is zat so? Well, let's go tonight Thanksgiving Eve. and win some of those Lucky Number prizes—turkeys, ducks, pigs and things. Some of our crowd will be there for the Thanksgiving Day Carnival, too.

Nancy Highland Scores Upset in Horse Show by Defeating Bohemian Actress

HORSE SHOW HONORS TO NANCY HIGHLAND

BEATS FORMER CHAMPION

Vanquishes Bohemian Actress, Four Times Winner at Squadron A Armory.

WILLETS HACKNEYS SCORE

Tip Top and Easter Maid Earn Blues on Second Day of Exhibit —Irish Crystal Victor.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

A thoroughbred in a show ring is just as uncertain as a thoroughbred on a race track and you never can tell in either place just what's what until the numbers are posted. The second day of the fortieth annual National Horse Show was less than half over before one of the biggest surprises in the two score years of its existence came to pass in Squadron A Armory yesterday.

The dark horse proved to be a chestnut mare named Nancy Highland, which stepped forth in the class for saddle horses over 15.2 and, amidst a great round of applause cantered around the ring with the blue while former champions looked on and rolled their eyes in envy. Out of the West came Nancy Highland, sent to the East by Miss Maud Banks of Los Angeles. The owner was unable to accompany her favorite saddle horse on his transcontinental trip but sent him in the care of Roy L. Danks, who showed him yesterday.

When the class was called a total of sixteen fine animals answered the bugle and as the cavalcade proceeded around the ring, the horses swinging their clock barrels on light legs, it was plain to see that here was to be one of the finest classes of the day. There was Bohemian Actress, owned by John W. Crozer of Upland, Pa., a bay mare which has won the championship four times in the five years she has competed in the National. There was Amber Crest, Mortimer B. Fuller's famous chestnut gelding that carried off the championship last year and has scored perhaps as high an average of victories in the past twelve months as any horse under leather. There was Exciter, Otto W. Lehmann's bay gelding, twice the reserve champion, and there was Princess Gloria, which won several championships at the shows during the past Summer.

Four Stars in Ring.

Here were four of the finest and best known saddle horses that have shown in the East in recent years. They were quickly recognized by the connoisseurs of horseflesh.

"There's Amber Crest acting beautifully," they said.

"Look at Exciter's fine action."

"I never have understood how those foreign judges gave Joan the decision over Bohemian Actress in 1920. Joan never has been heard of since."

"Watch Princess Gloria this year."

These and other remarks were made as the animals went around and around the ring. Then gradually the attention of the spectators was attracted to the chestnut which Mr. Davis rode. The majority of them never had seen the mare before, but before the entries lined up before the judges for judgment of conformation and the awarding of the ribbons, there were few who had not made every effort to find out just where this animal came from. And when W. A. McGibbon pinned the blue on Nancy Highland there was a great burst of applause.

Bohemian Actress was second, Amber Crest third and Exciter fourth, but the big surprise of the show so far had been scored by the chestnut mare from the Pacific Coast. She will be watched closely in future classes in which she appears.

The major portion of yesterday's activities in the Armory was given over to the classes for ponies and hackneys. Two championships were awarded and both were victories for the Cassilis Farm of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mayy Willets of New Marlboro, Mass. Cassilis Tip Top carried off the hackney pony stallion championship and Cassilis Easter Maid was judged the champion hackney pony mare soon after.

Cassilis Hackneys Shine.

In addition to capturing these first two titles awarded at the show the Cassilis Farm scored in the reserve awards also. Cassilis King of Spades, bred at the New Marlboro stud, but now belonging to Mrs. Richard J. Goodman, was the reserve hackney pony stallion and Irvington Bounce III, the property of Mr. and Mrs. Willets, was the reserve mare in the championship.

One of the most interesting classes was that of the officers' chargers, in which eleven mounts were entered. None of the foreign officers who are here with French and Belgian thoroughbreds competed for the blue, which carried with it the William du Pont Cup, so Squadron A's victory with Irish Crystal was not an international one, but it carried with it sufficient honor for most horsemen. Such chargers as Tango Dance, owned by Captain V. L. Padgett and shown at Olympia last year; Bold Boy, belonging to the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kan., and Messenger, Captain O. I. Holman's brown gelding, were among those defeated. These three finished second, third and fourth respectively.

The James Cox Brady Cup for rub-about horses went to the Killearn Farm, with Killearn Curly Maple and the United Hunts Racing Association Cup for hunt teams shown in livery, was won by the Cavalry School (Fort Riley) trio.

The Montpelier Challenge Cup for hackney ponies in harness 14.2 and under remained in competition for another year when Mrs. Mortimer B. Fuller's Sunrise received the main award. The plate must be won three times by the same competitor before it becomes the permanent property of any stable, and although it has been in competition for nine years no owner has been able to obtain more than two legs on the trophy. The Woodroyd Farm and the Cassilis Farm each has won twice, but the Woodroyd Farm had no entry this year and the best Cassilis Farm could do was to get the reserve with Irvington Bounce III.

A pair of added starters from Canada scored an international victory in the class for pairs of officers' jumpers in which the United States and Belgium also competed. Black Prince and Wildcraft, ridden by Lieutenant W. S. Cleland and Captain Hannord of the Canadian army, performed beautifully over the course of eight jumps and took the blue. The American entries swept the other three places, Buckaroo and Hughes, belonging to the United States Military Academy, getting in second and third places from the United States Cavalry School finishing third and fourth. The Plaza Hotel Cups went to the winners.

Miss Jean Browne Scott's Knight Commander, champion of Olympia last year, was the first to win the Coral Gables Challenge Cup, which was put in competition for the first time last night by George E. Merrick. The trophy must be won three times by the same owner showing a harness horse, 14.2 or over, to a two or four-wheel vehicle. Knight Commander's victory last night was an indication that the cup will belong to Miss Scott after the 1927 show if she chooses to compete with the famous chestnut twice more, for he seldom has been shown to better advantage in his many years of ring campaigning.

Liddie Canada added further laurels to the many he has brought the Lawridge Stables during this and many previous shows by taking the blue in the Pen Jump from a field of thirty of the best jumpers in the show. The course consisted of an in-and-out, then back in again and over the side bars to get out. The rider then took his horse to the second jump, removed the top rail without dismounting and took the remaining bars of the fence. It doesn't sound difficult, but there were many chances for slips, and Little Canada had near a perfect score to win.

Pautin, Lieutenant Xavier Bizard's bay, was second, bringing another ribbon to the French contingent. Montreal of the Canadian stable was third and the United States Cavalry School's Proctor took fourth, which was no small honor in itself.

These were the principal victories scored during the second day of the show, which will continue until Friday evening, when the International Military Trophy competition will wind up the show. There are entries for this trophy from the United States, France, Belgium and Canada, and the closing class should prove the most colorful of the entire week.

Another feature that is attracting daily attention from the spectators is the exhibition staged by the New York State Troopers. Their feats of horsemanship are spectacular and sensational and each day they are well applauded by the appreciative crowds that have swarmed into the armory. Troop C performed yesterday and created a mild sensation.

RIDING CLUB ACTS AS HOST

Gives Luncheon to Officials of National Association—Tea Room Scene of Parties.

The second day of the Horse Show yesterday continued to attract lovers of thoroughbred performers to the Squadron A Armory, where many members of society were present during both the afternoon and evening. The boxes were well filled as were the other chairs, and many were seen standing behind the rail which surrounds the tan bark arena.

A buffet luncheon was given by the Riding Club to the directors and officers of the National Horse Show Association yesterday at the clubhouse at 7 East Fifty-eighth Street. The luncheon was in charge of a committee, consisting of Howard D. Collins, John T. Downey, R. A. Grannis and W. M. Powell. President Dallas B. Pratt and Secretary Edward L. Bisroll assisted in entertaining the guests.

Mrs. John H. Prentice and Mrs. E. Roland Harriman were hostesses at the Mount Vernon Tea Room yesterday, where a number of debutantes assisted in serving the guests. Mrs. James Cox Brady entertained there at luncheon, and in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Juan Ceballos and their guests watched the events from the veranda of the tea room.

DeFOREST'S MEN SHOW EDGE

Six Gain Decisions and One Gets Draw in Bouts at Pioneer.

Jimmy DeForest's embryro ring champions came through to victory in six of the ten four-round bouts at the "new talent" boxing show last night in the Pioneer A. C., and in another bout a DeForest entry earned a draw. Joe Canamare, DeForest welterweight, scored the most impressive victory of the squad, knocking out Ted Nelson, Swedish fighter, in 87 seconds of the third round. Jimmy Mendoza, who, like Canamare, is a former amateur star, won the decision over Lew Presti in their four-round quarrel.

The other bouts resulted as follows: Arthur de Champlain and Harry Traub boxed a draw; Al Rockow won the decision over Billy Flood; Jerry Mullins knocked out Jack Seale in two rounds; Al Serra won the decision over Georgie Sanders; Piggy Young won the decision over Johnny Sugrue; Lloyd Skinner knocked out Ray Halligan in one round; Billy McDonald won the decision over Eddie Roberts and Lew Hersh won the decision over G. M. Cowie.

Northwestern Concedes Big Ten Title; Michigan Head Praises Sportsmanship

DETROIT, Nov. 24 (AP).—Dr. Clarence Cook Little, President of the University of Michigan today accepted as a "splendid example of the spirit of fine sportsmanship and honest statement of opinion," a telegram from representatives of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., conceding to Michigan the 1925 football championship in the Western Conference.

The telegram received by Dr. Little was signed by Walter Dill Scott, President of the university; Coach Glenn Thistlewaite and administrative officers of the school and the Board of Trustees.

President Little, in his reply addressed to President Scott, said:

"The telegram which you and others have sent is a splendid example of the spirit of fine sportsmanship and honest statement of opinion which has characterized all the action of your institution in its contact with the University of Michigan.

"Honors of the type mentioned in your telegram are always more or less problematical, but no one can do more than share first honors of the good sportsmanship of your institution, and one is fortunate who can claim that honor."

The telegram from Northwestern said in part:

"We have noted in the Chicago press, and it undoubtedly appeared elsewhere, that Northwestern University is being accredited with joint honors with the University of Michigan.

"In view of the remarkable showing that has been made by the 1925 football team of the University of Michigan, we believe Michigan is entitled to sole and individual honors in the conference, and wish you to know that Northwestern makes no claim for any share in them, but regards it a privilege to be even for a few minutes placed in a class with the University of Michigan."

BASKETBALL RULES EXPLAINED TO 200

Leading Coaches and Officials Attend Interpretation Meeting to Discuss Changes.

Two hundred basketball coaches and officials gathered at the Hotel Astor last night for the annual interpretation meeting of the Rules Committee of the Joint Basketball Committee, comprising the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the Y. M. C. A. and the Amateur Athletic Union.

For an hour the meeting listened to William H. Ball of the Y. M. C. A., Chairman of the Joint Rules Committee; L. W. St. John of Ohio State, Chairman of the National Collegiate A. A., and Oswald Tower of Phillips Andover, editor of the Basketball Guide, explain in detail the new rules that were adopted by the Rules Committee last Spring. Following this enumeration the coaches and officials sought for interpretations on some of the changes.

Few explanations were sought from Mr. Tower, who offered the interpretations, indicating the clarity and general satisfaction with which the changes have been received. It is the general consensus that the Rules Committee has done much to speed up the game and put it on the soundest footing and that the football the game of basketball has reached the stage where it does not need much tampering with.

Changes Made Last Spring.

Two big changes were made in the rules last Spring, which will go into effect for the first time this season. One of them takes away the 17-foot goal zone and the other removes the obligation for the centre to keep one hand behind his back in jumping for the ball when it is put in play. According to Ralph Morgan of the University of Pennsylvania, Basketball Committee, the seventeen-foot zone was done away with in order to put an end to a lot of "cheap" fouls. The East was responsible for this change. A more intensive defensive game is played in this section, and fouls in the area of the basket have been so frequent as to slow up the game. The West had no objection to the new rule, though it will have little effect upon the play in that section, and as a concession to the West in return for its support of the change the East endorsed a change in the dribble rule whereby the player is allowed to pivot after ending his dribble before making his shot. This change also will tend to speed up the game.

Officials Trust Players.

The change in the rules that makes it no longer obligatory for the player to keep his hand behind his back in jumping for the ball indicates that the officials believe that the game is being played cleanly and that the players can be trusted not to use their hands illegally. Another change in the rules which will further speed up the game states that the ball shall be in play if it strikes the edge of the backboard and rebounds into the court. Discussing the dribble rule, Mr. Tower explained that the player is not permitted to continue a court dribble with an air dribble.

Seven States were represented at the meeting—New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maine, Pennsylvania and Ohio. Mr. Ball presided as Chairman of the meeting, while Mr. Tower, Dr. John Brown Jr., Chairman of the Officials Committee; George T. Hepron of the A. A. U., Secretary of the Joint Rules Committee, and Mr. St. John of Ohio State were at the speakers' table. Among the coaches and other officials present were Lawrence Hill, Director of Physical Education in Albany; Dan Meenan, new head basketball coach at Columbia; Reynolds Benson, Graduate Manager of Athletics at Columbia; H. H. Salmon of Princeton, Ernest Blood, former coach of Passaic High School; Howard Cann, coach of N. Y. U.; Joe Schwarzer of N. Y. U., former Syracuse star, and Ed Tharp.

ROUNDS, NOT POINTS, WILL DECIDE BOUTS

FUND SHOW STILL IN DOUBT

Rickard May Yet Close Walker-Milligan Fight, but Is Ready to Stage Goodrich Match.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

A drive to standardize the scoring of points in bouts and thus make more satisfactory the decisions rendered in matches here was instituted yesterday by the State Athletic Commission when the board adopted an amendment to Section 8 of its Rules and Regulations, eliminating the system of deciding bouts on the point system exclusively, and substituting a method of arriving at a verdict on the basis of rounds won or lost.

The amendment follows:

"In order to arrive at a true conclusion every point should be carefully observed and noticed as the round progresses, the winner of the round to be determined by the contestant receiving the largest number of points scored in that round. At the end of the contest the contestant who has to his credit the greater amount of rounds fought is the winner of the bout. Each round is to be accounted for on the score card as win, lose, or even, as the case may be, and points showing the manner in which their decision has been reached must be clearly indicated on the score card."

To Instruct Referees.

The amendment replaces a section of the Rules and Regulations under which boxing matches have been determined heretofore. This section left no alternative but to determine the winner of a bout on the basis of a point-standing at the final bell. Chairman James A. Farley disagreed with this method and has been quietly working on a more practical system for some time. He has issued instructions for all referees and judges, licensed by the commission, to report at the board's headquarters next Tuesday for a discussion of the change made in the Rules and Regulations.

Secretary Bert Stand announced that Promoter Tex Rickard and Matchmaker Jess McMahon of Madison Square Garden, with renewed interest of the Charles Miligan fight, for which a show is planned in the Garden on Dec. 23, appeared with a renewal of the request that some adjustment of the rule guaranteeing the beneficiary 50 per cent. of charity shows, but the board refused to modify its ruling. The request followed a revival of plans for a welterweight championship match between Mickey Walker, the titleholder, and Tommy Milligan, European champion, on the proposed Christmas Fund card.

Plans Now Arrangement.

When the request was denied, Promoter Rickard announced he intended to make an effort to adjust the situation with Walker and Milligan so that a welterweight title bout will be possible. It is understood Rickard plans to give Walker a percentage arrangement which will be equivalent to $35,000 for the champion, and to Milligan an arrangement which will not the English fighter $10,000. On this basis Rickard is confident he can arrange a card which will attract a "gate" of $150,000, and thus show an appreciable profit for the Christmas Fund. Rickard expects today to be in a position to announce whether this proposition appeals to Walker.

In the event that the Walker-Milligan plans fail, Promoter Rickard plans to hold a bout in which the lightweight title will be at stake. Jimmy Goodrich, winner of the commission's elimination tournament, is to be a participant in this match. The commission favors Lucien Vines, French boxer, who holds the European title, as an opponent for Goodrich solely because of the international title aspect such a match would have.

Rickard and boxing followers generally, however, prefer a bout between Goodrich and Luis Vicentini, Chilean lightweight.

WALKER TO DEFEND HIS TITLE TONIGHT

Welterweight King Will Face Friedman in Twelve-Round Bout in Newark.

Mickey Walker's world's welterweight championship will hang in the balance tonight in the ring at the 113th Infantry Regiment Armory, Newark, where the titleholder is to battle the rugged Sailor Friedman of Chicago for twelve rounds. The contest will be a no-decision affair under the boxing law of New Jersey, but Walker's title will be at stake nevertheless, for the principals have been compelled by a recent ruling of the New Jersey Boxing Commission to make the welterweight class weight of 147 pounds at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Friedman will become champion if he knocks Walker out, is fouled by Walker or if the popular Elizabeth boxer suffers some incapacitation which will prevent his completing the full twelve rounds.

Followers of boxing favor Walker to retain his title. The champion, with his terrific offensive, hitting strength and accuracy and ability to withstand the blows of an opponent, is expected to come through the twelve rounds with flying colors. Friedman, a sturdy veteran of many hard-fought ring battles, is recognized as a dangerous rival for Walker and is expected to make the champion extend himself to the limit. It is expected that more than 10,000 will witness the battle.

Jack Rappaport, South Orange, N. J., welterweight, and Sergeant Sammy Baker, rugged soldier boxer of Mitchel Field, are to clash in the ten-round semi-final.

In a 115-pound special bout Jimmy Rappaport, Community Centre Nov. 5, won the decision over Jack Cohen, Beecher's Club, after three interesting rounds.

6-DAY RACE STARTS AT 9 P. M. SUNDAY

Will Be First Time Bike Grind Has Ever Begun Before Midnight.

FIRST SPRINTS AT 10 P. M.

Chapman Plans Setting Regular Night Sprints Back Hour on New Garden Saucer.

The six-day bicycle race, which opens in the New Madison Square Garden on Sunday night, will witness a departure from the custom of the past. It was decided yesterday at a meeting of Promoter Tex Rickard and Manager John M. Chapman to start the six-day whirl at 9 o'clock on Sunday night, instead of at one minute past midnight, as has been customary heretofore. Never before in the history of the race has it been started earlier than midnight. In addition, a series of amateur and professional match races will be held Sunday night between 8 and 9 o'clock, giving patrons plenty of competition with the excitement of being in attendance at the start of the grind.

The first sprints of the race under the new starting time will be held starting at 10 o'clock Sunday night. The opening night's crowd, therefore, is assured an hour's mad riding, for the initial sprints, like the other regular point sprints of the race, will continue until 11 o'clock. The second series of sprints will be held at 1:30 o'clock Monday morning, and for the remainder of the race the morning and afternoon sprints will be as heretofore, at 2:30 A. M. and 8 P. M. Chapman indicated that the night sprints of the coming race will be held from 10 o'clock to 11 o'clock, instead of from 9 to 10 P. M., as in the past.

No decision has been made as to the closing hour of the race, but the belief is that the grind will close at 11 o'clock. The usual hour, aiding two hours, a total of 145 hours for the race.

Manager Chapman declared that he was catering to the patrons of the race in revising the starting time and in considering a change in the time of the night sprints. "People all seem to want to be present at the start of the race," said Chapman, "and to have their first glimpse of the new Garden."

The field in the six-day race will be composed of fourteen American cyclists and sixteen foreign riders, comprising fifteen crack teams.

There are seven Italian riders, four Australians, two Belgians, two Frenchmen and one German rider. The Italians are: Georgetti, Girardengo, Belloni, Linari, Benasatti, Binetelli and Ferrario. Wambst and Lacquesay represent France; Debeets and Gaudens are from Belgium, while Petri is the German in the race. The Australians are: Walker, Horder, Grenda, and McBeath. The Americans who will compete are: Goullet, McNamara, F. Spencer, Horan, Winter, Croley, W. Spencer, Eaton, Kockler, Stockholm, Coburn, Keller, Walthour Jr. and Taylor.

Fast Finish Wins the Shenandoah Handicap for Wilderness at Bowie Track

WILDERNESS WINS THE SHENANDOAH

Trails at Start, but Closes With Rush to Beat Cudgeller at Bowie Track.

SIX FAVORITES IN FRONT

Public Choices Prove Their Mettle—Thurber First With Nomad, Forecaster and Opperman.

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 24.—Wilderness, R. T. Wilson Jr.'s five-year-old horse by Campfire—Genesta, galloped his way to victory in the Shenandoah Handicap, the leading number on the card at Prince Georges Park this afternoon. Carrying 116 pounds and guided by Johnny Maiben, Wilderness came from far back with a belated rush to win easily in the fast time of 1:48 1-5, only a fifth of a second slower than the track record for a mile and a sixteenth. Wilderness was the favorite in a field of six and paid his backers $5.30 for each $2 ticket in the mutuels.

The track was again lightning fast and records were closely approached in a number of races. Horses ran true to form and those who stuck to the favorites were amply rewarded, six coming first past the winning post. Jockey Thurber had a field day with three winners. He was first with Nomad in the third, won the fifth with Forecaster and brought home Opperman in the sixth. He was twice unplaced.

Wilderness was very slow in leaving the barrier and ran last during the first part of the race. He moved up gradually and then showed a fine burst of speed entering the homestretch. He closed with a great rush and was going away at the end to beat Cudgeller by a length and a half.

Pepp Makes His Bid.

George W. Loft's four-year-old gelding Pepp made a strong effort at the turn out of the backstretch and came up into second position. He hung on the last quarter and was beaten for the place by three parts of a length. Lieutenant Il, second choice in the wagering, retired after going six furlongs to finish last.

Nine smart juveniles ran the six and a half furlongs of the Aero Purse, the winner being Marshall Field's Nomad, a bay son of Omar Khayyam, which came home a length in front of the Flamingo Farm's Centrifugal, the same distance separating the latter and Mrs. L. A. Livingston's gelding Fatal Dart. The winner was the favorite.

The field was well away after a delay of four minutes at the post. Centrifugal set a fast pace from the barrier and raced down R. W. Carter's filly Muffet. Thurber was up on Nomad, which showed great improvement under energetic handling. The colt took command and was under only slight pressure in the final drive. Centrifugal held on well, while Fatal Dart closed with a rush.

Seven in Everglades.

The Everglades Purse, a gallop of a mile and seventy yards, restricted to the three-year-olds, brought seven to the post, the winner being T. W. O'Brien's home-bred colt Forecaster, by Piuvius out of Risponde.

The summaries:

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—For the second time since the opening of the international chess masters' tournafent here, José R. Capablanca of Cuba, world champion, today met with defeat in his game adjourned from the ninth round, in the first sitting of which Werlinsky of Russia had established a superior position. The Russian won upon resumption much more easily than had been expected and he scored the game amid generous applause after sixty moves had been recorded. In consequence of this additional setback, Capablanca dropped to ninth place in the competition with an even number of wins and losses to his credit on the score board.

Marshall, the United States champion, also lost his game to Saemisch of Germany, standing adjourned from the tenth round. The American was unable to overcome the handicap under which he labored at the time of resumption and Saemisch scored in 64 moves. Marshall is in fourth place, half a point below Torre of New York, who is third. The latter did not play today.

Bogoljubow, Russian champion, also was idle, but remained at the top of the list, inasmuch as Dr. Lasker of Germany was unable to make any headway against the stubborn defense of Gruenfeld of Austria in the game which had been adjourned twice from the fourth round. Dr. Lacker did not abandon the effort to win until a total of ninety-nine moves had been made. Dr. Lasker, therefore, is still in second place.

Gruenfeld also finished his game with Yates of England from the seventh round and in this case he was victorious. Next Yates sat down with Rubinstein of Poland and finished that game. The Englishman won in eighty-one moves. Saemisch notched a second point at the expense of Dus-Chotimirsky of Russia. In the other games Werlinsky, after drawing with Gotthilf of Russia, lost his game from the eleventh round to Romanowsky of Russia. Rabinowitsch and Yates as well as Yates vs. Genewsky remain unfinished.

The twelfth round will be played tomorrow with the players paired as follows: Genewsky vs. Rubinstein, Bogatyrtschuk vs. Yates, Werlinsky vs. Gruenfeld, Reti vs. Romanowsky, Torre vs. Lasker, Dus-Chotimirsky vs. Capablanca, Marshall vs. Gotthilf, Loowenfisch vs. Bogoljubow, Tartakower vs. Saemisch, Spielmann vs. Subarew, Rabinowitsch, a bye.

Griffith Says Grange Will Cut Loose in Pro Football As He Did in College

ELGIN, Ill., Nov. 24 (AP).—The present age of professionalism is killing amateur baseball in America and is making deep inroads into football, in the opinion of Major John L. Griffith, Commissioner of Athletics in the Big Ten Conference.

"I cannot blame Red Grange for joining with the professionals," declared Major Griffith to The Associated Press, "but I am sorry that he did so. It will certainly hurt the amateur sport, just as I am confident it will help the professional game.

"I would rather have seen Red take the advice of George Huff and finish school. Then he could have capitalized on his athletic ability, or, better yet, he could have followed some well-founded business proposition. I personally know of one offer that he had at $15,000 a year, for a five-year contract, at the end of which time he would have been well established in business.

"Still, you take the average American boy and give him the opportunity to make $25,000 in a short time and you will find very few that turn it down. Many of those who have censured Grange for becoming a professional football player and quitting school, would be among the first, to accept the $25,000 if given a chance."

Major Griffith expressed the opinion that Grange would cut loose in the professional ranks, just as he set the world on fire while a college grid star.

HEARTY SEND-OFF FOR CORNELL TEAM

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Thirty Cornell football players, in charge of Coach Doble and Assistant Coaches Hunt, Hanson and Pfann, left Ithaca tonight for Philadelphia, where they will rest tomorrow for the annual game with Penn on Thanksgiving Day. For the first time this season the undergraduates organised a big send-off.

Bailey Hall was jammed at the mass meeting addressed by Captian Francis Kearney of the team and by Professor Charles L. Durham. This was followed by a parade to the station over a route lighted by red fire.

Meanwhile hundreds of undergraduates are making preparations to follow the team, the majority by special trains.

The football team held an hour's drill on the field late this afternoon, spending most of its time in rehearsal of the plays to be used against Penn, which went off with characteristic precision. With the exception of Emerson Carey, left guard, all of the regulars are in fine fettle. Doble does not know yet whether he can start Carey. While surprises in the line-up are hinted, they were not disclosed today.

PENN DRILLS AT SHORE.

Has Morning and Afternoon Workouts Preparing for Cornell Battle.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 24.—Pennsylvania's gridiron warriors were sent through two slight but snappy workouts today on the links of the Seaview Golf Club, where they are winding up their preparations for the annual conflict with Cornell on Franklin Field Thanksgiving Day.

Stress was placed upon the defensive side of the game in the morning practice, with especial emphasis laid upon stopping Cornell's famous off-tackle thrusts. The afternoon practice consisted in polishing up the Quaker offense. The players were also sent through a short fast signal drill. Don Singer returned to his position at end on the varsity team and may start in the game against Cornell.

NAVY'S FORMATIONS TRIED OUT BY ARMY

Cadets Conclude Their Heavy Work in Preparation for Big Game on Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 24.—The heavy work in preparation for the Navy contest ended today as the Army men wound up a two hours' practice period. Most of the time was spent in defensive drill, two elevens being sent into action against the Navy formations. There was also a half-hour devoted to the Army's attack, and in this the varsity, lining up much the same as when the cadets face the middies, displayed considerable smoothness and coordination.

Baxter and Born were the ends, Sprague and Saunders the tackles, Schmidt and Seeman the guards and Daly the centre. In the backfield the coaches used Harding at quarter, with Trapnell and Wilson as halfbacks and Tiny Hewitt at fullback. Other backs who got into the drill were Don Carlos Buell, Mike Yeomans and Scheiffler. Hammack, Elias and Bunker were also used in the line.

It may be decided at the last moment to substitute Yeomans in Harding's place at quarter to start the game, but the former seems to have the call at this moment. Yeomans, Trapnell and Hewitt were in the kicking drill, as the coaches, still trying to improve this admittedly weak feature of Army's game, ordered an extra period of instruction for the punters. The squad is not due to leave here before Friday, and two more days remain for practice, and they will be used to impart the final touches.

CADETS TO MARCH FIRST.

Middies to Reach Polo Grounds Saturday 15 Minutes Later.

Announcement was made yesterday that the corps of cadets from West Point would march into the Polo Grounds on Saturday, where the annual Army-Navy game will be held, at 1:15 o'clock. Fifteen minutes later the middies from Annapolis will march onto the field. The cadets will go through their usual drill, will hold mass cheering on the gridiron and then will double time to their seats in sections W and V.

Two special trains will bring the cadets to New York from the Point. The trains will leave the garrison at 10:50 and 11 A. M., arriving at High Bridge, where the cadets will detrain, at about noon. The corps will be formed immediately after leaving the trains and will march to the Polo Grounds.

All day Saturday will be a holiday for the cadets. Drills have been suspended, class room work called off, and after the game the future generals will be at liberty until time for their trains to go back to the Point. Entrainment will be shortly before midnight at Grand Central terminal.

OWSLEY CONTINUES NAVY SCRIMMAGES

Stresses Defensive Work Against Army Formations and Wide End Runs.

TEAM VIRTUALLY SETTLED

Middies Will Outweigh Cadets on the Line, but Back Field Will Be Lighter.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 24.—Though it was expected that scrimmages at the Naval Academy would end with yesterday's workout, Head Coach Owsley decided to continue them this afternoon, most of them being devoted to defensive work against West Point's offense, particularly its wide end runs.

Owsley, who saw the cadets in action Saturday, and the other Navy coaches are impressed with the belief that the Army is more dangerous along this line than any other, and everything possible is being done to prepare for it. In Wilson and Trapnell the Army has two fine running backs, and surprise is expressed that with the other elements of strength in the soldier eleven this season a better showing has not been made.

Wilson has opposed the Navy four times, three times as a member of the Penn State team, while Trapnell has developed greatly this year and is to be taken into account, according to the Navy scouts, to as great a degree as Wilson.

A program of dummy scrimmaging is planned for tomorrow, and at 8:45 Thursday morning the team will entrain for Philadelphia, where it will see the Cornell-Pennsylvania battle Thanksgiving afternoon, afterward continuing to New York, where practice will be held on the Polo Grounds Friday.

The official Navy weights, announced today, indicate that the Middies will be somewhat heavier in the line than the Cadets, but with the Army holding the advantage in the back field. The Navy eleven will average slightly better than 177 pounds, with a fraction better than 183 pounds from end to end in the line and 168 pounds in the back field.

Captain Gus Lents, at left guard, weighing 200 pounds, is the heaviest man on the team, with Wickhorst, at left tackle, next at 192. Caldwell, who is likely to replace Banks at right half, is the team's lightweight. He weighs 160.

The team on Saturday, from end to end, it was virtually decided tonight, will comprise Hardwick, Wickhorst, Captain Lents, Hutchins, Edwards, Eddy and Burnet, with Hamilton at quarter, Shapley at full and Flippen and Caldwell, halfbacks.

738,555 Persons Have Seen Grange Make Football History

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 24 (AP).—Nearly three-quarters of a million persons have attended the games in which Red Grange and his University of Illinois team have participated in the three years of his college football career. Figures made public today showed that the three years' total paid admissions was 738,555. In Grange's first year, with the star absent from only one game, the attendance was approximately 185,000. The next season the figures dropped to 182,000, Red staying on the bench for two games. Appearing in every game in 1925, Red saw the attendance figures jump to 371,000, a total almost equal to that of his first two years.

FORDHAM'S ELEVEN GOES TO CLEVELAND

Will Practice There Today in Preparation for Game With John Carroll Tomorrow.

The Fordham football troupe, thirty-five strong, twenty-seven of whom were players, entrained early last night for Cleveland, where the Maroon will meet John Carroll University tomorrow in the second intersectional game that Fordham has played this season. All the injured members of the squad were taken along, in the hope that they would be able to get into the Maroon's final game of the season.

Hopes were high yesterday that Captain Joe Manning would be able to celebrate the last game of his football career by starting the game at left halfback. The Maroon leader injured his shoulder in the early minutes of the Georgetown contest last Saturday and was out of the line-up when the team appeared on the field for the second half. At that time he was not expected to play at all against John Carroll, but he improved so much yesterday that it was indicated that he would be ready to play.

Ralph Buckley, however, is definitely out of the contest, although he was with the team when it left. His knee was hurt in the Blue and Gray tilt. Bill Feaster will be at his accustomed place at left tackle, although he still has a deep gash over his right eye. Besides Buckley, Manning is the only one who is uncertain about playing.

The entire student body gave the team a send-off as it left for the Grand Central Station. The meeting was the most spirited held at the Bronx institution this season.

Fordham will hold its only workout of the week today at Dunn Field in Cleveland, where the game will be played tomorrow. The physical condition of the players was so bad after the Georgetown fray that Gargan called off all practice until today.

Hyde of Harvard, former titleholders, are the outstanding contenders among the sixty-four who are listed in the draw.

Rowland H. George of the New York A. C., who formerly held the Class B title as a member of the D. K. E. Club, put out one of the leading performers of the Harvard Club, defeating Gerald Henderson at 15-10, 15-7. George has not been active for the last two seasons, but he showed last night that he is as good a player as when he held the B title. Henderson extended him in the first game, but once the New York A. C. man struck his best stride he held the play completely in his command and ran through the second game quickly.

Gavin Brackenridge, one of the leading players of the Princeton Club, who is conducting the tournament, had little trouble in winning his first match with F. W. Dort, another Harvard representative. Six points were all that he allowed his opponent in each of two games.

In the only match of the day that went to three games Frederick S. Whitlock of Harvard triumphed over Frank Hart of the Montclair A. C. Hart was slow in finding himself, and his shots found the telltale often. In the second game his control was much better, and Whitlock found he had to play at top speed for the rest of the match. Hart won the second game by a narrow margin, and the best play developed in the final game.

The two men put up a beautiful exhibition of smashing, and so evenly were they matched that the outcome was in doubt until the last stroke. The score was tied at 13—all and a game of 5 was set. Whitlock was the steadier from this point, and his placing more accurate, with the result that he won 5 points while Hart was getting 3. The final score was 15—8, 12—15, 18—16.

S. M. Sperry of the Princeton Club, who won the national Class C title last season, and Arnold Wood of the Princeton Club were the other winners of the day. Sperry disposed of C. F. Brown of Montclair with ease, allowing him only one point in the first game, while Wood defeated R. H. Reutter of the Columbia University Club after a close struggle.

The summaries:

First Round—Arnold Wood Jr., Princeton, defeated R. H. Reutter, Columbia, 15—10, 15—12; Rowland H. George Jr., N. Y. A. C., defeated Gerald Henderson, Harvard, 15—10, 15—7; Frederick S. Whitlock, Harvard, defeated Frank Hart, Montclair, 15—8, 12—15, 18—16; S. M. Sperry, Princeton Club, defeated C. F. Brown, Montclair, 15—1, 15—0; Gavin Brackenridge, Princeton, defeated F. W. Dort, Harvard, 15—6, 15—6.

Final Workouts for Columbia and Syracuse at Polo Grounds Today

COLUMBIA SQUAD HAS LAST PRACTICE

Coach Crowley Puts Finishing Touches on His Team for the Syracuse Game.

BUS RIDE FOR MEN TODAY

Sesit and Reynolds Appear in Final Drill and May Be Sent In Tomorrow.

Getting their final workout of the year at Baker Field, Columbia's football warriors were sent through a stiff session yesterday afternoon in preparation for the Thanksgiving Day wind-up with Syracuse. An hour of dummy scrimmaging between the regulars and the junior varsity, a snappy signal drill and intensive work in the fundamentals composed a practice in which Coach Crowley and his aids applied the final touches to the play of the Blue and White.

This morning the squad will be taken on a bus trip around the city in an effort to afford the men relaxation. In the afternoon, however, the team will journey up to the Polo Grounds and run through a light drill on the gridiron where the encounter is to be staged. The practice will begin at 3:30, the Syracuse squad being scheduled to work out for an hour and a half before that time.

Sesit and Reynolds Out.

Mike Sesit, injured halfback, and Jim Reynolds, sophomore tackle, and another casualty were in the first team's line-up throughout yesterday's signal drill and for part of the dummy scrimmaging. Neither, however, is completely recovered from the injuries in the Army game, and it is a toss-up as to whether they will get into tomorrow's fray. Their return marked the first occasion on which Coach Crowley has been able to muster his eleven regulars since the encounter with the cadets.

Team A, as it lined up for the signal drill and for part of the mock engagement with the Jayvees, had Wagner and Brady on the ends, Reynolds and Aulieh as tackles, Shaw and Wiberg at guard, Schimetitsch at centre, Captain Pease at quarter, Sesit and Madden as halfbacks, and Kirchmeyer, who has completely recovered from his foot infection, at fullback. When Sesit and Reynolds were removed Empringham and Kerrigan replaced them. The left halfback and left tackle berths are the only posts in doubt, Captain Pease being in great condition for the last game of his career.

Raphael, the big guard who was forced out of his regular job by injuries, performed with Team B in the signal drill, but it is doubtful wether he will get into the game with Shaw and Wiberg in tip-top fettle. Six members of the first eleven will be playing in their last game.

Try Out Syracuse Plays.

The dummy scrimmage in which the regulars opposed the junior varsity was devoted to perfecting the varsity's defense against Syracuse formation, particular attention being paid to the Orange forward passing attack as exhibited by the Lion scrubs.

Led by Coach Reynolds and Captain Foley, the Syracuse advance squad of twenty-seven players arrived in New York at 10:10 last night and made its headquarters at the Hotel Pennsylvania. More Orange gridmen will make the trip down in buses today, getting in this evening, with the university band and a host of undergraduates accompanying them.

Contrary to reports, many good seats are still on sale, and they may be obtained at the Columbia Athletic Association office on the Morningside campus, the offices of the New York Giants, various sporting goods stores or at the gate tomorrow. The game will start at 2 o'clock.

FRIEDMAN RETURNS TO SYRACUSE LINE

Injured Knee in Shape, Coach Reynolds Will Start Him Against Columbia.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 24.—The Syracuse University squad of twenty-eight players, accompanied by Coach Pete Reynolds and his staff of assistants, left on the Empire Express at 4 o'clock this afternoon for New York, where on Thanksgiving Day the Orange will meet Columbia in their annual gridiron classic.

The players were given a short drill this afternoon and at the end Coach Reynolds expressed complete satisfaction with the work of his men in all departments. The first and second teams will engage in a thorough practice at the Polo Grounds tomorrow afternoon.

Definite announcement was made today by Coach Reynolds that Myles Friedman would be in the line-up at centre when Syracuse takes the field against Columbia. Dr. Paul Lowry reported that the Orange centre's injured knee had responded nicely to treatment and that he will be in shape to play.

The fight for the fullback position has simmered down to Ray Barbuti and Wilfred Mann, the selection to be withheld for announcement until just before game time. Captain Jim Foley who until last Saturday worked at quarterback, will be in the backfield with Harlan Carr, while Charley Cooke will replace Foley as field general.

A large delegation of rooters, including the University Band, will leave for New York tomorrow.

COLUMBIA TO PLAY OHIO STATE HERE

Penn, Vermont, William and Mary, Union and Duke Newcomers on 1926 Football List.

THREE BIG GAMES AT HOME

Cornell, Syracuse and Westerners to Appear in City—Philadelphia Trip Only One.

Columbia's major opponents on the gridiron in 1926 will be Cornell, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and the Ohio State eleven. The Blue and White schedule for next season, released yesterday by Reynolds Benson, graduate manager of athletics at the Morningside institution, calls for nine game, with Penn, Vermont, Union, Duke University and William and Mary replacing the Army, Haverford, Johns Hopkins, Williams and New York University as foes of the Blue and White eleven.

All of the dates announced are definite with the exception of the Ohio State clash, which has been set for New York on Oct. 16. Final negotiations with the Columbus athletic moguls are now proceeding satisfactorily and it is almost certain that Coach Wilce's Buckeye gridmen will come East.

Supporters of the Columbia eleven will be treated to a series of gridiron feasts, for in addition to the Ohio State engagement both the Cornell and Syracuse games will be played in this city, either at the Polo Grounds or the Yankee Stadium. It was expected that the Ithacans would entertain the Lion upState next season, but the dates have been shifted and now New York will get this annual classic in 1926 and 1928.

With Syracuse also coming to this city for the third consecutive Thanksgiving Day attraction in which the Orange and the Blue and White have figured, the only out-of-town game will be that with Pennsylvania, which will entertain the Lion at Philadelphia on Nov. 13.

Particular interest attaches to the booking of Duke and William and Mary, the Southern teams being listed for games at Baker Field on Oct. 23 and Nov. 6, respectively. Both elevens are making their first appearance on the Morningside gridiron schedule.

The other early-season games, however, have been arranged with a view to giving the Lion more competition than was obtained this year. Vermont, which opens the season at Baker Field on Sept. 25, should prove stronger than Haverford, while Union, the next rival, is looked upon as a more powerful outfit than the 1925 Johns Hopkins eleven. Wesleyan will again hold third place on the Columbia gridiron program.

The schedule follows:

Sept. 25, Vermont, at Baker Field.
Oct. 2, Union, at Baker Field; 9, Wesleyan, at Baker Field; 16, Ohio State (tentative), at New York; 23, Duke University, at Baker Field; 30, Cornell, at New York.
Nov. 6, William and Mary, at Baker Field; 13, Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; 25 (Thanksgivin) Syracuse, at New York.

Ohio State Expects Game Here.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 24 (AP).—Ohio State University's tentative football schedule for 1926 calls for games with Columbia at New York and Iowa and Michigan at Columbus, Dr. J. W. Wilce, head coach of the Buckeyes, announced here.

Philadelphia and Boston Win In Inter-City Field Hockey

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 24 (AP).—Women's field hockey teams from Philadelphia and Boston won the opening contests today in the fifth annual intercity tournament of the United States Field Hockey Association, played on the Wellesley College campus. Philadelphia defeated the Fairchester team (N. Y.) 16 to 0, and Boston won from Chicago, 9 to 1. Philadelphia has won the tournament for the past two years. Other competing teams are Baltimore, New York and the team from Ireland. The tournament will end on Saturday. A team of English coaches defeated New York in an exhibition today, 10 to 0.

KEEFER TO CAPTAIN BROWN TOMORROW

Back Field Star Chosen in Place of Stifler, Who Has Been Disqualified by College.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 24.—Jack Keefer, star of the Brown back field, will be acting captain of his team Thanksgiving Day in the game with Colgate. Coach Edward N. Robinson was empowered to appoint him in place of Captain James Stifler, disqualified for further playing by the University Athletic Association.

With a squad cut down to twenty-five members by injuries, Coach Robinson this afternoon put his charges through their last hard workout of the season in preparation for Colgate. He kept them busy in intensive signal drill and dummy scrimmage until long after dark.

Tomorrow only a light practice to polish up plays will be held. The contest on Thanksgiving will probably see the return of Dave Mishel to his post at quarterback. The remainder of the back field will probably be made up of Keefer and Dixon, half backs, and Payor, full back.

It may be, however, that Payor will be held as a reserve half back if Jones, Lawrence and Consodine, full backs, are prepared for the game. Captain Stifler's old position at right end will probably be filled by E. T. Towle, a youngster who won his right to the job last Saturday.

Broda is scheduled for left end, O. Smith and H. Morey for the tackles and Provonchee and D. Morey for the guards. Holden or Haines will be at centre to take the place of Stephens, Hodge and Getz, who are now on the hospital list.

W. Va. Holds Final Drill.

Special to The New York Times.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 24.—Venturing on the stadium gridiron for the first time in weeks, the West Virginia varsity football squad hurried through its last real workout before Thursday's game with Washington and Jefferson with the temperature hovering around the freezing mark.

COLGATE SQUAD OFF FOR BROWN BATTLE

Many Rooters Follow 26 Players to Providence for Tryon's Last Game.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Led by coaches Harlow and Abel, Trainer Rourke and Student Manager Hulburd, the undefeated Colgate eleven tonight entrained for Providence to battle Brown on Thursday.

Twenty-six men made the trip: Captain Eddie Tryon, Levinson, Timm, Connors, MacFarlane, Beuthel, Maikat, Dagrossa, Mason, Abrams, Bray, Burke, Kern, Harnish, Williamson, Bloomfield, Mehler, Shaughnessy, Seybolt, Brewer, Van Horn, Anderson, Newell, Bull, Granning and Simmonds.

A light workout was held before leaving, and the team appeared in prime condition after the ten-day respite since the Syracuse game. Thanksgiving will mark the final gridiron appearance of Captain Eddie Tryon, Levinson, Beuthel, Dagrossa, Seybolt and Granning.

A large delegation of rooters followed the team, for the hardest game of the year is anticipated and all want a glimpse of Eddie Tryon in his farewell game.

GREENLEAF IS TRAILING.

Outscores McCoy, but Fails to Overcome the Handicap.

Ralph Greenleaf, although outscoring James McCoy in both blocks of their handicap pocket billiard match at the Strand Academy yesterday, failed to complete his two-day quota of 500 to McCoy's 300, the total score now standing 423 to 301. Greenleaf must score 1,500 to McCoy's 900 to win.

In the afternoon yesterday Greenleaf got 147 to McCoy's 84 in twenty-five innings, with a high run of 51 to 17. In the evening he made 106 to 67, with best run of 29 to McCoy's 17 in nineteen innings.

OTHER BILLIARD RESULTS.

Tadao Suganuma is leading Eric Hagenlacher, 1,471 to 896, in their 4,800 point straight rail match at Lawler Brothers' Academy, Brooklyn. Yesterday afternoon Hagenlacher took the third block, 400—271, but in the evening Suganuma came back to win, 400—268. Suganuma's high run for the day was 247 and Hagenlacher's 208.

Herbert Hammer defeated Harold Stern, 250—170, last night in a Metropolitan handicap 18.2 match of thirty innings at the Recreation Academy, Brooklyn. The winner's high run was 57 and the loser's 26.

Henry Frantzen beat Herbert Van Tassel, 35—27, in sixty-seven innings, in a New York State tournament three-cushion match at Cranfield's Academy last night. Frantzen's best run was 5, Van Tassel's 3.

Andy Bradley won from Frank Kelly, 25—20, in a three-cushion tournament match at Yank Adams's Academy last night in fifty-five innings. Both had high runs of 4.

William Tarsh won a Class B English billiard tournament at Doyle's last night, beating J. Shaw, 200—131, in the final. High runs were 25 and 21, respectively. At the same academy E. R. Ferry beat Charles Cast, 63—61, in the final match of a Class C snooker round robin event.

Will Ketchel, Al Lehman, George Fox, Eli Cohen, Halsey Mohr and Sidney Beauregard won a turkey apiece in the weekly rapid fire three-cushion tournament at Hoppe's Academy.

W. R. Caldwell captured the weekly handicap 18.2 tournament at the Amateur Billiard Club last night, beating H. Trousdell, 35—30, in the final.

STATE BILLIARD TITLE WON BY ARTHUR WOODS

Defeats Concannon in 14 Innings, Making His Record Seven Victories and One Defeat.

Arthur Woods of Syracuse by defeating Joseph Concannon of Brooklyn, 125-27, in the last match of the New York State pocket billiard championship tournament at Kreuter's Academy last night, won the title, with a record of seven victories and one defeat. The match lasted fourteen innings, and the victor had a high run of 58 to Concannon's 15.

A victory for Concannon would have given him a tie for first place, but the defeat shoved him into a deadlock with Erwin Rudolph and Charles Harmon for second, each having won five and lost three games. The final standing of the players, with games won and lost, high run and best game follows:

	W.	L.	H.R.	B.G.

MANHATTAN SHIRTS : IN THE NEW YORK MANNER

Meek, amiable, submissive
Manhattan Dress Shirts
$3 to $6
MOST dress shirts poke you in the ribs as you rise to acknowledge an introduction . . . . . bulge in front as you bend over to retrieve a program . . . . . puff up as you strut your stuff on the dance floor.
Manhattan have taken the once restless dress shirt and made it obedient, gentle, well-behaved.
All unnecessary stiffening has been eliminated. Harder to make a shirt that way, but much easier to wear.
Besides being unusually comfortable, Manhattan dress shirts are easily the smartest we've ever seen. They come in plain bosoms or in the new pique effects, many imported from France.

MORE TROUBLE IN TEXAS.

The storm signal in Texas politics is set again. It went up when the American Road Company confessed judgment in a suit begun by Attorney General DAN MOODY for $600,000 of excess profits on highway contracts. Two of the Commissioners, FRANK V. LANHAM and JOE BURKETT, immediately resigned, LANHAM saying that the early announcement of Mr. MOODY'S candidacy for Governor might now be expected. Another result of the celebrated case was the signing of a petition by more than fifty members of the Legislature asking the Speaker to call a special session. A month ago when it was first proposed the number of signatures required by the statute could not be obtained. Legislators were embarrassed by their action in restoring ex-Governor JAMES E. FERGUSON, the husband of the present Governor, to full citizenship. "I entered the race for Governor of Texas to vindicate the name of my husband," said the lady. Vindication would be incomplete unless his civil rights were given back to him. So the first business of her Administration was to have the Legislature pass a bill to efface the stigma of removal from office for misuse of State funds. The photographers took a picture of Governor MIRIAM signing the bill with JIM looking on. When the pen had traced her name he could run for office again. To some members of the Legislature it seemed like stultification to join in a movement the object of which was to impeach officials of the new State Administration, including the Governor herself, who had saved Texas from Ku Klux Klan domination.

However, when the American Road Company surrendered to MOODY there was no longer hesitation to sign the petition for a special session, which the Governor had shown no inclination to call. Public opinion demanded that those responsible for suspicious highway contracts should be called to account. Chivalry had been in order when it was a question of electing JIM FERGUSON'S wife as Governor, but now the pocket nerve of the taxpayer was jumping. T. K. IRWIN of Dallas, who circulated the petition for a special session, declared that its purpose was "to impeach any State officer who has aided or abetted in any way in the gigantic road construction fraud. * * * If the Legislature does meet, it will not stop with the Highway Commission." The door was still open to a call by the Governor. It remains to be seen what will be the tactics of the husband behind the Governor. He dearly loves a fight. Texas has seen him on the offensive for years together. But if the Legislature could make out a case against the Governor of unfitness for the office she holds, the effect on his own political fortunes might be disastrous. JIM FERGUSON is an adept in eccentric politics. But he must be in a quandary about his next move.

Texans are growing tired of the new Administration at Austin. The ex-Governor has always been the power behind the chair of his wife at the Executive office. She appointed three of his friends to the Highway Commission. He has coached her about the public business. She has pardoned and paroled 1,122 penitentiary convicts—on whose advice but his? When remonstrated with the Governor exclaimed: "Yes, I am going to continue it, no matter who kicks or howls." That sounded like the old JIM, of whom it has been said that he had few equals in Texas as a "rabble rouser." He constantly represents his wife. She has admitted her unfamiliarity with public affairs. She was obliged to lean on her husband, who knows all about them. The excellent woman, a home-lover, a good housekeeper and mother, is rather a pathetic figure in the storm that is gathering about her head as Governor of Texas.

THE TIRED PUBLIC MAN.

Even harassed Prime Ministers have their lighter moods, and STANLEY BALDWIN is no exception. He had occasion the other day to speak at a dinner given in London by the National Institute of Industrial Psychology. He rightly paid tribute to the useful work it has been doing in studying fatigue among shopworkers, and endeavoring to relieve the depressing monotony of one bit of machine work repeated day after day. The Institute is also proving itself useful in trying to help discover the vocational aptitudes of boys and girls. The whole conception is new and promises to be fruitful. Mr. BALDWIN warned his hearers that their movement had something in common with the League of Nations. It had two chief obstacles to encounter: "the prejudice of the people who think it can do nothing, and the support of the people who think it can do everything."

From tests for youth and from the question of helping workingmen to make their routine more bearable, the Prime Minister passed to the possibilities of applying similar methods to public life. What would happen if the psychological examinations of the Institute were employed in the case of members of the Government? For himself, Mr. BALDWIN professed horror and dismay at the thought of having to be tested in that way. The idea of trying the thing out on candidates for the Cabinet he was inclined to tolerate, though he concluded that it would be safer to leave the matter to his successor as Prime Minister. But he admitted that a great deal is to be said for a scientific study of fatigue in public men. If there were only some way of determining their physical ability to sit out a session of Parliament all night, and of deciding "how long they can speak without boring an audience," then, indeed, there would be reason to rise up and call the Institute blessed.

There seems nothing for it but to try to do for the tired public man what the endeavor is to do for the tired workingman. Make him think that his work is important in itself. Urge him to keep for himself in the midst of his daily drudgery a margin of mental leisure. Let him find time for recreation and for play. If he can't amuse himself in any other way, hold up to him Mr. BALDWIN'S own example in going to a gathering of earnest scientists and reformers and lighting up their proceedings with a few flashes of humor.

POLITICAL SAINTS AND SINNERS.

What's the trouble with the New York City Republicans? Bent on their perennial schemes of reorganization and rejuvenation, the good and wise look at Tammany enviously. So wicked, yet so successful! How shall the wise and good hope to triumph? By imitating the structure and judicious centralized rule of Tammany. This solemn thought is again expressed by the Chairman of the Republican Advisory Committee of the county, that body whose "wonderful work" Mr. KOENIG has sung. There must be a "central Republican board of management" controlling the party affairs in every borough. That is the recipe for securing "harmony of action and that influence in the affairs of city and State which comes only from solidarity of voice and vote." That's simple. Establish the central board and harmony and solidarity are assured.

When did Tammany get unified control of all the boroughs? On that point Chairman TUTTLE might consult Mr. MCCOOEY, for instance. But a Republican Tammany may be expected to be superior to the dissolute old concern on East Fourteenth Street. How is a Republican Tammany to "get next" to the people? The Tammany district leaders live with their people all the year round. They are of them and with them. Tammany is a good deal more than a machine. It has many of the characteristics of a social, a fraternal, a charitable society. It is also a sort of free intelligence and employment office. Tammany does a lot of things, some of which the Republicans have occasionally tried to copy. Yet many of the insufficient number of Republican voters are individualists and independents. They don't care a rap for harmony and solidarity in municipal campaigns.

To make a "purified" Tammany out of the disject members of the two or three Republican Parties now on view in Greater New York nothing much is needed but the creation of a new set of Republicans. Perhaps new leaders can be dispensed with until the great number of Republicans who refuse to follow have been replaced by a more docile stock. Still, the well-wishers must be charmed to see the fresh hope of making those old deserts, the Republican district clubhouses, blossom as the rose. They are to be community centres. They are to be forums. Go early, and avoid the rush. They are to promote "local welfare work." Tammany, with its ever glad and generous hand, is always at that, though it probably sickens at the pretentious name. "The need of the hour," cries the Chairman, "is for a progressive, popular policy, with a definite objective in social and industrial justice, achieved through the genuine rule of the people."

Hurrah! Mr. KOENIG and Mr. LIVINGSTON adjust their halos rakishly. Presumably "genuine rule of the people" is rule by the Republican people here. As there haven't been and aren't likely to be enough of them in these parts to rule, and as many thousands of them aren't Republicans at municipal elections, what could a Republican "central board of management" do for the reform of the unmanageable and incorrigible? The city Republican Party needs votes, not managers. Perhaps the advisory bigwigs can produce the missing votes out of their hats. Certainly Republican "solidarity" in municipal affairs ought to arrive not many years after West Hurley has a larger population than this village.

RAILWAYS AND STEAMSHIPS.

One of the recommendations in Mr. DALTON'S report on shipping is that railways should be allowed to resume operation of steamships. The railways were ordered to dispose of their steamship lines partly because the ownership of steamships by the railways made the regulation of rates difficult. The Interstate Commerce Commission's jurisdiction did not extend to water rates, so that it was difficult to punish the railways for cutting rates if the land rates were maintained. When the joint rate was cut in order to attract business the railways could maintain that it was the water rate which had been cut. In the thought of that time it was right for water carriers to compete with the railways, but wrong for the railways to compete with water carriers.

The effect of compelling the railways to give up their steamship extensions was to drive off the Pacific the Great Northern Railway's routes to the Orient. The Minnesota and Dakota were as conspicuous on the Pacific as the Leviathan on the Atlantic. There were other steamers on the southerly route across the Pacific from San Francisco. Now sentiment favors the revival of our merchant marine, and the railways may restore their steamships if the law is brought into accord with this change. The railways could attract a great traffic to American bottoms if they were able to quote a through rate from the prairie elevators over the North Atlantic routes. The argument for a subsidy to American ocean carriers puts it that American purveyors of American foods ought to have their own delivery service, just as do department stores. If the railways are allowed to establish a delivery service for the farmers, it may be supposed that wheat and pork will be attracted from the steamships maintained by the Canadian railways on both the Atlantic and Pacific. Americans can maintain a similar freight service if legal obstructions are removed. That is better than a subsidy to make good onerous costs of operation.

"THE SMITHSONIAN."

Founded in 1846 under the terms of the will of an English scientist, JAMES SMITHSON, who bequeathed to the United States his fortune of over a half million dollars for the establishment of an institution "for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men," the Smithsonian Institution has after eighty years a permanent fund of barely twice the amount of his original gift. With an income of only $65,000, it now finds itself, under costs that have prevailed since the war, unable to carry forward all the activities through which it has sought to fulfill the purposes of the founder and those who have supplemented his initial contribution. The Board of Regents is now making a general appeal for additional funds.

The fact that the home of this institution is located in Washington has led many to think of it as a Government bureau, but it is a private institution. It was privately founded. It has had only private endowments. It is privately directed, though a number of Government officials have membership in the Board, Chief Justice TAFT being its Chancellor. It is, however, the mother of several Government bureaus or commissions. The oldest of its official children is the United States Weather Bureau. In its infancy this bureau was only a volunteer weather observation service organized under the guidance of JOSEPH HENRY. The Government, appreciating its great service, took it over. The United States Fish Commission sprang from the pioneering activities of this private institution in the study of food fishes and river and ocean fauna in the days of SPENCER F. BAIRD. Another official scientific scion is the United States Geological Survey, another the United States National Museum and another the Bureau of American Ethnology.

Though the Smithsonian has been a fruitful mother of scientific children, whom the Government has adopted, there is work of its own to carry on as a private institution—work which the Government is not disposed to take over until the period of experimenting has successfully been passed through. It is in just such service that private wealth can be most helpful to public welfare—making researches which the Government would be slow to undertake because of the uncertainty of the outcome, but which will in any event increase the sum of human knowledge and may yield great benefit. It is hardly likely, for example, that the United States Government would have subsidized, as the Smithsonian did, a German living in Hamburg in making his experiments by which the ultra-violet rays were brought into the service of medicine and science in the cure of rickets. Nor would Congress have been disposed to make an appropriation to encourage MICHELSON in determining the standard meter in wave lengths, or to assist MORLEY in settling the atomic weights of oxygen and hydrogen.

As for its present researches, it is in quest of those fossil invertebrates which give mute information of the presence of mineral and oil; it is making studies of trees and shrubs in Mexico and Central America for the very practical purpose of eliminating waste in certain processes; it has anthropologists out in Java and South Africa; it has ethnologists preserving records of early Indian life; it has and is gathering specimens and distributing them to universities, museums and other scientific institutions, and it has pre-eminently diffused knowledge through its publications, its lectures, and the exhibition and lending of its collections. Besides, it has sixteen specific research projects on hand which include a multitude of subordinate projects that in no way duplicate the work of other scientific institutions. But it must restrict or abandon some or all if added funds are not found. Especially does the Smithsonian wish to restore its publications to the pre-war scale and keep its place as the logical national and international clearing house for scientific information. A hundred million people ought to make possible the addition of $10,000,000 to the resources of this Mother of Scientific Research.

ANOTHER "INCREASING FAILURE."

It would be a pity if the spirit that lifted the prohibition of cigarettes at Bryn Mawr should merely go up in smoke. Miss PARK'S presidential statement could scarcely have been so clear and convincing if it were not for the more notorious example of failure. In a self-governing community—which undergraduate Bryn Mawr manifestly is—conduct is regulated not so much by statutes as by "intelligent public opinion." In 1897 cigarette smoking by young women was one of those "larger matters" which are controlled by "conscience." Today it has become a "lesser matter" answerable only to "convention." "No democracy can keep on its books a regulation which stands apart from its other regulations in that it no longer rests solidly on intelligent public opinion."

Incidentally President PARK tells us that efforts to enforce the old rule have "increasingly failed." Not often has youth insurgent been provided material more apt. The cigarette is itself a torch of liberty. Its smoke is an incense fit for the Palladium of feminist revolt. If doors are closed and windows tightly barred, is it not always so in the holy of holies? Delicate throats may be rasped, but worship goes proudly on. It goes on at such a pace that, as President PARK deposes, the spirit of lawlessness "begins to affect the student relations to other regulations." A statute manifestly perverse brings in question all law.

According to a statement from the President of the Students' Self-Government Association, fewer than one-half of the Bryn Mawr undergraduates now smoke. The proportion will probably become less. Precisely as an unintelligent and tyrannous law incites illegality, so sensible regulation discourages it. Even now students may not smoke on the campus or on the athletic field when match games are in progress. But when no match is on they may smoke on the lower athletic field, and in every hall of residence there is to be a smoking room. In brief, what was once a feat of defiance becomes rather a bore, the thrilling conclave of old a breach of student good faith. The last spark of adventure is doused in the clandestine cigarette.

Doubtless the bigots will rage—those who, to recur to President PARK'S illuminating distinction, regard all narcotic indulgence as a matter of conscience and not of convention. But true friends of virtue will look with interest upon this microcosm of prohibition.

BISHOP STIRES.

Yesterday's consecration of Dr. STIRES as Bishop of Long Island was a great ecclesiastical ceremony, but it was much more than that. First of all, it was setting apart for a new and important work of the Church a clergyman who throughout twenty-five years in a leading parish of this city had acquired the experience and undergone the testing which proved him fully worthy to be summoned to a higher place in the service of the Episcopal Church. He will bear with him to his new duties the respect and confidence and affection of all who have been in contact with his ministry or in touch with his winning personality. He would be the first, however, to insist that above any individual significance of yesterday's ceremonial must be ranked the tribute to religion, and the testimony to the continuing place and power of the Church in modern life, seen in the great outpouring of the clergy and laity to greet and honor the new Bishop.

The sermon of Bishop BURCH seised happily the spirit of the occasion. The preacher felt moved to dwell upon the great opportunities, as well as great responsibilities, of religious teachers and religious organizations in these days. He urged an earnest striving after unity, together with the exalting of the essentials in which all believe. Bishop BRENT'S conception of the function and breadth of the work of the Church in modern times seems to be as large and inspiring as that of EDMUND BURKE in his famous burst of eloquence about the Church lifting its mitred head. We have heard many warnings and some despondent lamentations about the declining influence and prestige of the Church; but such a demonstration as that of yesterday at St. Thomas's is but one proof of many that, whatever may be the case with disputed dogmas, pure religion and undefiled still has its indestructible shrine in the heart of man.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Justice Is Stern in Canada.

Canada has had her troubles with "bandits" of the new school, but the troubles have been fewer, and the experiences of the criminals more often painful, than here. Some of the reasons for this difference are presented in remarks made by Mr. Justice MURPHY, holding court at Nanaimo, in British Columbia, before sentencing to ten years' imprisonment and twenty lashes one WILLIAM BAGLEY, who, with four other men, had robbed the local branch of the Bank of Canada.

The gang had come from across the border, and the Justice found it a fitting occasion to say that Canada was not to be made the happy hunting ground for criminals—that criminal procedure in Canada was simple and swift and endeavored to be certain. Verdicts once found, he went on, are rarely upset, and when they are there is another trial, no matter what the cost. "After conviction," he added, "the courts of British Columbia intend to deal drastically with would-be murderers—not that we seek vengeance, but that we intend to demonstrate that here in Canada law is respected."

In conclusion the Justice declared:

> Consideration may be given after a time, but once a verdict is imposed, Canadian sentiment will see to it that the punishment is such as will act as a deterrent, with a view to deterring the perpetration of this sort of thing, which I regret to say has become so common, namely, the organization of bands of criminals from the United States who come to our country to perpetrate murder.

If They Can, Why Haven't They?

Can American growers raise narcissus and related bulbs of as good quality as are raised in Europe? They say they can, and explain their failure successfully to compete with the foreign growers by mentioning the cheaper labor available abroad.

This question is taken up in a letter received from Dr. NEIL VAN AKEN. He is the publicity director of the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce in New York, but he raises some points that the American nurserymen cannot easily meet. He says that the workers in the bulb fields of Holland get good wages, but even if here like labor had to be paid twice as much, it would not be prohibitive, since the profit on an acre of bulbs in Holland is often $2,000. If it were as much here, or could be made as much, why, he asks, have not the American growers long since been able to compete with their foreign rivals?

Dr. VAN AKEN'S conclusion is that, if the Dutch bulbs are kept out, the American consumer will not have his demands met either as to quality or quantity, and still less as to price. The fight between the foreign and the American growers, he insists, should be before the Tariff Board, not before the entomologists of the Department of Agriculture.

The entomologists, however, do seem to have a right to speak, but their postponement of exclusion after they were awake to the dangers lurking in foreign bulbs is a mystery as yet relieved by no very clear gleams of light.

His Theory Doesn't Satisfy.

According to President MEZES of the City College, there was nothing in the campaign of the students against compulsory military training except a boyish desire to get out of two hours weekly of attendance at an inconvenient time.

It is, indeed, a queer peculiarity of youth everywhere to count it gain to get release from almost any scholastic activity. In schools and colleges there always is rejoicing over a "cut," no matter how gained.

But the City College is credited with having students of rather more serious minds than are found elsewhere. They are said to have an eager desire to get what has been made available there, and credulity is tried a little by President MEZES'S kindly theory.

Perhaps what the boys have been saying about military training was merely a "rationalizing," as the new psychologists say, of an unavowable motive—the desire to avoid work at an inconvenient time—but it is not easy to see in this a full explanation of the episode. There are no such expressions of horror over any of the other courses, though they also mean work at inconvenient times—at times, that is, when it would be more fun to rest or play.

This Rule Needs Defending.

A correspondent of THE TIMES who complained that while at the Metropolitan Museum he was ordered not to set down in his notebook facts about a ship model he was studying to get information in which he felt a special interest had, it will seem to most people, a real grievance. He found out on investigation that the attendant who stopped him was acting under orders, and that the orders were given by the museum authorities because some of the exhibits in it had been accepted under an agreement that they should not be copied or photographed.

As one of the museum's purposes is the education and enlightenment of the public, it is hard to see why any such agreement should have been made. Gifts have been rejected—and a notable instance of rejection occurred only the other day—because a donor sought to impose conditions.

To prevent the taking of notes about objects on exhibition certainly is going far, even though there might be sometimes a little difficulty in discriminating between note-taking and sketching. But why should there not be sketching?

TO INCULCATE HONESTY.

Advice for Business Firms in Eliminating Temptations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The inculcation of good habits among our young men and women will do more to free this country from crimes of fraud and violence than all the crime commissions that may be organized from now until kingdom come.

Business men, too, can do a great deal to help their young men and women employes along the paths of rectitude and straight thinking by eliminating or stopping up in their own businesses opportunities for intentional or unintentional theft.

Every business should keep a full and complete set of account books.

All moneys collected each day, whether by check or in cash, should be entered up in the cash receipts book, and then deposited in the bank at the end of the business day.

All payments for merchandise, wages, expenses, &c., in excess of $1 should be made by check.

An accurate check should be kept on all merchandise purchased and received, so that the proprietor may know at all times the amount of merchandise or stock on hand.

An accurate record should be kept of all goods or merchandise leaving the place of business, so that the proper person may be charged therefor.

Strict account should be kept of all petty cash expenditures, so that there may be no error from this source.

Crimes of theft and embezzlement on the part of confidential and trusted employes are usually due to:

(1) The theft of merchandise from the employer's place of business.

(2) Collusion with creditors to approve invoices for amounts greater than those actually received.

(3) Collusion with customers to ship more than the bill calls for.

(4) Collusion with customers to approve merchandise returned for a greater sum than is actually returned.

(5) Padding of payrolls.

(6) Padding of expense accounts or petty cash accounts.

(7) Theft of cash received for goods sold.

(8) Theft of checks received from customers in payment of their accounts.

(9) Intentional overpayment of creditors.

(10) Raising of check amounts or forging of check signatures.

There is only one way to prevent theft and embezzlement by trusted employes: Have your books audited monthly by a certified public accountant. The cost is not much and the feeling of security which results from such an audit is worth many times the cost. Many businesses have their books audited quarterly, annually and semi-annually. A great many things can happen in three months or six months and during the year.

A monthly audit of your books costs no more than if the work were done periodically. But the results achieved are greater. First, you know whether your books are accurate; second, whether your employes are honest; third, how you stand financially; fourth, whether you are making or losing money.

A monthly audit is the cheapest form of business insurance. It helps you keep your employes on the right path. It helps protect your business from internal theft.

The employer who trusts his employes and does not check up their honesty and accuracy is guilty of criminal negligence to the whole business community.

THE JUILLIARD ADVISERS.

An Explanation of Their Resignation From the Foundation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Advisory Committee of the Juilliard Foundation are informed through the newspapers by the Secretary and one of the trustees that they cannot have resigned, because their term of office expired last April.

When the members of the committee were asked last year to serve, they were not informed that there was a definite limit of one year to their service. In the minutes of the trustees' action creating the Advisory Committee and appointing its five members no mention is made of a term of one year. At the last meeting of the committee in March there was discussion as to whether further meetings should be held in April, May and June; it was decided that none should be held, because three members of the committee were to be absent in Europe. The Secretary presided at this, as at the previous meetings; and apparently the idea of a one-year term had not occurred to him at that time.

Nor have the members of the Advisory Committee since that meeting received anything in the nature of a notice from the trustees that their services were no longer expected or desired; or anything in the nature of a farewell or acknowledgment of those services, which, whatever their value, took a considerable amount of time, labor and thought, freely given in response to the trustees' request for help in the administration of a great trust. Our impression is that such a farewell and acknowledgment are customary.

Under these circumstances it hardly seems strange that the Advisory Committee thought themselves entitled, for reasons to them sufficient, to send their resignations to the trustees.

In the trial scene that closes "Alice in Wonderland" the King of Hearts promulgates a rule, ironically received by Alice, who declares it was made after the event it was intended to control: "That's not a regular rule; you invented it just now." There seems to be a certain similarity here with the decision of the Secretary and one of the trustees in regard to the Advisory Committee of the Juilliard Foundation.

FOR THANKSGIVING COMES.

For no rich pomp do I give thanks,
Or any wealth of power.
I have no fame to make me proud
In this most humble hour.

But one in need asked help of me
And I could give him aid—
A lift along a lonely road,
And faith to one afraid.

For this great boon that Thou didst grant,
Take, Lord, my thanks today—
When one I love cries out to me,
I need not say him nay.

FINGERPRINTING IN CRIME.

Its Value to the Courts—California System Recommended.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The interview appearing in THE TIMES on Nov. 23 with Mr. Buckner, Federal District Attorney, in which he expresses regret that the Federal courts lack the fingerprint system of the courts of this State, calls for comment.

At the outset there is the implication that the system in the State courts is excellent. We think it appears so to Mr. Buckner merely by comparison with the woeful want of a system in the United States courts. Valuable as the fingerprint methods are in the courts of this city, they leave much to be desired. Apparently the Federal system leaves even more to be desired.

In the latter it would seem that no one is fingerprinted until after sentence is imposed. In other words, he is not fingerprinted until the need for fingerprinting him in his case is ended.

In the criminal courts of this city—the inferior courts as embodied in Special Sessions and Magistrates' Courts, and the superior courts as embodied in the Court of General Sessions and the Criminal Terms of the Supreme Court and County Courts—it is usual to fingerprint after conviction. Consequently, the Judge, by deferring sentence for a suitable time, may at least have the benefit of the identity and record disclosed by a fingerprint search.

In the case of the superior courts just mentioned, the Judge usually draws on the Police Department, which keeps files of most persons arrested or convicted of felony in the greater city, and in addition has copies of the prints taken in the Magistrates' Courts of persons convicted in them of certain lesser offenses, some of which involve moral turpitude and throw much light on the defendant's character. Even here there is lacking, unless specially sought, some of the records contained in the Department of Correction of the city and many of those of the State Prison Department in Albany.

There is no authority given by any provision of law to take fingerprints before conviction in the State courts, as the published interview with Mr. Buckner seems to imply. It is simply done as a matter of necessity in many cases where a felony is charged. If not done, it is plain that there would be no guide to any judicial officer in fixing or denying bail; no guide to the prosecutor in determining whether the accused should be prosecuted as a repeater or habitual criminal, and, generally, a lack of information as a basis on which to deal with him. In the case of misdemeanors and minor offenses as to which fingerprints may be taken, they are not so taken until after conviction. As a result, nothing is known, say, of a gunman until after he is convicted, no matter how many times he may have been in the meshes of the law. In a case triable by a Magistrate, he may send a probation officer to some of the numerous bureaus elsewhere after conviction to discover further information, but unless he does so he may sentence the prisoner without any real knowledge of his character.

Until the numerous departments and bureaus of this city which take fingerprints, such as the Police, the Magistrates' Courts, the workhouse, and even others, are consolidated and cleared through a central bureau, and until the taking of fingerprints is authorized by law in all cases following arrests on charges involving moral turpitude, whether felonies or misdemeanors, the criminal problem in its various stages and phases cannot be properly met. It is understood, of course, that the fingerprint is merely a key or guide to locating and disclosing the written criminal records applicable to the case in hand.

The significance of fingerprints on arrest has recently been forcibly demonstrated by the Prison Committee of the Association of Grand Jurors of New York County in relation to bail and its abuses as contributing to crime.

The crying need is twofold—a central bureau or clearing house which may gather into one individual record from the various sources within the city, as well as within the State or nation, all that may pertain to a given individual; the other is that the fingerprinting shall be done promptly on arrest, to the end that the records be made available at the very outset of the prosecution and even before bail has been fixed. If a person once fingerprinted is thereafter acquitted, the prints taken on arrest may be destroyed, as is now provided by law in the case of photographs of alleged criminals.

California has a State law consolidating all criminal records throughout the State and making fingerprinting immediately on arrest mandatory in all cases except minor infractions, such as ordinances, traffic laws and the like.

We suggest that Mr. Buckner look for such a system as the California system and not merely copy the existing New York system, even though it be an improvement over present Federal methods.

Chairman Prison Committee Association of Grand Jurors New York County.

For Traffic Commissioner.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Both time and money have been generously spent to improve the present confused state of traffic throughout the city by one citizen in particular, who, if the incoming Administration has the good of the city at heart, should unquestionably be selected for the post of Traffic Commissioner.

This reference is to William W. Arnheim, whose greatest interest, aside from his business enterprise, is the past, present and future of the traffic question. He is unquestionably a shining example of what the average citizen can do toward public improvement. If offered the post of Traffic Commissioner, if he accepts, his power to clarify a most distressing situation, fast becoming seriously involved, will unquestionably be assured.

Still Room at the Top.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At this glad Thanksgiving season let us return thanks for a prosperity beyond the dreams of our ancestors, due undoubtedly to Calvin Coolidge and the Fordney-McCumber tariff. For example, twenty years ago there was a man named Willie Heston, as good in his day as Red Grange, or better. When his college career was over he was induced to play one professional game, but the promoters had to tempt him with the unheard-of honorarium of $500. I don't suppose Grange would even call signals over the radio for that puny sum. Yet there are those who dare to say that America is no longer the land of opportunity.

NO BAN AT BARNARD ON GIRLS' SMOKING

Assistant Dean Says College Never Has Officially Opposed the Practice.

Discouraged as Injurious to Health —Action Taken at Other Institutions.

Barnard College has never questioned the right of young women to smoke, according to a statement yesterday by Miss M. V. Libby, Assistant to Dean Gildersleeve.

While other noted colleges for women have taken stands one way or the other on this question, Barnard has never officially opposed smoking by women.

"Smoking is not permitted in the Administration Building, but that is largely a precaution against fire," said Miss Libby. "It is left to the students themselves to say whether there shall be smoking elsewhere. They are permitted to smoke in dormitories. They vote as to whether they shall smoke in study rooms. Some years they vote yes and some years they vote no. As the study rooms are used by many students at the same time, it is left to the student body to regulate their use.

"Barnard has never had any rule against smoking on the part of the students. The subject whether the girls ought or ought not to smoke has never been raised, officially. On the other hand, smoking is discouraged by medical lecturers here as injurious to health."

Action by Other Colleges.

Action of some kind or other has been taken on the smoking problem by most of the leading girls' colleges of the East within the last few months.

Bryn Mawr, it was announced Monday, legalized smoking through the action of the Self-Government Association of Bryn Mawr, which suspended the anti-smoking law of 1897 as unworkable.

Goucher College at Baltimore issued last month a rule that no student of that institution should smoke in college buildings or any public places. On the same day Massachusetts Institute of Technology ruled that young women would be permitted to smoke at dances and other social events in the Walker Memorial Building where undergraduate festivities are held.

Wellesley Faculty Opposes.

Just one week ago the College Government Association of Wellesley defeated a proposal to permit students to smoke when off the campus. This was defeated by a vote of five to three, the negative votes being cast by members of the Faculty and the affirmative by student members. The student body voted four to one in favor of smoking, but the Faculty was unmoved by this show of student sentiment.

Last Friday Mount Holyoke girls voted by 448 to 442 to modify the existing rule which flatly forbids smoking.

The majority of girls at Smith College, it was said, favor smoking, but agreed to postpone until next Spring any revision of the existing rules which forbid smoking.

Smoking is forbidden at Radcliffe. An agitation for the lifting of the ban was reported last Spring.

West Virginia University forbids smoking by women. Several months ago an offender was compelled to sign a pledge not to smoke again, on pain of expulsion.

Rules adopted at Vassar last March disapproved smoking as injurious to health, but left it with the conscience of students whether they would abjure the habit. In answer to a questionnaire, 483 students said that they smoked and 524 said they did not. They voted overwhelmingly in favor of modifying the blanket rule against smoking. Dr. C. G. Pease, famous as the author of the "Annette Hazelton" letter, recently started an agitation against the smoking at Vassar.

YALE GETS TAYLOR POEMS.

Receives 17 Manuscripts in German From Author's Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 24.—The Yale Library has just received from Bayard Taylor's daughter, Mrs. Lilian Kiliani, who is now living in Bavaria, seventeen manuscript poems written in German by her father. These are to be placed in the William A. Speck collection of Goethiana, now the largest Faust collection in the world and the largest Goethe collection outside Germany.

These poems, which have never been published, were found among the papers of Mrs. Bayard Taylor, who died recently in Germany in her ninety-sixth year. Mrs. Kiliani's letter of transmittal states that she gives them to the Speck collection because of her mother's interest in it, and the long friendship between its curator, Professor William A. Speck, and the Bayard Taylor family.

Mr. Speck said today that Bayard Taylor in the years preceding his monumental translations of Goethe's "Faust" constantly practiced German versification. The poems which he has now received Mr. Speck regards as specimens of Bayard Taylor's attempts to perfect himself in writing German verse. Some of them deal with original subjects; others are paraphrases, in every case of Goethe's poetry.

How the HOOVER Actually MAKES Money for You!

A dollar saved is a dollar earned...well...could a woman value her time, strength, health and looks at nothing ——could she class as valueless the pride of an everclean home——could it be considered of no value to end the disorders of semi-annual house-cleanings——could the savings in laundering dust-soiled curtains and redecorating walls be disregarded—— even then solely through the money value of the added years of life and beauty it imparts to valuable rugs, plus the money it saves by ending the need to have those rugs beaten by professional cleaners, The Hoover actually pays for itself more often than once a year!

Hugh Miller, the Famous Scotch Stone Mason

in his autobiography writes that he served his apprenticeship with a man "who put his conscience into every stone he worked with."

A high tribute that was for a humble apprentice to pay to his master; but yet a greater thing came to pass, for as the master stone mason worked day by day and side by side with his apprentice, he also wrought, perhaps unconsciously, by his own example, upon the heart and conscience of the Scotch laddie, that which he never forgot.

These great buildings have had a conscience worked into them by their architects, stone masons and other workmen.

THERE ARE THOUSANDS OF HUMAN WITNESSES IN THE HOUSE TO THE FACT THAT THERE IS NO LESS OF CONSCIENCE IN THE MERCHANDISE THAN THE BUILDINGS THEMSELVES. (Signed)

MOVIE MONOPOLY IS DENIED BY ZUKOR

Counsel for Famous Players Argue Before Trade Commission Their Right to Exhibit.

THEY POINT TO COMPETITION

FULLER PRESSES CHARGES

Federal Investigator Insists That Many Rivals Have Been Driven Out of the Business.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A spirited defense of the right of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and allied interests to deliver their product direct to the ultimate market without restraint and a sweeping denial of the charge of Government counsel that the respondents had entered into a "conspiracy" to monopolize the trade in motion pictures were made today in argument before the Federal Trade Commission on the complaint of that body that the corporation had sought to attain a position of dominance over its competitors.

The charge was made by H. W. Fuller, chief counsel for the commission, that Adolph Zukor, head of the Famous Players, had repeatedly declared his purpose to control the motion-picture business, now listed as fourth in importance among American industries, and that in furtherance of that program he had entered into alliances with distributing agencies and had acquired extensive holdings in theatrical property throughout the United States and Canada. The commission was urged to issue an order which would compel the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to confine itself to the producing of motion pictures and to divest itself of distributing and exhibiting facilities estimated to be worth $100,000,000.

Concludes Four-Year Inquiry.

The argument before the commission concludes an investigation that has been in progress for four years, and this proceeding is looked upon by officials as the most important undertaken by the commission since its creation in the Wilson Administration. The issues involved are regarded as of vital concern to the motion-picture industry as a whole and of direct interest to other forms of theatrical enterprise.

Paul D. Cravath of New York headed counsel for the motion-picture interests, and he will conclude arguments for them tomorrow. Today the commission heard a two-hour presentation of the Government case by Chief Counsel Fuller, who was followed by Robert D. Shaine of New York, representing Famous Players, and Charles Rosen of New Orleans, who spoke for the Saenger Amusement Company, one of the respondents that distributes and exhibits films in Southern States.

Taking up the charge that Mr. Zukor, President of the Famous Players, tried to monopolize the motion picture business, Mr. Swaine declared that this was a conclusion of Government counsel that was not supported by facts. He stated that the Famous Players had been forced into the distributing and exhibiting branches of the industry as a result of a combination effected by former customers, which later became known as the First National Corporation. He scouted the thought that Mr. Zukor contemplated a monopoly. He pointed out that, according to the books of Famous Players, there were approximately 17,156 theatres in the country on Sept. 1, 1924. Of this number Famous Players controlled 179, of which 57 were used for motion picture purposes only.

Three Theatres Out of 1,557 in New York.

He stated that in New York City his clients controlled three theatres out of a total of 1,557, whereas their direct competitors controlled seventy. In the Government brief emphasis was laid on statements that Famous Players exercised domination of the business through control of many "first-run" theatres, but Mr. Swaine retorted that there are 1,284 so-called "first-run theatres" in the United States, and that of these his clients had only ninety-five. He told the commission that there were many regions in which Famous players had no theatres at all, this being true of Connecticut, New Jersey, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland and other States; that it controlled six out of a total of 540 in Massachusetts and twenty out of a total of 579 in Texas.

He contended that his clients had a clear legal right to sell direct to the patron of the movie, and that there was nothing in the law that required them to deal with middlemen. He complained that in the commission's investigation his clients were denied the privilege of presenting testimony tending to show that competitors were engaged in precisely the same practices made the subject of complaint against the Famous Players.

Mr. Swaine defended "block booking," the plan by which, according to Government counsel, theatre owners are required to buy their films in "block," taking the good with the bad. If they elect to buy single pictures, a privilege sometimes granted, it is said they are compelled to pay an advance of anywhere from 25 to 75 per cent. on the "block price."

Speaking for the Government, Mr. Fuller argued that through "block booking" and other practices, such as setting up rival theatres in towns where exhibitors refused to comply with terms exacted by Famous Players, that corporation had driven many people out of business, and that its activities under combination with various other companies all tended to support the charge of monopolization. He quoted Samuel L. Rothafel, better known as "Roxy," as testifying that "block booking" forced exhibitors to take bad pictures along with the good and that the system should be broken up.

Samuel Goldwyn, according to Mr. Fuller, testified that it would be a good thing if the exhibition of moving pictures was taken over exclusively by men who specialized in that end of the business.

Runaway Husband Paroled, Wife Is Probation Officer

Mrs. Anna Profis of 189 Rockaway Road, Jamaica, was appointed yesterday a special deputy probation officer of the Queens County Court by County Judge Burt J. Humphrey. After her appointment, her husband, James Profis, who had been a prosperous confectioner of Jamaica, was put under her care. The court ordered Profis to report to his wife, warning him that in addition he must pay her a sufficient sum to provide for her and their five children. Profis promised to obey both the court and his wife.

On July 12 Profis abandoned his family. They were then cared for by a charitable institution. Profis was found in Harrisburg, Pa., and was arrested last week. When he was arraigned yesterday on an indictment he pleaded guilty.

"Remember, Profis," said Judge Humphrey, "that we can find you no matter where you go. If you do not obey the instructions, you will be locked up and sentenced to hard labor."

ENJOINS DISTRIBUTION OF CROXSON ESTATE

Court Acts in Suit of Relatives of James Croxson Against Cousins of Widow, Who Left No Will.

Supreme Court Justice Mitchell granted yesterday an injunction restraining the distribution of the $3,900,000 estate of Mrs. Mary S. Croxson who died in Brooklyn on Jan. 17 last without leaving a will. The injunction suit was brought by Martha Croxson Niebuhr and Malcolm Niebuhr, in behalf of themselves and other nieces and nephews of James Croxson, husband of the decedent, from whom she inherited the bulk of her property. The suit was brought against Abner L. and R. Fitch Root, who had themselves appointed administrators shortly after the death of Mrs. Croxson on the ground that they were cousins and were the only heirs at law with the exception of Mrs. Sara Fitch Griffin, who they alleged is also a cousin and is entitled to a third of the estate.

The injunction suit was brought on the contention that the administrators failed to give the plaintiffs or their kinsmen any notice of the proceeding and were about to distribute the estate among themselves and Mrs. Griffin. They contended that they had no information to enable them to form an opinion as to the truth of allegations that the administrators were cousins of Mrs. Croxson, but contended that she left no next of kin and that they as the next of kin of her husband were entitled to the estate.

In granting the injunction pending the trial of the suit at which the relationship of the parties will be determined, and in denying an application by the defendants to dismiss the complaint, Justice Mitchell said "it is no strained construction" of the law to say that the Legislature provided that "when the intestate's property was given to her by the will of her husband, or under the laws of distribution, if she die without bequeathing it and leave behind her no such next of kin entitled under the specific detailed provisions of the Decedent Estate law, it shall go to the next of kin of the deceased husband from whom it came."

Mrs. Croxson, who was the daughter of James S. T. Stranahan, a Brooklyn merchant, died at the Mansion House, in Hicks Street, at the age of 85 years. She occupied a small room, paying $29 a week, and when she became ill and a nurse was called in, her expenses amounted to $51 a week.

FIRE TENDERS CRASH; ONE KILLED, FIVE HURT

Collide on Way to Brooklyn Movie Blaze—Condition of Three Injured Firemen Is Serious.

One fireman was killed and five others were injured, three of them seriously, when two tenders of engine companies collided early this morning at New Utrecht Avenue and Forty-ninth Street, Brooklyn. The tenders were hurrying to a small fire in a theatre.

The dead man was John Miller of Engine 278.

The injured were:

CASHMAN, JOHN J., Acting Captain, Engine 275; fractured right arm and possible internal injuries. In the United Israel Zion Hospital.

BASTENBACH, LOUIS, Engine 247; fractured skull. In United Israel Zion Hospital.

DALY, FRANK, Engine 247; internal injuries. In United Israel Zion Hospital.

McCULLONG, FRANK, Engine 247; shock.

SULLIVAN, EUGENE, Engine 247; shock.

The fire to which the tenders were hurrying was in the Garden, a small moving picture theatre at New Utrecht Avenue and Forty-sixth Street. The alarm came in shortly after midnight. There was little damage from the fire.

CONGRESSMAN ASSAILS CITY COLLEGE VOTERS

Griffin Calls Military Opponents 'Pups'—Would Fingerprint Them as Dangerous.

The City College students who protested recently against compulsory military training were "pups," according to Representative Anthony J. Griffin of the Bronx, who spoke last night at the "Winter Plattsburg" meeting of Quartermaster Reserve Officers at the Army Building, 39 Whitehall Street. Other speakers were Colonel G. U. Cralle and Colonel Frank H. Lawton, both U. S. A.

"I don't call those 'pups' traitors," said the Congressman, "and I would not force them to receive instruction to prepare to assist in national defense. They might be dangerous later. I would make note of each man and would fingerprint him. I would not permit him to wear the olive-drab uniform. The men of C. C. N. Y. who are opposed to taking the training should be put in the same class with men with flat feet—put them in fatigue, clothing or labor battalions."

During a general discussion after the speeches, it was estimated that in an emergency, like an air attack, 2,000,000 New Yorkers would be able to get out after a general warning had been broadcast by the army. If the city were cut off, the army supervising foodstuffs could feed New York for five days.

BLAST OF DYNAMITE LIKE QUAKE IN BRONX

Explosion at Excavation Unexplained, but Foreman Is Held Under $5,000 Bail.

Scores of apartment houses throughout a radius of ten blocks in the Bronx were shaken, hundreds of windows were shattered and three women required medical attention for shock early yesterday morning, when fourteen sticks of dynamite lying uncovered in a vacant lot at Gerard and Walton Avenues exploded with a terrific detonation. The explosion frightened thousands of persons and brought police reserves from two stations.

The dynamite exploded on the unexcavated portion of a lot on which the Fred La Mura Excavating Company is preparing a foundation for the new Bronx Hospital. Nicholas La Russo of 500 Morris Avenue, the Bronx, blasting foreman of the company, was arrested and held in the Morrisania Court in $5,000 bail for examination Dec. 1, after he had admitted, the police said, that he placed the dynamite on the ground to save extra steps to the magazine. The police also said La Russo admitted making erasures from the fire department chart on which persons who use explosives must account for the amounts used so it would appear that the fourteen sticks had been used on the previous day.

No explanation of the explosion was made. The workmen had just reported for duty, and La Russo said the blasting men had not arrived when he laid the dynamite in the southeast corner of the lot.

The explosion had the force of an earthquake in rocking the houses, and following the detonation and the shattering of glass hundreds of persons rushed to the street. Many believed a huge bomb had been thrown in the neighborhood.

Windows were broken in every building save one throughout the two blocks. The new eight-story exchange building of the New York Telephone Company at Gerard Avenue and 167th Street, a block south, alone was undamaged. Every window of the elevated station at Jerome Avenue and 167th Street and the windows of two surface cars crossing 167th Street there were broken, the pieces raining on passengers.

The reserves from the Morrisania and Highbridge stations under Inspector John O'Brien were followed immediately by an ambulance from Lincoln Hospital and District Attorney McGeehan and Commissioner of Public Works Flynn, who arrived for a survey of the scene.

The three women who received medical aid for shock were Mrs. Mary Flynn, 71 years old, mother of Public Works Commissioner Flynn, of 1,251 Gerard Avenue; Mrs. Mary Rawneson, 72 years old, of 1,255 Gerard Avenue, and Mrs. Anna Ducci, 60 years old, of 1,247 Gerard Avenue. All remained at home.

None of the laborers was near the corner of the lot where the dynamite lay and none was hurt. The police said they were investigating a theory that the dynamite might have been exploded by two men who were discharged recently for "attempting to start a strike."

The charge against La Russo was violating a corporation ordinance regarding the handling of dynamite. His counsel asked Magistrate Weil for a week's adjournment, to which Assistant District Attorney O'Gorman agreed, but Magistrate Weil denied a request to reduce bail to $1,000 because no one was injured.

"It was only an act of Providence that no one was hurt," said the Magistrate.

TURKS PREPARE TO FIGHT FOR MOSUL

Show Determination to Force the Issue if League Decision Is Adverse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Extensive preparations are being made by the Turks for the eventuality of war over the Mosul question, says The Morning Post's Constantinople correspondent.

"Large quantities of munitions and explosives," he says, "are being brought in weekly from European ports. A specially heavy army expenditure program is provided for in the new budget. Inspections are being made of the forces assembled on the border and it is generally believed by the best observers that this attitude for once is not a piece of mere bluff.

"Every indication goes to prove that the Turks are now determined to force the issue if the decision goes against them. The authorities have successfully worked up public feeling to the point where it regards the possession of Mosul as a question of life and death."

The part Germany played in building up the present Turkish army is dwelt upon by another correspondent of The Morning Post. He points out that the army which is capable of expansion in wartime to about 800,000 men, including reserves, is modeled entirely on the German system and armed with German field guns and Mauser rifles. The Turks are making strenuous efforts to build up an air force and they are receiving considerable assistance from the Germans. The German Junker airplane Company has established a factory at Eskichehir and already is supplying large quantities of aircraft to the Turkish Government.

"In the event of war with Iraq," says this authority, "no doubt the Turks would receive all the assistance they needed in the shape of arms and munitions and even money from the Soviet Government with whom they signed a treaty. It is a well known fact that there exists in Russia several munition factories directed by ex-engineers from the Krupp factory."

It is added that the Turkish War Office was recently negotiating the purchase of a considerable number of horses from Ireland.

WOMEN ASSAIL WORKMEN.

Sisters and Neighbor Object to Paving of Brooklyn Street.

Three women property owners met the advance yesterday of workmen for the Highway Department who had been instructed to prepare for the paving of Amersford Place, Brooklyn, at the rear of their homes, with a verbal assault and ended by belaboring the workmen with sticks and shouting for the police.

The workmen were removing three fences that had been placed across Amersford Place when Miss Marie Sommer and Miss Louise Sommer of 350 Kenilworth Place objected. They said they had deeds to the Amersford Place property and declared that the city was acting illegally in attempting to pave the street. When the workmen pulled down the fence behind the Sommer home, the sisters shouted and struck the men with sticks. Mrs. Agnes Toothe of 30 Kenilworth Place also came out and called for help. Patrolman Frederick Nau of the Vanderveer Park Station arrived and sought to act as peacemaker.

The fences were all taken down and the workmen began leveling and grading the street, preparatory to paving it. The three women said they would take the matter to the Supreme Court.

1,000th Treaty Is Registered With League; Wilson's Open Diplomacy Ideal Is Recalled

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—Registration of the one thousandth international agreement was made with the League of Nations today.

The League officials are highly pleased with this remarkable record, which, they explain, is ample proof that the member nations are living up to the covenant's command that all international treaties and arrangements of member States shall be registered with the League.

The 1,000 mark was achieved by the filing of the notes exchanged at Stockholm between Sweden and Norway concerning interpretation of the prolongation of the Swedish-Norwegian Arbitration Convention of 1905. Both Sweden and Norway registered the instrument.

It is interesting to note that the registration and publication of treaties was one of the ideas closest to the heart of President Wilson, who, during the Peace Conference, labored especially for the inclusion of the Article XVIII of the Covenant, whereby members would be bound to register international engagements and whereby the Secretariat would publish them as soon as possible. Mr. Wilson believed such a practice would further the cause of open diplomacy.

Thirty-five volumes of treaties, each containing 400 pages, have already been published by the League Secretariat. Thus 940 treaties have appeared.

Germany, though not yet a member of the League, has been a heavy contributor to registration. Treaties appear both in French and English, and in a third language when the instrument is drawn up in a third language.

MACKIN BOY'S BODY FOUND IN HUDSON

Neighbor Identifies Child Missing Since Oct. 25—Police Think He Drowned Accidentally.

GRANDMOTHER DENIES IT

Says She Told Detectives Who Was Responsible—Autopsy to Be Performed Today.

The body of Frankie Mackin, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mackin of 550 West Thirty-ninth Street, was found floating in the North River yesterday afternoon by longshoremen working on Pier 81, of the Hudson River Day Line. Patrolman Thomas McGrath of the West Thirtieth Street Station was called, and with the assistance of persons in the crowd which gathered about brought it up on the dock.

Frankie was wearing the same clothes as on Oct. 25, the day on which he disappeared. He was clad in coat, short trousers, blue polka dot shirt and tie. Bart Cronin, a neighbor living at 545 West Thirty-ninth Street, who was called by Detectives Clancy and MacNamara to identify the body, said that he recognized the face of the child at once.

Until the autopsy, which is to be performed this morning at Bellevue, it is not possible to say how the boy met his death. The theory given out by the detectives is that while playing about the piers he fell in and was drowned, but the grandmother, Mrs. Ellen McGurrin, who was taken to the Morgue to confirm identification, said that she "knew" the child had been "seen with a woman two weeks ago on Forty-second Street" and refused to credit the theory of accidental drowning.

"I know who is responsible," she said, "and I have told the detectives. There will be something very startling."

Detectives McNamara and Clancy declared that Mrs. McGurrin had told them nothing of importance. They were as cautious about giving information as have been from the start the police of the West Thirtieth Street Station, who denied yesterday that they even knew where the body was, despite the statement of the Medical Examiner's office that it had been consigned to their care. Mrs. McGurrin refused further information on the ground that the detectives had instructed her not to speak to reporters.

The body was recovered at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, but Mrs. Mackin was not definitely informed of it until 8 o'clock.

Her husband, who works for the W. J. Brown Express Company, came home at 7, but, before seeing her was informed. Without waiting to go up to his wife he took a taxi to the morgue.

Satisfied that it was indeed his son he returned, mounted the six flights of stairs in the tenement in which they live, and went into the dark bedroom where his wife lay moaning. Mr. Mackin sat on the edge of her bed and wept. In soft tones he broke the news. Mrs. Mackin declared that she had known, had guessed it. Mr. Mackin said later that his wife was "glad, because we at least know that he is dead. There is no more uncertainty."

Many theories were advanced by the police and others upon the boy's disappearance. Fifteen detectives in New York and New Jersey were assigned to the case. A number of suspects were held, examined and released. A taxi chauffeur, a candy sales girl, a nine-year-old girl playmate of Frankie's and a peddler all said they had seen the child in the company of a queer man, or lingering about a movie house, or being dragged into the Hudson tubes to Jersey. But none of these clues could be substantiated.

CHAPMAN'S CASE RESTS ON SARGENT'S ACTION

Coolidge Is Disposed to Follow Attorney General's Advice as to Any Federal Intervention.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—President Coolidge is disposed to follow whatever advice Attorney General Sargent may give in the case of Gerald Chapman, under death sentence for murder in Connecticut.

This was the only comment of White House officials today on the effort to return the noted mail robber to Federal jurisdiction, releasing him from the death sentence in Connecticut.

It has been indicated that should the Attorney General decide in favor of any intercession on the part of Washington, he would recommend a pardon covering the Federal charge of robbery, so that the Connecticut authorities would be free to carry out the death sentence.

FRANK TINNEY GOES SHOPPING WITH WIFE

Comedian, Back From Europe, Says He's a "Boarder" at Her Long Island Home.

RECONCILIATION IS HINTED

Mrs. Tinney Says She'll Give Him a Chance on "Fifty-Fifty" Basis—He Plans Broadway Tour Today.

Frank Tinney, the comedian, who returned from London on Monday, spent most of yesterday motoring and shopping with his wife, whose uncontested suit for divorce was heard on Nov. 5 at Mineola, L. I., but in which the Court has not yet acted. Their seven-year-old son, Frank Tinney Jr., was along.

He told his friends who welcomed him back at Baldwin, L. I., where his home is, and at Freeport, where they did their shopping, that at present he was his wife's "boarder."

Hints of a reconciliation between the comedian and his wife were contained in his statement made at Foxhurst, their home at Baldwin, where Tinney arrived at midnight Monday after leaving the steamer, that a "family reunion" was in progress.

Pressed for further details and asked directly whether Mrs. Tinney contemplated dropping her divorce action, Tinney's only reply, in a tone of considerable levity, was:

"Why discuss such unpleasant things just before Thanksgiving? Please don't mention the subject again until after the holiday."

Earlier in the day the neighbors of the Tinneys were surprised to see the comedian drive away from Foxhurst with his wife and young son, all smiling happily, as though there had never been anybody named Imogene Wilson and no suit for divorce.

Even Mrs. Tinney's young married daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. Myron Elias, who is staying at Foxhurst, stood at the door to see them off, smiling.

After they had gone Mrs. Elias said:

"Frank and mother are not what you might call reconciled, but they have agreed to begin all over again on a fifty-fifty basis. Mrs. Tinney wants to see him established once more on Broadway."

Later Mrs. Tinney herself confirmed this, and supplemented it by saying that she was willing to do anything to help Frank out.

"He is the father of my child," she said, "and I mean to give him another chance on the fifty-fifty basis." When asked if she contemplated dropping her divorce suit, she smiled and said: "Things have not gone that far as yet."

The couple created some excitement among shopkeepers during the afternoon in Freeport. Mrs. Tinney did most of the buying. In asides the comedian confided to his friends that he was "broke," but that he felt sure of his Thanksgiving turkey at his wife's home.

After his wife had driven home Tinney remained in Freeport to look up old friends. He took a taxi to the Elks' clubhouse, but when he arrived there he found that he did not have enough money to pay the fare.

He asked the doorkeeper at the clubhouse to lend him a dollar. The doorkeeper complied, and Tinney said he would pay him back later.

Whenever his friends would ask him about his wife's divorce suit he would gaze at them in blank amazement and say: "What divorce suit?"

Today the comedian plans to return to town and walk up and down Broadway, greeting his friends, in his horn-rimmed spectacles and new London raincoat. He is hoping it will be foggy, or rain a bit, to show off his new raincoat, as he is very proud of it, he says. On his arrival he said he had no plans for acting in America, and that at the end of January he would return to London, where a contract awaited him at the Empire Theatre.

BERLIN APPLAUDS "RAIN."

Max Reinhardt's Version of American Production Delights Audience.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The premier performance of "Rain," under the direction of Max Reinhardt, was given in Berlin tonight to a large and appreciative audience. Kathe Dorsah and Eugene Klopfer, well-known German artists, played the leading roles. Reinhardt tried to give a performance different from the New York production to make it appeal most to his German audience. His arrangement gives Klopfer an excellent opportunity to display his dramatic ability and tends to make every situation serious and earnest.

Berlin's dramatic critics were present to observe Reinhardt's method of handling his first production from America, and their prolonged applause proclaimed that they hold him their master producer in everything dramatic.

PADLOCKS SNAPPED ON THE ELKS CLUB

Revocation of Charter Thought Unlikely—Del Fay and Lido Venice Also Closed.

CAPITAL SUPPORTS BUCKNER

Attorney Says on Return Officials Favor Enlargement of Force—Conferred With Wheeler.

United States Deputy Marshals attached two shining new padlocks to the doors leading to the bar and the grill of the Elks Club, Lodge No. 1, B. P. O. E., at 108 West Forty-third Street yesterday afternoon. The "ceremony" was performed quietly in the presence of only a few. For the next six months neither food nor drink may be sold from either bar or grill.

Padlocking the barroom seemed almost useless as the place had been stripped of all its furnishings and bore every evidence that the days of its glory had departed, not for six months, but forever.

The grill, where food was served, has not been dismantled and will, it was said, be reopened as soon as the Federal Government permits. The Elks Club ran afoul of the prohibition law last month when nine kegs of beer were seized by a patrolman in front of the building.

Officials of No. 1 Lodge said yesterday they had heard nothing from Federal Judge Atwell, Grand Exalted Ruler of the B. P. O. E., about a possible revocation of their charter. It is admitted that Judge Atwell has power to revoke the charter, but it is not believed here he will take such a step.

Fey Gets Court Order.

Following the padlocking at the Elks Club, a similar procedure was gone through at the Del Fey Club, 107 West Forty-seventh Street. The basement, first and second floor were padlocked for one year. A court order granting a permanent injunction against Larry Fey, proprietor of the Del Fey Club, was given to Miss Viola Leavy, Fey's secretary, who accepted service for Fey.

The Lido Venice, 33 East Fifty-third Street, was padlocked by United States Marshals at 6:30 P. M.

United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner returned from Washington yesterday and declared he had received complete support there regarding reorganization and enlargement of his office to take care of matters that have long been in arrears. He did not go into detail regarding the nature of this support, although it is well known he has long been pleading for more Judges so that he might comply with the expressed wish of President Coolidge and enforce prohibition against all violators, big and little.

The most surprising story Mr. Buckner told upon his return from the capital was of his luncheon with Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, with whom he has been carrying on a newspaper controversy over a considerable period and in which he and Mr. Wheeler seemed far apart on prohibition enforcement methods.

"The controversy between Mr. Wheeler and myself," Mr. Buckner said, "was not mentioned by either of us. Our conversation was limited to discussion concerning the improvement and enlargement of Federal judicial machinery. I went to Washington primarily to see the United States Attorney General and General Lord, Director of the Budget, regarding financial details of my office.

"Before leaving for Washington I received a telegram from Mr. Wheeler asking for an appointment in this city. I had granted that and when Mr. Wheeler learned I was in Washington he telephoned me at the Attorney General's office and invited me to luncheon. I went with Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement."

Favors More Judges.

With reference to Mr. Wheeler's suggestion that Congress should authorize the appointment of twelve Federal Judges with no definite assignments, so that they would be free to hold court in whatever district they were most needed, Mr. Buckner said such a plan would receive his unqualified support. He added, however, that the number of such Judges might well be increased, as he could use about six additional Judges in his office alone on account of the crowded condition of his court calendars.

As an illustration of the need for Judges in this district, Mr. Buckner said:

"Twenty-seven witnesses who had been subpoenaed from out of town and who have been waiting here to testify in our first important prosecution against the men higher up are being sent home tonight because we could find no Federal Judge to try the case. All are at present holding trials. The witnesses came here from as far West as Lincoln, Neb. Others came from Sioux City, Iowa; Minneapolis, Detroit and Buffalo, N. Y. They had been subpoenaed in the case of the Government against Jack Kirsch and others charged with operating an elaborate interstate traffic in liquor."

Mr. Buckner will leave here this afternoon and journey to Lincoln, Neb., where he will arrive in time on Friday to take part in the festivities attending the golden wedding anniversary of his parents. On Monday Mr. Buckner will address the members of the Bar Association of Lincoln. Many of these members were associates of Mr. Buckner when he was a student at the University of Nebraska.

Prohibition Administrator John A. Foster returned yesterday from Boston, but said he had merely been to see his wife and that the trip had no prohibition significance.

SUE STOKES FOR LIBEL, LAWYERS ASK MILLION

Nugents Assert They Will Prove Butler's Story of Divorce Papers Was Perjury.

The statement that W. E. D. Stokes has been sued for $1,000,000 for libel by his former attorneys, Daniel F. and John A. Nugent of Nugent & Nugent, was made yesterday at the hearing before Herman Hoffman, as referee, at 233 Broadway, in the proceeding by Stokes to compel the lawyers to return documents used in the unsuccessful suit by Stokes against Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes.

J. S. Mosley, negro, former butler for Stokes, testified two days ago that he had stolen these documents. He said the Nugents promised him $5,000 for so doing. He said that upon delivering them the Nugents offered him $500; that he refused to accept this amount, but that the transaction was finally completed. The Nugents deny these allegations in toto. They aver that all documents were returned to Mr. Stokes at the end of the trial and that none of them has come into their possession since that time. Sidney L. Masone, representing Nugent & Nugent at the hearing, asserted that he would prove Mosley's story to be "perjury throughout."

The $1,000,000 suit against Stokes, the Nugents indicated, was in retaliation for his action to compel them to return these papers which they say they have not got. Their complaint, which was served on Stokes at his home a week ago, alleges slander and libel on ten counts.

Finds Short Lunch Hour An Aid to Prosperity Here

A short lunch hour has contributed to the prosperity of this country, in the opinion of J. H. Tregoe, executive manager of the National Association of Credit Men, who has just returned from a trip abroad.

"I was surprised," he said yesterday, "to find it a custom in Paris to close the banking institutions and many business enterprises for two hours during the lunch period. Business ceases entirely. The executives and clerks go out for dinner and on their return cannot possibly make up for the time lost. The later hours of the day, when physical powers are at their lowest, have to be utilized for part of the day's work.

"After observing these practices in France and the time devoted to tea by our English friends I cannot help wondering whether the practical methods generally accepted in this country of working during working hours have not been one of the chief reasons for the nation's prosperity."

RHINELANDER WILL BENEFITS CHARITIES

Accounting of Estate Shows Gifts of $500,000 in Last Eight Years.

NEPHEW GOT $304,769

Former Police Commissioner Waldo Receives Payments From a $600,000 Trust Fund.

The details of the distribution to charity of the residuary estate of Charles E. Rhinelander, who died on Dec. 7, 1916, leaving an estate of $1,313,014, became known yesterday through the filing of an accounting in the Surrogates' Court. Mr. Rhinelander directed that after the payment of several legacies to his executors and specified charities, and the creation of a $600,000 trust fund for his nephew, former Police Commissioner Rhinelander Waldo, the residuary be distributed to charities selected by them. Nephews and nieces were his only next of kin.

The accounting shows that $500,000 has been paid to charities as follows: $50,000 each to the Church Pension Fund, the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and St. James Church, 144 Madison Avenue; $30,000 to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine; $25,000 each to the New York Hospital and the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital; $15,000 each to St. John's Guild, 52 Vanderbilt Avenue; Hope Farm, 437 East Fifty-eighth Street; The Sheltering Arms, Amsterdam Avenue and 129th Street; Wayside Day Nursery, 216 East Twentieth Street; New York Dispensary, 34 Spring Street; Society for the Relief of Destitute Blind, Grand Concourse and 193d Street, the Bronx; Children's Aid Society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and the Inwood House, 228 West Fifteenth Street.

Fourteen other institutions received $10,000 each and one got $1,500.

Specific bequests of $25,000 each were provided for the New York Society for the Relief of Ruptured and Crippled, 321 East Forty-second Street, and the Seamen's Church Institute, South Street. The other bequests were $20,000 each to the executors and trustees, Herman Le Roy Edgar and B. Aymar Sands, in lieu of commissions, and the sum of $30,000 to be distributed "in accordance with what they believe to be my wishes." This amount went to Elizabeth J. Dickinson, who received $25,000, and Kathryn J. Gorman and John May, who each got $2,500.

Rhinelander Waldo, as beneficiary of the $600,000 trust fund, received $38,968 during the first period, the accounting indicated. A total of $265,901 was paid to Mr. Waldo in the second period.

JAPAN AWAITS BIRTH OF IMPERIAL CHILD

Nation-Wide Rejoicing Will Follow, to Be Redoubled in Case It Is Heir to Throne.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, Nov. 24.—The interest of all Japan is centred on the Akasaka Palace, where the birth of an Imperial grandchild is momentarily expected. Announcement of the birth will be a signal for nation-wide rejoicing, which will be redoubled in case the child is a boy, who will eventually ascend the throne to carry on the line, "unbroken from ages eternal," as the 124th Emperor.

All preparations have been completed for days. A large staff of physicians reside in the palace, with women assistants, ready for duty at a moment's notice. Palace rooms are set aside for the newspapers, where reporters do twenty-four-hour duty, with direct telephone connection with their offices. Direct communication with the Tokio radio station will permit immediate broadcasting of the news. Upon the birth of the child messengers will race to the Imperial Palace to inform the Emperor, Empress and Princes of the blood, who will observe the custom of sending messages of congratulation to the parents immediately, day or night. Prince and Princess Kuni, parents of the Crown Princess, will call personally regardless of the hour. Other messengers will be dispatched to all Ministries, where vigils are now kept, and the Presidents of both houses of the Diet.

According to custom the first gift to the child will be a sword sent by the Emperor the day of birth—if a boy, a sword only; if a girl, a sword and a Japanese skirt. The sword, furnished by the foremost Kioto swordmaker, is nine inches long with a white scabbard.

The Imperial household departments have selected six prospective names after weeks of study of the Japanese and Chinese classics, and the Empress will choose the name the day of birth. Ceremonies of naming the baby include the Prince Regent's writing the name in his own hand and sending it to the palace by Count Tokugawa, Grand Chamberlain to the Emperor, who will place it before the infant.

The Crown Princess intends to break custom by nursing the babe herself except at night, when two specially selected wet nurses will attend. The birth is expected on Wednesday or Thursday. The celebration will be limited on account of Queen Alexandra's death.

TO EXTEND BRONX PARKWAY

Governor Silzer in Letter Suggests Interstate Park Along States' Boundary.

The State Council of Parks, representing the ten park regions of the State, held its November meeting yesterday in the offices of the council at 302 Broadway. Robert Moses, Chairman of the council and President of the Long Island State Park Commission, presided.

Projects for parks which will eventually be connected by parkways devoted solely to the uses of pleasure vehicles from Niagara Falls to the Pennsylvania line, west through the Adirondack region and south to New York City, were discussed and blocked out on the key map.

Plans for the Long Island parkways, which will connect with trunk highways across Queens County, and the development of parks along both the north and south shores of Long Island to Montauk Point, were considered.

In connection with the plans of the Long Island Commission it was announced that the City of New York was willing to turn over 3,000 acres for State park uses in Nassau and Suffolk Counties. These lands contain reservoirs from which a part of the city water supply is obtained. They are on high ground for the most part, and the proposed southern Long Island Parkway will make them available to tourists for recreation and picnic grounds.

Outlines Westchester Plans.

Jay Downer, representing the Westchester County Park Commission, outlined plans for the continuation of the Bronx River Parkway north to the Putnam County line. Mr. Downer also told of a project by the Westchester Commission to build a highway for commercial vehicles to connect with Bailey Avenue in the Bronx, and extending northward through Westchester avoiding the river towns, to relieve the present congestion on the Albany Post Road.

Chairman Moses asked Mr. Downer to explain just how the Westchester County park plan would affect people living outside the counties in regard to camping, picnic grounds, golf courses and beaches. Mr. Downer said that it was not planned to grant any camping privileges to persons from outside the county, but so far as possible to give all preference to Westchester County in such matters as bathing beaches and golf courses.

An example of the working of such a plan was the Town of Rye. In its administration of Rye Beach, Mr. Downer said, the town received a profit of $85,000 in one year, largely derived from outsiders.

"For example," he said, "Rye citizens pay about 30 cents for use of the bathhouse, whereas outsiders are charged $1."

The parkways and adjacent parks will be open to the traveling public on equal terms with citizens of the county.

Suggests Interstate Park.

A letter from Governor Silzer of New Jersey to Governor Smith was read. It proposed that New York acquire lands for park purposes in Orange County, near Port Jervis, close to High Point Park, in New Jersey. High Point Park contains some 10,000 acres, and Governor Silzer said that a like development on the New York side of the boundary would create a new, large interstate park.

Major W. A. Welch of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission moved that a tentative parkway from the Interstate Park extending west to Greenwood Lake, thence to Port Jervis, be marked on the official map, looking to the future development of the New Jersey Governor's suggestion. The motion was adopted.

The council voted to reintroduce a bill in the Legislature amending the Public Lands law to provide for mapping the State's under-water lands.

The plans of the Niagara Frontier Planning Board and the Erie County Park Commission for parks and parkways from the Falls to the City of Buffalo and thence south connecting with other parkways in the Allegany Park Commission's region extending to the Pennsylvania border were discussed and maps approved. Maps were also approved and plans outlined from the Finger Lakes Commission, the Letchworth Park Committee, whose regional control includes the City of Rochester and frontage on Lake

Stocks Decline Again, After Another Irregular Recovery —Call Money at 5%.

The course of yesterday's stock market almost precisely duplicated that of the day before. Recurrent and irregularly distributed advances would be followed, as they were on Monday, by scattered liquidation at the higher prices and by renewed professional selling for the decline. In those industrial "specialties" which led the recent wild advance, such alternate changes occurred as a 5-point rise, a 12¼-point decline, and a 4-point recovery in Chrysler Motors, an advance of 2 points, a fall of 18 and a second advance of 8¾ in Cast Iron Pipe, and similar agitating shifts of direction in half a dozen other stocks.

Apparently, there were three or four different influences at work on the harassed market; "bears" who were cashing in profits on the precipitous declines and other bears selling for a further fall, unlucky speculators for the rise who were closing out to stop their losses and other speculators for the rise who were buying in expectation of a considerable recovery. Under the impulse of the orders from these varying sources—most of which seemed to be more cautiously conducted than of late—prices as a whole were carried downward yesterday, a good many speculative stocks reaching a new low point in the readjustment. It was evident to every one familiar with Wall Street speculation, however, that this sort of chaotic movement cannot be much longer continued. It is not at all an unfamiliar sequel to the collapse of an overdone Stock Exchange speculation, but it has usually rounded up in one short and rapid culminating break of prices, followed by emphatic recovery and then by a season of dead calm. Nobody, on these older occasions, ever knew exactly when the rounding-up was due.

Stock Exchange call money rates moved up again to 5 per cent. yesterday; thereby confirming the impressions drawn from Saturday's Associated Bank return, that the private banks were trying to keep a stiff charge on demand loans. Sterling held absolutely motionless at its recent low figure. That rate seems to admit of gold shipments from London to New York, and New York may have been the destination of the £314,000 bullion taken yesterday from the Bank of England. The franc went yesterday to the lowest of the season, but French State bonds on the Paris Bourse advanced again and the decline in French Republic bonds on the New York Stock Exchange was halted.

With the market in a normal condition, more attention would probably have been paid this week to the changing phases of the railway consolidation question. The Transportation act of 1920, in authorizing railway purchases and mergers, required the Interstate Commission to draw up its own plan "for the consolidation of the railway properties of the continental United States into a limited number of systems" and to adopt and publish that plan after due public hearings. Any merger proposed by the railways themselves, the act prescribed, "must be in harmony with and in furtherance of the complete plan of consolidation" which the commission was to prepare. The commission accordingly, in September, 1921, published a plan proposing the allotment of all existing railway lines into nineteen greater systems, made up of groups ranging numerically from five acquired lines as a minimum to twenty as a maximum.

The grouping, which was mostly geographical, did not appeal to the practical railway men. Even the definite Van Sweringen merger proposal cut into two or three of the commission's groups, and some sort of deadlock in the entire undertaking seemed to be foreshadowed. What is evidently happening now is that the Interstate Commission, and probably the Congressional railway experts also, are moving to withdraw all mandatory effect from the commission's plan and to leave the grouping tentatively to the railways themselves, though always subject to the commission's veto or approval. If this were to be effected, we should then have a chance to see whether and to what extent the problems of uniform operation, of a "fair return" and of "weak roads versus strong roads" will be in the way of actual solution.

$400,000,000 ISSUE BY TREASURY LIKELY

New Financing to Meet Maturities Is Expected to Be in Short-Term Obligations.

$480,000,000 LOANS DUE

$66,000,000 Liberty Bond Interest Payable—Britain to Pay $82,000,000 on Debt.

A new issue of United States Treasury securities will be offered shortly, according to a preliminary notice sent out by the New York Federal Reserve Bank yesterday to all the member banks in this district. Details of the offering have not been announced, but it is expected to amount to between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000.

An issue of $180,000,000 of 3 per cent. certificates, series TD of 1925, will mature on Dec. 15, and on the same date $300,000,000 4% per cent. Treasury notes will be payable. In addition to these maturities of $480,000,000, aggregate interest of $66,000,000 must be paid in December on four issues of Liberty Bonds or Treasury notes.

In addition to these outlays, the Government must provide for its general expenses for the quarter. As against these outlays, the Treasury will receive a British debt payment of about $82,000,000, the final income tax payments for the year and will have available the amount now in the General Fund, estimated at about $150,000,000. Examination of these figures leads bankers to believe that the new issue will exceed $400,000,000.

Bankers believe that the new issue will take the form of a short term obligation, maturing in a year or less. The interest rate will depend on conditions in the money market at the time of issue, but bankers believe that a Government offering maturing in a year or less would command about 3½ per cent., while if the maturity were longer the rate might by 3¾ or 4 per cent.

The most recent Treasury financing was last September and consisted of $250,000,000 of nine months' certificates, which bear 3¼ per cent. interest.

SPENDING $75,000,000 ON FLORIDA CARRIERS

Roads Seek to Facilitate Traffic, Which Has Risen 100 Per Cent. in Four Months.

The railroads serving Florida are now spending approximately $75,000,000 to increase the transportation facilities there, according to a report just issued by the Atlantic States Shippers' Advisory Board. These facilities include new main lines, classification yards, unloading tracks, passing tracks, motive power and general equipment.

The board's report is based on information furnished by M. J. Gormley, Chairman of the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association, who has been in Florida for several weeks directing the movement of cars there, in an effort to relieve traffic congestion. Freight traffic moving into Florida, it is said, has increased 100 per cent. in the last four months over the same period last year.

"By reason of the embargo," states the report of the board, "which has been in effect for a considerable period on the Florida East Coast Railway, in addition to 120 miles of new second main line put into service, this road has been able to make a very satisfactory reduction in the accumulation of freight held for it by its connections north of Jacksonville. That accumulation will within a few days be entirely cleaned up.

"The Florida East Coast Line generally is in better condition for the movement of traffic than it has been at any time in the past six months. It will soon be in a position to issue a reasonable number of permits for the movement of general freight to Florida, in addition to traffic now moving that is exempt from the embargo. It is believed that within the near future it will be possible for the Florida East Coast to move traffic to meet the immediate requirements.

"Other factors bearing upon the Florida East Coast situation are the completion of large classification yards at Jacksonville and Miami; also the completion of the double-track bridge over the St. John's River, Jacksonville, which will go into operation within the next week."

The Atlantic Coast Line and the Seaboard Air Line have many additions and betterments in mind in addition to those which are now under way or recently completed. The embargo established by these roads, which began on Oct. 29, has not been in effect sufficiently long, it is said, materially to reduce traffic accumulation.

TO OFFER NEW STOCK OF COMMERCIAL TRUST

Dillon, Read & Co. to Sell $7,500,000 Issue Today of Preferred With Warrants for Common.

A new issue of $7,500,000 Commercial Investment Trust Corporation 6½ per cent. first preferred stock is offered today by Dillon, Read & Co. at $99 per share. Each share will carry with it a purchase warrant entitling the holder to subscribe to the company's common stock in the ratio of one share of common for each two shares of preferred owned by the holder. The basis of purchase provided for the common shares under this plan is $80 per share prior to Jan. 1, 1928; $90 per share thereafter to Jan. 1, 1930, and $100 per share thereafter to Jan. 1, 1931.

Proceeds of the issue will be used to increase the corporation's working capital. The company's business volume this year, it is said, will exceed $140,000,000, covering operations in all parts of the United States, and it is planned soon to enter the European field. After giving effect to this financing the corporation will have total assets of more than $75,000,000.

A syndicate composed of Hambleton & Co. and Caldwell & Co. has purchased 40,000 shares of Class A stock of the Dinkler Hotels Company, Inc., which will be offered publicly in a few days. The company operates a chain of hotels in the South.

Byllesby Announces New Officers.

Halford Erickson, Vice President in charge of operation of the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation, announced yesterday that H. H. Jones had been elected Vice President and General Manager of the Western States Gas and Electric Company and Vice President of the California-Oregon Power Company with headquarters at Stockton, Cal. He added that Henry Grenacher has been appointed assistant general manager in charge of operation of the Northern States Power Company at Minneapolis. Both appointments are effective Dec. 1.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident on the Stock Exchange and in the Financial Markets.

At the start of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday prices were little changed from the previous day's closing. It was not long, however, before the professional operators, who have been active on the short side of the market started to offer stocks in large quantity, bringing about a general reaction, which forced liquidation in many issues. One firm was credited with having sold 25,000 shares of Steel common and another 30,000 shares of Willys Overland. All of the latter offering was taken by one house. The manner in which this and other motor shares were taken brought about some change of front, with the result that a general covering in the motor shares was under way during the last hour, with actual net advances in a few of the "specialties" as a consequence. To offset these gains, however, there were very numerous net declines. Trading was more active than on Monday.

The Buying and the Selling.

Some observant people in the financial district professed yesterday to see a degree of difference between the buying and the selling now going on and that which went on, say, two weeks ago. They expressed the opinion that the buying at the moment is "better than the selling." The theory was held to be substantiated by the well-known fact that it is mostly the professional operators who sell stocks on the way up, and that such part of the general public as likes to sell stock for the decline seldom does so on the way up, but only on the way down, and for this reason seldom makes money on the short side. It is admitted by every one that it takes a considerable amount of nerve on the part of a trader to sell stocks for the decline when the market is going ahead by leaps and bounds, as it was three or four weeks ago. A few traders have it; most of them have not.

Money Higher on Call Loans.

The advance in call money to 5 per cent. yesterday, following renewals at 4½ per cent., was regarded in some quarters as evidence that advances in the rediscount rate in other cities were resulting in withdrawals of money from New York to the interior of the country. The day's rather heavy calling of loans seemed for a time to bear out this opinion, but when the 5 per cent. rate was reached ample funds appeared in the market. Another explanation of the higher rate was the fact that this is a short week, with the Thanksgiving holiday, and that many houses borrowed to arrange their bank position over the week-end. Time money continues in moderate demand. Parts of the West are still sending money to New York to be placed in this type of paper.

"Drives" at the Market.

Wall Street saw four separate drives at the stock market yesterday, most of them inaugurated by professional speculators who hoped to bring about some active liquidation. One of the drives occurred about 10:30 in the morning, another just at the noon hour, the third about 1 o'clock, and the last about 2:15. Each was like the other in that it represented the moderately heavy offering of leading stocks "at the market," a procedure not calculated to help the tone of trading to any great extent. None of the drives was wholly effective. It was noted that when pressure was lifted the stocks which had been under particular pressure invariably "snapped back." It could hardly be said that the day was a successful one for the bears in the leading issues. Many of the professionals who sold stocks on one or the other of the four drives bought them in before the close of the day, thereby taking losses on their commitments. This was what gave the market a firm tone at the close.

Peaceful Only by Comparison.

Under ordinary circumstances such a day as yesterday would seem to the follower of Wall Street affairs to be an active and lively one; at any rate, sales approaching the 2,000,000-share mark are calculated to keep people in the financial district pretty busy from 10 to 3. But, in comparison with the long string of 2,500,000, 2,750,000 and 3,000,000 share days, the present market seemed to every one in Wall Street extremely quiet. Nobody called attention to the fact that on such a day, when the turnover runs well up toward the 2,000,000-share mark, the aggregate theoretical transfer of money involved is around $100,000,000.

Northwestern Rail Prospects.

Reports that dividends of some of the Northwestern roads would be raised in the near future were still regarded yesterday as gossip, but no doubt was expressed that business in the territory is good, and that the future holds promise. The people there, it was said by railway men, are showing much aggressiveness in advertising that section of the country, and more loyalty to their railroads. An executive of one of these railroads remarked that the Northwestern farmer had become a better business man as a result of his recent experience. He added that the radio also was enabling the farmer to market his grain to better advantage than in the past.

Contrasts in Foreign Exchange.

One of the features noted in connection with yesterday's decline in French francs to a new low point for the year was the contrasting firmness that prevailed in Belgian francs and in lire. In former years a very close relationship has prevailed between the French and the Belgian exchange, the former usu*ally having been about a cent higher than the latter. Belgian francs, how*ever, have not responded at any time recently to the demoralization of the French franc, and there now exists a spread of about a cent in favor of the Belgian. Similar conditions exist with respect to the lira's relation to the French franc, the situation reflecting the definite plans under way for the stabilization of the Belgian and Italian exchanges. Thus a condition has been brought about that would not have been considered possible a few years ago—the effective stabilization of Belgian and Italian exchange without such action having been taken first in France.

Norfolk & Western.

The rapid increase in the loadings of the Norfolk & Western Railroad since the cessation of mining in the anthracite fields is now being reflected in the earnings of the road and its position in the market. The common stock of the road gained 2¾ points yesterday on estimates that net income this year would be $30,000,000, against $18,200,000 last year. While the majority of the common stock of the road is in the hands of the public, the Pennsylvania, with 37 per cent. of it, has sufficient to ordinarily control a directors' meeting, and has acted through the road in the proposed lease of the Virginian. There was much heard a few months ago regarding a merger of the Pennsylvania and Norfolk & Western, but the gossip died down following a denial from Philadelphia.

The Retirement of "Jakie" Field.

Wall Street yesterday learned that Jacob Field, who, since 1898, has been an active member of the New York Stock Exchange, which he joined after being associated with the New York Curb Market, has sold his membership on the Exchange. This step marks the retirement of one of the most famous "floor traders" in the history of the Exchange. "Jakie" Field, as he is known to Wall Street, was a "free lance," although he occasionally worked with pools or groups. He generally traded for his own account. In the markets of the late '90s and later he was affiliated with a group which had powerful influence in the market. But most often he worked for himself and carried out a one-man campaign in a stock after he established his position in the particular security which met with his favor. He was one of only three or four veterans among the Stock Exchange floor traders who fought in the speculative battles of 1901 and 1907, as well as in those of 1916 and 1919.

MONEY.

TUESDAY, NOV. 24, 1925.

Stock Exchange call money tightened up about noon, after a morning of very heavy calling. Starting at 4½, the market weathered the withdrawals until but a small amount remained, then the advance to 5 brought a good supply, and more than enough to meet all requirements. The abbreviated week, necessitating preparation by banks for settlements, was a contributing factor in the stiff tone. There was little of interest in the time money market, which continued quiet and unchanged in quotation. A little new money was placed at 4⅝ and 5 per cent. on maturities running from three to six months. Commercial paper and acceptances also were dull and unchanged.

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, Trustee

The following information regarding the Company has been summarized from letter of Mr. Harry H. Hunt, Chairman of the Board of Directors:

BUSINESS AND PROPERTY

Virginia Electric and Power Company (formerly Virginia Railway and Power Company) into which the Spottsylvania Power Company was merged in October 1925, was organized in 1909 under the laws of Virginia. The Company through ownership or control furnishes electric light and power, transportation and/or gas service in Richmond, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Williamsburg, Suffolk, Petersburg, Hopewell, Fredericksburg and Ashland, Virginia, and Weldon and Roanoke Rapids, North Carolina, and surrounding territory with an aggregate estimated population of about 500,000. The present industrial and commercial development of this territory affords unusual opportunities for increasing the electric light and power business. The combined properties, which are conservatively valued at more than $55,000,000, include electric generating stations with a capacity of 165,000 horsepower of which 28,000 is hydro-electric, also rights for further hydro-electric developments of 100,000 horsepower.

CAPITALIZATION

Assuming the complete exchange of the preferred and common stock of Virginia Railway and Power Company for the new stocks provided for in the merger agreement and after giving effect to the recent sale of an additional $1,500,000 par value of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock locally through a customer ownership campaign, the consolidated capitalization of Virginia Electric and Power Company and its public utility subsidiaries will be as stated below, and the Company will have available for construction over $3,000,000:—

	Authorized	Outstanding
First and Ref. Mortgage Bonds (this issue)	Open	$ 3,000,000
Divisional Mortgage Bonds	Closed	20,847,000
Bonds and stocks of subsidiaries and Leased Company	.....	5,746,000
7% Cumulative Preferred Stock	$15,000,000	10,487,000
Common Stock (no par value)	480,000 shares	478,020 shares

The $3,000,000 Series A, 5% Gold Bonds will be direct obligations of Virginia Electric and Power Company by virtue of its indenture dated November 2, 1925 supplemental to the First and Refunding Mortgage Indenture of Spottsylvania Power Company dated October 1, 1925, and are secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first lien on electric light and power properties which have been valued at substantially more than the principal amount of these bonds, a first lien by pledge on the stock of Virginia-Carolina Power Company, owning valuable rights for future hydro-electric developments, and a direct mortgage, subject to divisional mortgage bonds, on the other fixed physical properties and franchises of the Company. The combined public utility properties now owned or controlled by the Company are conservatively valued at over twice the principal amount of all bonds at present outstanding thereon.

Additional bonds are issuable under said indentures, without limit as to maximum amount, on the basis of 75% of the cost or fair value of additional property or for purposes of refunding, all under the conservative restrictions contained in said indentures.

EARNINGS

The consolidated earnings for the 12 months ending September 30, 1925 of the properties (August 31, 1925 for Spottsylvania Power Company) are as follows:

Gross Earnings		$12,051,214
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes		7,054,218
Net Earnings		4,996,996
Required for rentals	$338,900
Required for Interest on Divisional Bonds, and charges on securities of subsidiaries	1,132,230
Required for interest on First and Refunding Bonds (this issue)	150,000	$1,621,130

Some widows keep funds in unbreakable bonds

"CYNICAL men tell me," said a widow, "that most estates left to women are exhausted in five years. My $10,000 inheritance has lasted longer than that, for I have it in good, safe bonds. Yet I need more income. What can I do?"

The remedy was simple. She had confused safety with marketability. Her holdings were sound, but they had the low yield that highly marketable, popular bonds always have. She reinvested, upon Compton advice, in securities with a high margin of safety, but with an average yield of 6.12%, in practically even monthly amounts.

Every investor has a different investment need, and requires a different balance between yield, marketability and safety. William R. Compton Company has been helping investors for thirty-eight years. Its nationally known service can help you.

BROWN BOVERI BUYS MOLONEY ELECTRIC

Newcomer in Equipment Field Adds One of Largest Transformer Concerns in Country.

ELECTS TWO TO THE BOARD

Choice of W. V. Griffin and Fred Allison of the Ford Motor Company Is Announced.

The American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation, a newcomer in the field of electrical equipment manufacturing, announced yesterday the acquisition of the Moloney Electric Corporation of St. Louis, one of the largest electrical transformer manufacturers in the country. The corporation's officials also announced the election to the board of William V. Griffin of the Anthony N. Brady Estate and Fred Allison, an engineer of the Ford Motor Company.

The purchase of the Moloney Corporation, which has been under negotiation for several weeks, adds to the American Brown Boveri Electric a plant completely equipped for its own line and which maintains its own sales staff, which will be retained. The corporation does an annual business of approximately $3,250,000 in the manufacture of electrical transformers. Laurence R. Wilder, President of the American Brown Boveri, estimates that the earnings of this company should add approximately $1 per year per share to the net of the purchasing company, based on the annual earnings for the last five years. The purchase price was not given.

Fred Allison, engineer of the Ford Motor Company, who is recognized in the electrical field as one of Mr. Ford's right hand men, literally "grew up" with the Ford company. He was assistant to Mr. Ford when he was employed as a sub-station engineer in Detroit, and the story is told that Mr. Allison "held the lantern" while Henry Ford whittled out in wood the first model of the engine of what is now the Ford car. Most of the work on the model was done by Mr. Ford at night in a little workshop back of the Ford home, which was next to the power plant where both Mr. Ford and Mr. Allison were employed. Consequently Mr. Allison was frequently pressed into service by Mr. Ford in his experiments, the main service being holding aloft a lighted lantern so that Mr. Ford could see to tinker with his engine.

INTERBOROUGH HAS AN OCTOBER PROFIT

Revenue Rises to $5,288,624 and Balance Is $307,812—Increase Over 1924.

DEFICIT FOR FOUR MONTHS

Third Avenue Railway Establishes Net of $49,579 for Month—Had Deficit in 1924.

The total revenue of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in October was $5,288,624, an increase of $145,933 over October, 1924, it was announced yesterday. Operating expenses, taxes, rentals paid to the city for the old subway and maintenance in excess of contractual provisions increased $106,120. This left a balance available for all purposes of $1,878,333, an increase of $39,812.

After fixed charges of $1,314,979 and dividend rentals of $255,540, there was a balance for the month of $307,812, an increase of $13,108 over October, 1924.

For the four months ended Oct. 31, total revenue was $19,510,155, an increase of $1,087,525 over the same period a year previous. This increase was largely due to a cash payment of $770,000 as part consideration for the new advertising contract, which became effective Nov. 1. There was no similar payment in the previous year.

Operating expenses, taxes, rentals paid the city for the old subway and maintenance in excess of contractual provisions in the four months increased by $700,556, leaving an income available for all purposes of $5,898,348. Income deductions increased by $124,406 to $6,264,275, leaving a deficit for the four months of $365,917. This represents an improvement of $262,562 over last year, as a result of the new advertising contract.

WARNS OF FAKE $100 BILL.

Reserve Bank Says Gold Note Was Very Well Executed.

Warning of a "new and dangerous" counterfeit $100 gold certificate was issued yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which urged that great care be exercised in handling notes of this denomination. The bank says that the counterfeit is "very deceptive," and describes it as follows:

"Series, 1922; check letter C; face plate No. 1; black plate number omitted. H. V. Speelman, Register of the Treasury; Frank White, Treasurer of the United States; portrait of Benton.

"This is a well executed counterfeit printed from engraved plates on two or more pieces of paper, between which silk threads have been distributed, markedly resembling the genuine. The portrait and heavy lettering in the centre of the face of the note should attract instant attention. The portarit is too dark, particularly the face of Benton. The shading of the words "gold coin" is much too heavy."

The bank's warning says that commas are omitted in several dates where they belong, and the word Treasury in the title of Register of the Treasury is spelled Treasary in the counterfeit.

LINK RICHMOND UTILITIES.

Staten Island Companies Arrange for Interchange of Power.

An arrangement has been made between the Staten Island Edison Corporation and the Public Service Electric and Gas Company whereby 5,000 to 10,000 kilowatts of power may be interchanged between the two companies whenever such need arises.

Two lines have been run from the outdoor substation of the Public Service Perth Amboy plant in Buckingham Avenue underground to Arthur Kill, thence by submarine cables to Tottenville, connecting at a point north of the Tottenville Ferry slip. The underground cables were built by the Staten Island Company.

GOOD WOOL SALE AT LONDON

Prices Tend Higher at the New Auction Sales.

LONDON, Nov. 24 (F).—The sixth series of wool auctions opened here today with offerings amounting to 11,222 bales. There was a crowded attendance and keen competition at firm rates between home and Continental buyers. Practically all the offerings were sold.

Compared with the close of the previous auctions, merinos and fine crossbreds were unchanged to 5 per cent. dearer, medium and coarse crossbreds 5 per cent. higher and Cape of Good Hope and Natal unchanged to 5 per cent. dearer.

Ray Copper Sale Meetings Put Off.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 24 (F).—Stockholders meetings of the Ray Consolidated Copper and the Nevada Consolidated Copper Companies to act on the proposed sale of the assets of the Ray to the Nevada company, postponed until today, were again postponed to Dec. 8, to await court action started in New York by Frank C. Armstrong of that city to prevent the merger. Directors of the two corporations agreed on the plan on a share-for-share basis, but Armstrong contends the Ray company has the higher property and should receive a higher price.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

French Franc Goes Lower on Failure to Form Cabinet—Continental Selling Heavy.

Large scale offerings of the French franc, in which London, Paris and Amsterdam far surpassed our own effort in that direction, and springing from the muddled state of finance and politics in France, yesterday resulted in another new low for the franc at 3.80¾ cents, a loss of 7¾ points from Monday's final.

Only for a brief period during the preliminary trading, and then on the assumption that Briand would re-form a new French Cabinet, did the bill give any evidence of resisting the liquidation, but the declination of the former Premier to again accept the rôle opened up an avalanche of selling which sent the rate precipitately from 3.85¾ cents to 3.80¾, the new low. Importers buying then accounted for a moderate rise to 3.81⅛ at the close.

Italian lire and Belgian francs were quiet and little changed. Sterling continued quiet at $4.84⅛, unchanged. Scandinavians reacted, as did Spanish, Swiss and Holland documents. The Japanese yen rallied, but the Chinese were unchanged. South Americans developed little. Canadian dollar was quoted at a premium of five thirty-seconds of 1 per cent., as on Monday.

MAGNOLIA IS MERGED INTO STANDARD OIL

New York Company Again Gets a Foothold in Texas, Long Barred by State Law.

$300,000,000 IS INVOLVED

Stockholders Approve Change Which Transfers Voting Power and All Assets to New Corporation.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 24 (F).—The merger of the Magnolia Petroleum Company of Texas with the Standard Oil Company of New York, involving physical property estimated at $300,000,000, was approved here today by voting stockholders of the former company.

Stockholders representing 533,258 shares of stock voted unanimously to approve the contract of Nov. 6, previously made public, which transfers all assets of Magnolia to the Standard and dissolves the present Magnolia.

The name of Magnolia will be retained by the new corporation and it will have the same officers as the old company, which was organized as a joint stock company in 1911.

Seventy per cent. of the old Magnolia was owned by the Standard and other corporations, but these corporations had no voting power in the company.

The action of the stockholders of the Magnolia Petroleum Company in approving the merger with the Standard Oil Company of New York again gives the latter a foothold in the oil industry in Texas, a State from which it had been barred for more than a decade. The re-entrance of Standard to Texas was brought about by a change in the Texas law which made it possible for Standard Oil companies to again transact business in that State.

Standard Oil Company of New York for several years held the majority stock of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, estimated at 70 per cent. of the total. The New York Company was not permitted to exercise the right of a majority stockholder, as the shares were held by a trustee named by the State of Texas, who controlled the voting power carried by the stock. The new Texas law, however, permits a foreign corporation owning 100 per cent. of the stock of a Texas corporation to vote control of such stock in Texas. As a result of this law, Standard Oil of New York offered to take over the minority stock interest of the Magnolia Company. It was this offer which was approved yesterday. The Magnolia stockholders will receive four shares of Standard Oil of New York stock for each share of Magnolia. Following the exchange, it is understood, directors of Standard Oil Company of New York will declare a 25 per cent. stock dividend, this dividend being payable only to Magnolia stockholders who offer their shares for exchange.

BRUNNER TURBINE OFFERING

$4,000,000 Bonds of Old Czechoslovakian Concern to Be Sold Soon.

A New York banking syndicate headed by F. J. Lisman & Co. has purchased an issue of $4,000,000 of 7½ per cent. closed first mortgage thirty-year sinking fund gold bonds from the Brunner Turbine and Equipment Company, one of the oldest industrial corporations in Czechoslovakia, it was announced yesterday. The bonds will be publicly offered within a short time.

The first unit of the Brunner Company was founded more than a hundred years ago. The company in its present form had its origin in the consolidation in 1872 of the business of H. A. Luz with that of Bracegirdle & Son, the former having been founded in 1821 and the latter in 1844. Following this organization there were several consolidations of old established concerns.

The company's plants now cover seventy-six acres, employ 2,500 men and are working on a twenty-four hour a day schedule, divided into three shifts of eight hours each. The company's main business is the manufacture of special types of turbine engines, covered by its own patents Diesel engines and similar products. The bond issue is a closed first mortgage on properties estimated to have a value of $29,730,000, including all the physical plants of the corporation and its holdings in subsidiaries.

Forward business on the books of the company amounts to $6,000,000, which compares with a gross business in 1924 of $4,252,941.

PUBLIC SERVICE GROSS UP.

National Corporation Reports $19,224,330 for Year.

The consolidated gross of the National Public Service Corporation for the year ended Sept. 30, was $19,224,330 against $17,748,497 in the same period a year previous. After depreciation and all other charges there was a balance of $761,804, or 3.54 times annual dividend requirements on the 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and equal to $5.54 a share on the Class A common.

Allowance is made in the statement for interest and dividend on securities sold to acquire the Virginia Northern Power Company, but earnings of that company, which was merged with the National group last week, are not included. The statement for the first time includes earnings for the Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company and subsidiaries, which were acquired in October.

MACHINERY ORDERS GROW.

Review Says November Promises to Be Among Year's Best Months.

Figures now available indicate that November will rank among the three best months of the year in the machinery industry, the American Machinist reports. The feature of present buying is the large number of individual orders, each calling for one or more machines. Orders are well scattered, indicating country-wide activity.

For the first time this season Detroit reports a slight slowing up in orders, although expansions in automobile plants give promise of a considerable business when plans are completed. Cincinnati manufacturers are busy and new orders have increased during the past week. Sales in Chicago territory are good, but new inquiries there have fallen off slightly.

For further provisions respecting the issuance of future indebtedness against subsequently acquired properties, reference is made to the Trust Agreement in which the Company is, among other things, to covenant that if any such future indebtedness is secured the lien shall be limited to a lien upon the property so acquired; and that appropriate provisions will be made in the creation of such indebtedness to the effect that the properties presently to be acquired shall not be subjected to the payment of all or any part of such indebtedness until the claims of the present Debentures shall have been fully satisfied and discharged. MOTOR SHIP GRIPSHOLM TO ARRIVE HERE NOV. 29

Largest Liner Under Sweden's Flag Will Then Be Placed in Regular Service.

The motor liner Gripsholm, largest ship under the Swedish flag, is scheduled to arrive here on her maiden trip from Gothenburg Nov. 29. She will make a Christmas trip on her return voyage and then will be placed in the regular Gothenburg-New York service.

The Gripsholm carries two funnels for the sake of tradition, but she has no steam equipment. She is not only the most important addition to the direct shipping line organized between the United States and Sweden early in the war, but is a new departure in transatlantic service.

The Gripsholm was completed at Newcastle-on-Tyne by Armstrong, Whitworth & Co. She is of 23,500 tons displacement, 17,000 tons gross, has six passenger decks and is provided with a royal suite, de luxe cabins, private baths, book stalls, novelty shops, electric elevators, gymnasium, vapor and electric baths and a salt water swimming pool.

The ship carries 286 first class, 382 second cabin and 1,002 third cabin passengers. Interior decorations are designed after those of the old castle at Stockholm, for which the ship is named. The two Diesel engines which drive the Gripsholm are the largest ever constructed for any purpose. They were made by Burmeister & Wain at Copenhagen. Together they develop 16,800 horsepower, and at trial runs drove the ship at seventeen and three-quarters knots, which will cut the Atlantic run from the usual nine or ten days to less than eight days. Six smaller Diesel engines drive dynamos and pump air for starting the main engines and injecting fuel oil. Main and auxiliary engines produce a total of 22,000 horsepower.

Heating, hoisting, lighting and cooking are performed with electricity.

RECEIVERSHIP IS LIFTED.

Guyan and Aracoma Mills Able to Pay Debts, Court Told.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 24 (AP).—R. Butler Moulton, receiver since Nov. 24, 1924, for Guyan Mills, Inc., and the Aracoma Textile Company, with plants in Pawtucket and Central Falls, was discharged today in Superior Court. His first and final account was allowed and approved. Under the decree he receives $5,000 for his services. According to his report, the corporations are amply able to pay all creditors in full as their obligations mature.

A law suit brought by the Aracoma Textile Company, Inc., of New York against the Aracoma Textile Company, Inc., of Rhode Island for $150,000, precipitating the receivership, was disposed of on Nov. 12, when the plaintiff submitted to judgment in favor of the defendant.

October Auto Output Sets Record.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP).—October automobile production set a new high record, the Commerce Department reported today, with 392,845 passenger cars and 44,129 trucks turned out in the United States. With Canadian production added, the North American output of passenger cars for the month was 408,849 and of trucks 45,698. The previous high record was established in April of this year, when 376,757 passenger cars and 42,346 trucks were produced in the United States.

DISSOLUTION SOUGHT BY FRUIT GROWERS

Move Follows Ruling That Members and Units Must Bear Liabilities of State Organization.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP).—The decision of the New York Canning Crops Cooperative Association, a cooperative fruit growers' marketing organization, to petition for dissolution and the appointment of a receiver to wind up its affairs and devise ways and means to pay off liabilities totaling $40,000 was announced today by Andrew Sutherland, an attorney for the association.

This move follows the filing of a decree by Supreme Court Justice Adolph J. Rodenbeck awarding declaratory judgment to the association in a test case brought to determine whether local units of the association and their members are liable for liabilities of the State organization. Justice Rodenbeck decided that each member must pay an assessment of $50 levied by the New York Canning Crops Cooperative Association to liquidate its claims.

The decision is far-reaching and affects more than 800 farmers and fruit growers in Western New York who failed or refused to pay the assessment, which was levied under the so-called Shapiro agreement between the association and local associations and their members.

The test suit was brought against the North Chili Cooperative Association, W. P. Slocum, one of its members, and the Farmers' Fund, Inc., its principal creditor.

The New York Canning Crops Cooperative Association was organized in 1921 and continued to operate until 1924, when losses forced it to discontinue. Liabilities at that time amounted to $60,000. It was decided to levy an assessment of $50 on each of the 1,200 members. In this manner about $20,000 was collected, but most of the members did not take kindly to the demand for share losses and the test case was instituted.

It developed that neither Slocum nor the North Chili Association was a member of the New York Canning Crops Cooperative Association, but both had signed the Shapiro Standard Marketing Agreement, which was added to the New York State membership corporation laws in 1920.

UNION PACIFIC PROFITS.

Increase of 20% Shown in Figures for October.

The October earning statement of the Union Pacific Railroad indicates that an improvement in the freight movement from the territory served by the road made possible a gain of more than 20 per cent. in net income over the same month of 1924. Despite the increase in traffic, the company's operating expenses gained only slightly, there being a sharp reduction in the maintenance of way account.

Compared with October, 1924, freight revenues increased 15.6 per cent., with the result that gross operating revenues were up 12 per cent. at $23,735,290. The substantial increase in traffic was handled with an increase of only $955,625, or 7.4 per cent. in operating expenses, so that with a 16 per cent. reduction in taxes the month's net operating income represented a 22.9 per cent. advance over that of October, 1924.

For the first ten months the Union Pacific's gross was $162,492,256, against $167,215,902 in the corresponding period of last year, but net income increased from $31,036,441 in the period of 1924 to $31,968,664 in 1925.

The detailed figures show that freight revenues amounted to $19,780,074 for October, an increase of $2,669,576, while passenger revenues were $2,440,736, a decline of $43,738. Maintenance of way expenses were $2,896,740, a reduction of $198,110, while cost for maintaining equipment stood at $3,494,098, an increase of $264,465 over last year. Transportation expenses were $6,482,640, an increase of $850,234.

The statement for the ten months shows freight revenues of $122,002,746, a decline of $2,596,134, while passenger revenues were $26,405,756, a decrease of $1,582,153. Maintenance of way costs amounted to $23,408,453, a reduction of $2,064,038, while maintenance of equipment called for an outlay of $30,091,905, a reduction of $1,300,215. Transportation expenses were $48,354,382, or $1,994,987 less than in the corresponding period of the previous year.

The October revenues of the Norfolk & Western, one of the important soft coal carriers, show an unusual increase as a result of the cessation of operations in the anthracite fields. Gross of $10,192,050 compares with $8,875,151 the previous October and net operating income of $5,946,697 with $2,561,996.

RAILROAD DEFAULTS NOW $363,677,670

St. Paul Action on Bonds Caused the Large Increase This Year.

TOTAL REGARDED AS SLIGHT

Wall Street Expects Default Figures to Fall Soon to the Lowest Level Since the War.

Railroad bonds in default of interest now total $363,677,670, which compares with $138,525,000 at this time last year. The increase reflects the default of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul amounting to $228,592,115. Since a plan of reorganization of this road has been agreed on by the various committees, it is possible that these bonds will be out of the default class within a year. No other defaults are pending in the railroad world, and it is believed in Wall Street that the total will soon be reduced to the lowest level since the war.

During the past year $5,580,000 bonds were lifted from receivership through foreclosure proceedings. When compared with the $12,000,000,000 of railroad bonds outstanding in the United States, the amount of defaulted bonds is regarded as infinitesimal. Below are railroad issues in default of interest, with amount outstanding and date of default, as compiled by Dow, Jones & Co.:

BUSINESS

Commercial Investment Trust Corporation, through its subsidiaries, is engaged in a special field of banking, supplementing the usual functions of commercial banks. The business consists principally of financing manufacturers and merchants through purchasing notes and accounts arising from the sale of a large variety of nationally marketed products such as automobiles, electrical appliances and machinery. A considerable portion of the transactions differ from the usual bank loan or discount in that they represent the purchase of secured obligations resulting from completed sales of merchandise in moderate amounts to a large number of purchasers throughout the United States and Canada. A number of leading automobile manufacturers have contracts under which they obtain the services of the corporation in assisting their dealers to finance purchases and sales of cars. These companies include the manufacturers of the following cars: Dodge, Willys-Overland and Willys-Knight, Nash, Paige-Jewett, Hupmobile, Chandler and Cleveland. The soundness of the corporation's business is shown by the fact that total credit losses, not covered by indemnity bonds or insurance, for the period January 1, 1916 to October 31, 1925, have amounted to less than ⅛ of 1% of the total volume of business during that period.

MARKET EQUITY

On the basis of current quotations of common stock on the New York Stock Exchange, the market equity for the First Preferred Stock (represented by the common stock now outstanding, but not including common stock to be presently issued) amounts to more than $28,000,000. The corporation has heretofore paid regular dividends on its common stock at the rate of $2.50 per share per annum. At a recent meeting of the board of directors a dividend, at the rate of $3.50 per share per annum, was declared for the period from November 15, 1925 to December 31, 1925, after which the dividend periods of the common stock will coincide with dividend periods of the First Preferred Stock.

EARNINGS

Operations have resulted in substantial earnings every year since the inception of the business in 1908.

Consolidated net earnings, after taxes and all other charges, available for dividends, including earnings of subsidiaries on the basis of present ownership, as certified by Messrs. Touche, Niven & Co., have been as follows:

1922	1,088,462
1923	1,858,506
Ten months to October 31, 1925	2,490,860

Consolidated net earnings for the first ten months of 1925, adjusted only to give effect to a saving of interest (at the rate of 6% per annum) resulting from new capital, but without giving any other effect to the present financing, would amount to $3,010,444 or over 4 times dividend requirements for a like period on the total amount of First Preferred Stock to be outstanding upon completion of this financing.

We offer this stock for delivery if, as and when issued and accepted by us, subject to the approval by stockholders of contemplated amendments to the certificate of incorporation, and subject to the approval of legal matters by counsel. Common Stock Purchase Warrants will be attached to, and delivered with, Certificates for 6½% First Preferred Stock as above stated. Deliveries will be made in the form of Interim Receipts of Dillon, Read & Co. on or about December 10, 1925.

Price $99 per share and Accrued Dividend

The corporation has agreed to pay an amount equal to interest at the rate of 6½% per annum on the par value of 6½% First Preferred Stock from the date of issue of Interim Receipts to January 1, 1926, from which date dividends will accrue.

Further information is contained in a circular which may be had on request.

Sound Judgment

SOUND judgment, so invaluable in the investment field, can be gained only by long experience. The safety of a bond issue depends chiefly on the security back of it; ability to judge the worth and earning power of that security depends entirely on the judgment, knowledge, care and experience of the house that underwrites the issue.

The judgment of S. W. STRAUS & Co. has been developed, year after year, in investigating, analyzing and underwriting bond issues on city properties which, in the aggregate, total many hundreds of millions of dollars.

Every Straus Bond represents the accumulated 43-year experience of a nation-wide organization, operating in the principal cities of the United States and Canada, the largest and most expert lending organization in its field.

Straus Bonds form a class of securities of proven merit which should be included in every well-diversified investment account. Inquiries from investors are invited. Call or write for

Three Strong Reasons for the Strength of Puritan Bonds

FIRST. Every PURITAN BOND is secured by a closed first mortgage on a specific income-producing city property, centrally located.

SECOND. The mortgage is never more than 66% of the property value, independently and expertly appraised.

THIRD. A strong Banking Institution always serves as independent trustee.

When you buy a PURITAN BOND, you know exactly what you are getting. You know that it is the best, the proven best, the strongest and the safest. And the yield is 6%.

Don't you owe it to yourself— at least to mail the coupon!

CRUDE OIL OUTPUT AGAIN ON INCREASE

Daily Advance of 12,750 Barrels Reported Last Week Over the Previous Week.

OKLAHOMA FLOW PROLIFIC

Gain in Smackover Field Also More Than Offset the Losses in Other Areas.

Production of crude oil in the United States increased 12,750 barrels daily last week, according to figures compiled by the American Petroleum Institute. This is the first gain in production reported in this country in eight weeks, and is due to the more prolific flow from the deep sands of the Garber pool in Oklahoma and to larger output of heavy crude in the Smackover field in Arkansas. Daily average output of crude oil last week, according to the institute, was 2,051,850 barrels, against 2,039,100 barrels in the previous week and 1,963,600 barrels in the corresponding week last year.

California reported a drop of 5,500 barrels in the daily average output. Declines also were reported in North Louisiana and certain sections of Texas, but these losses were not sufficient to offset the gains in Oklahoma and Arkansas. The following table shows the daily average production for the more important fields and States, figures being in barrels of forty-two gallons each:

Receipts of California crude and refined at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports last week aggregated 659,000 barrels, against 123,000 in the previous week. Imports of foreign crude oil totaled 1,005,000 barrels, against 929,000 in the previous week.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company announced yesterday advances ranging from 7 to 16 cents a barrel in the posted price of various grades of Mid-Continent crude oil, bringing its posted prices in line with those announced by the Humble Oil and Refining Company on Monday.

According to advices received in local trade circles, Pennsylvania refiners are still offering premiums of 25 cents a barrel for Pennsylvania crude above the higher posted price announced on Monday.

The Standard Oil Company of New York announced an advance of one-half cent a gallon in kerosene throughout its territory, making the new tank wagon price 14½ cents.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Irregular Movement in the Cash Staples—Mixed Trend in All Groups.

Irregular price movement was the most marked characteristic of the trading in the local cash markets yesterday, advances and declines being mixed in the individual groups. Wheat and rye improved, while corn declined. Coffee and lard went higher, with a lower price for butter. Spot cotton rose and printcloths declined. Only the metals gave any evidence of stability, most of them holding firmly and unchanged from Monday.

WHEAT PRICES RISE IN LIVELY MARKET

Close Is 3 to 5 Cents Higher on New Argentine Figures and Large Exports.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—A big market was on in wheat today, the result of sensational crop news from Argentina and a radical advance in Liverpool, Buenos Aires and Winnipeg, all of which showed more strength than America. Private cables reported black rust, hot winds and rain in various parts of Argentina, with two estimates made on the surplus showing 123,000,000 bushels, suggesting a reduction of around 17,000,000 bushels in the prospective yield inside of the past week.

Liverpool closed 3½@3¾d higher, while Buenos Aires was 3½@3¾ cents higher at the start. The local market opened 3@6 cents higher and closed with net gains of 3½@5¾ cents in the face of immense profit taking. Winnipeg gained 6⅛@8¾ cents.

Buying was of a good class throughout the day with many of the local operators who went out of their lines the previous day reinstating on all the dips. Shorts covered freely at the start.

The December-May spread here narrowed to around 1½ cents at the last against 3 cents at the finish the previous day, and 75,000 bushels No. 2 Northern was reported to come here from Minnetobas but including some durums.

Export business was very large and conservatively estimated at 3,000,000 bushels, in all positions, largely Manitoba but including some durums.

Little attention is given to news other than that regarding the crop outlook in Argentina.

On the basis of an exportable surplus of 125,000,000 bushels from Argentina plus 300,000,000 bushels from Canada, 60,000,000 bushels from Australia and 75,000,000 bushels from the United States, there is a total for the leading world's exporters of 560,000,000 bushels, or about 100,000,000 bushels under Broomhall's latest figures on world's import needs, which must be made up by the Danubian countries, North Africa and Russia.

This is the first time in some years, when the surplus of the three leading exporting nations has been relatively small at the same time. Canada has nearly half of the total supply and prices in that country are still the lowest of any in the world, Buenos Aires February closing at $1.54, or 6¼ cents over Winnipeg in December. A local operator went out of a line of May wheat on the bulge today, but it was quickly absorbed.

An increase of 9,000,000 bushels in the world's available supply had little effect. The total is 184,422,000 bushels against 258,931,000 last year.

Primary arrivals today were 1,674,000 bushels; week ago, 1,116,000; last year, 3,914,000. Shipments were 1,488,000 bushels; week ago, 817,000; last year, 1,930,000.

Reports that 600,000 to 1,000,000 bushels corn had been sold for export, the largest business in many months, combined with buying of December by cash interests, general local short covering and the strength in wheat caused an advance of 1⅝@1⅞ cents in that grain. The cash basis was 1@2 cents lower with receipts 316 cars, the largest so far for one day. The quality of the arrivals is slowly improving and tests show that the yield of starch, oil and protein from the new grain from Central Illinois is the best in years and that a period of dry weather will result in high grading.

Primary arrivals today were 1,324,000 bushels; week ago, 641,000; last year, 1,132,000, and shipments, 330,000 bushels; week ago, 246,000; last year, 219,000.

Oats were unchanged to ¼ cent higher, scattered liquidation developing in the December toward the last while elevator interests bought December and sold May at 4¼ to 4⅜ cents difference. Rye gained 2¾ to 3 cents, largely in sympathy with wheat.

COTTON PRICES HOLD TO NARROW RANGE

Transfer of 25,000 Bales Stored Here Causes Little Effect on Trading.

JANUARY POSITION STRONGER

New Crop Comes to New York Slowly, Only 9,000 Bales Having Been Classified Here.

The first notice day in the December cotton position fell yesterday and one firm transferred to another house about 25,000 bales stored in New York. The operation passed with very little effect on prices. In fact, fluctuations ranged within unusually narrow limits, the bulk of the day's business being transacted only a few points from 21 cents for December, and the list ended a point lower to 17 points higher than Monday. The most important development of the session took place in January, which strengthened until January and March sold even. Both months closed at 20.33.

For over a year there has been a carrying charge for local stock, ranging from 10 to over 20 points per month, compared with an actual cost of carrying cotton in warehouses here of between 20 and 25 points per month. This discount on the spot month under distant positions was established as a result of bringing nearly 200,000 bales on the October position here a year ago. From less than 20,000 bales on Oct. 1, 1924, local stock increased to over 200,000 bales early in November and was then turned over to holders of December. Much of this cotton has since been sold and distributed to consumers throughout the year, with about 30,000 bales still left.

The same spot houses that held October last year have become interested in the December position this Fall and today are believed to have taken back the cotton remaining here. Prices in October a year ago were 25 cents to 26 cents compared with 21 cents for December yesterday. Though about 9,000,000 bales of the new crop have been moved into sight since Aug. 1, Government inspectors here have classified only 9,000 bales in the past three months.

Port receipts for the first three days of the week aggregated 183,000 bales, compared with 232,000 last week. Semi-weekly interior receipts amounted to 202,000 bales, against 207,000 last week.

EXPERTS CUT VALUE OF PHONE HOLDINGS

City's Appraisers Say Sites Are Worth $2,359,880 Less Than Company Contends.

PUT TOTAL AT $9,133,120

Public Service Board Hears Conflicting Appraisals on Downtown Realty.

Witnesses were called yesterday at the hearing before the Public Service Commission on the application of the New York Telephone Company for an increase of more than 14 per cent. in rates to testify concerning the value of the company's real estate holdings.

Part of the program prepared by the company in its fight for more money is based on the statement that it is entitled to 7 per cent. return on its investment. At the hearing on Monday Assistant Corporation Counsel M. M. Fertig contended that the company had shifted nearly $7,000,000 in costs from up-State to the city, thus increasing the value of its investment here.

Mr. Fertig and Milo R. Maltbie, the city's expert, contested the company's figures. Henry Brady, a real estate expert, called by Mr. Fertig, placed a value of $9,133,120 on the land owned by the company in the city, which was $2,359,880 less than the value claimed by the company. The main differences in values was in estimates relating to the Sherman Avenue, the Cortlandt and Dey Streets and the Vesey-Washington Street properties.

The witness said that a single lot 25 by 100 feet in the section of the Cortlandt-Dey Street property was valued at $300,000, and that the variation in values in the immediate area was between $120 and $84 per square foot. Questioned regarding other values of land owned by the company as estimated by Edward Beattie and Lawrence McGuire, realty experts employed by the company, the witness said that the Sherman Avenue land had been estimated at $80,300, as opposed to an estimate, submitted by the company of $120,000.

The value of the land at Cortlandt and Dey Streets is $3,480,500 according to the company's estimate, but the witness fixed its value at $2,880,000. The company held that the value of its land at Vesey and Washington Streets was $1,-000,000, while the witness said that his estimate was $1,367,500. John H. Murphy, another expert in realty values, called by Mr. Fertig, testified that the value of the company's properties in the Bronx was $165,500 less than the value placed upon them by the company's appraisers.

The hearing will be resumed this morning.

ATTACKS FLEXIBLE TARIFF.

Milk Producers' Federation Head Urges Its Repeal.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP).—Before dairy leaders representing thousands of farmers in thirty-three States, John D. Miller of New York City, President of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation, opened its ninth annual meeting today by denouncing the flexible tariff provision of the present tariff act. He urged the repeal of that provision and the turning back of the Tariff Commission to its original work of furnishing data to Congress.

"The experiences of your representatives before the Tariff Commission show that the so-called tariff law is not working satisfactorily," said Mr. Miller. "It has failed to meet the expectations of those who proposed and favored it. It was designed to permit quick changes in tariff rates to meet changed business conditions. In this it has wholly failed.

"This provision was designed to take the tariff question out of politics; instead, it has plunged the tariff into politics of a subterranean and therefore dangerous character. This statement should not be construed as reflecting in the slightest degree on members of the Tariff Commission. They are men of high character and ability. The defects are in the system and not in the men appointed to administer the system."

The interest taken by the Department of Agriculture in the agricultural cooperative movement and the aims and intentions of that department to further increase its usefulness to the farming element were outlined by Secretary Jardine in an address before the federation.

LONDON LOANS SMALL.

New Security Issues Above 1924, but Otherwise Smallest Since 1914.

Total subscriptions to new securities in London during the current year by the end of October aggregated £183,230,-147. This is a slight increase over the £162,257,300 offered and subscribed in the corresponding period of 1924, but it compares with £245,929,421 in 1923 and with £543,593,574 in 1922.

With the exception of 1924, the present year's subscriptions to new loans up to date are the smallest since 1914, when they were only £173,283,840 for the period. This year's offerings are shown by the record also to have exceeded the same ten months in 1913 and 1912.

BUILDING ACTIVITY INCREASED IN OCTOBER

New High Record for Year Established by Brooklyn and Bronx.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 24.—October was one of the busiest months in the year in the building line, the New York State Department of Labor announced today, plans for a total of nearly $120,000,000 in new construction having been approved. The building activity has brought the total for the first ten months of the year to a point 15 per cent. above 1924.

New York City alone was responsible for the increased activity in October. All of the boroughs excepting Queens showed increases over September figures, and Brooklyn and the Bronx with totals of $28,000,000 and $20,000,000, respectively, established new high figures for the year. Manhattan duplicated the record valuation of $45,000,000 made in August.

Residential building was the chief feature in the October building program, but commercial building was a close second. One of the developments in 1925 is the numerous projects for apartment houses, which have advanced in all the boroughs excepting Richmond. One-family houses continued at about the same rate as last year, but there was a noticeable drop in the demand for two-family houses.

Lower valuations were reported from three Westchester cities, Yonkers, New Rochelle and White Plains. These cities had been especially active in September. The loss is explained by Commissioner Hamilton as due to the absence of plans for schools and the decrease in residential building which featured September permits. Mount Vernon stayed close to the September total. A drop in commercial buildings was offset by plans for several large apartment houses.

Nine of the up-State cities showed gains in October, including Rochester, Binghamton and Utica. With the exception of Kingston, Newburgh and Jamestown, however, these cities are behind last year for the ten months' period. Rochester should be excepted from this statement, as plans for all classes of building except those of a public nature have proceeded at a remarkable pace this year and compare favorably with the figures of 1924.

Copper Prices Weaken.

Copper metal prices were shaded another ⅛ cent yesterday, when leading producers and dealers offered the metal at 14⅜ cents a pound delivered in the Connecticut Valley. It was reported that certain dealers were even shading this price. The French political situation was said to have depressed the export market for the time being, and this was partly responsible for the easier price.

ITALY'S DEBT DEAL CALLED PEACE LINK

Count Volpi Praises America's Attitude in Bringing About an Agreement.

COMMISSIONERS AT DINNER

Told Mussolini Will Ratify Compact —Message From Coolidge Is Read —Party Sails for Home.

Italy, as represented by Premier Mussolini's Debt Commission, and America parted last night with a handclasp of unusual warmth and with expressions of mutual friendship and esteem. The "fairness and frankness" with which both sides had arrived at the debt-funding agreement, it was declared, had laid the cornerstone for a structure of peace, amity and perfect understanding that would endure forever.

These sentiments were voiced by representatives of both countries at the Italy-America Society dinner in the Hotel Biltmore in honor of Count Giuseppe Volpi, Italian Minister of Finance and head of Italy's Debt Commission, members of the commission, and Henry P. Fletcher, American Ambassador to Italy. President Coolidge added by letter his word of praise and congratulation for the outcome of the debt-funding discussion.

A distinguished gathering cheered the name of Mussolini, stood for the Fascist song of "Youthfulness" and remained standing throughout the playing of the national anthems of both Italy and America. The sentiments of Dante were invoked to illustrate the high-mindedness of the Italian people, and poker terms were brought into play to show modern America's method of straightforwardness and fair dealing.

Although no note of discord marred the unusually elaborate affair, a rumor gained currency that an anti-Fascist demonstration might be staged in the presence of the commission before the members sailed at midnight on the Mauretania. Whether as a result of this rumor or merely as a last precaution, members of the commission were accompanied to the pier by four members of the Police Bomb Squad in addition to the usual number of Secret Service men who had been with them constantly in this country.

Mussolini Ratifies Agreement.

The commission sailed with the satisfaction of knowing, according to Mr. Fletcher, who gave them the information, that Mussolini stood ready to ratify the debt funding agreement.

Thomas W. Lamont, toastmaster, declared the terms of the debt agreement had met not only governmental but public approval, both here and in Italy. If there had been any discordant notes, Mr. Lamont said, they had come from "a very limited portion of our community known as the 'last red centres,' persons who apparently prefer to receive no payment at all rather than accept what our European debtors can actually arrange to pay us." He asserted he felt sure the American public recognized that the American Debt Commission was justified from every point of view in making the lenient settlements recently concluded with both Italy and Belgium.

"But it is incumbent upon us as a people not to become too well satisfied with our own achievement, but to remember at all times that we are one of the great family of nations."

Count Volpi praised the American Government, the American Debt Commission and America as a whole. He paid tribute to America's part in the war, saying this country had been drawn into the conflict "through ideal motives" and had brought to the struggle the decisive weight of power and arms. He declared Italy had been first to react from the World War, and added:

"This reaction had as it moving spirit a man of genius, Benito Mussolini, whom the entire world admires, who has put at the service of our King the most valiant and most virtuous of sovereigns, Victor Emmanuel III, the marvelous strength of the will and energy of the youth of Italy."

Letter From Coolidge.

President Coolidge's letter, addressed to Mr. Lamont, was as follows:

"On the eve of the departure of the members of the Italian Debt Commission I am happy to avail myself of the opportunity afforded by their presence at the dinner given in their honor by the Italy-America Society to give expression through you to my high appreciation of the friendly spirit of accommodation and concession which on both parts characterized the recent negotiations for the funding of Italy's debt to the United States, and my gratification at the mutually satisfactory agreement that in justness to Italy and in fairness to the people of the United States resulted therefrom. I offer to them my congratulations and best wishes, and trust they will carry with them to their country most pleasing memories of their visit."

Both the Italian Ambassador to the United States, Giacomo de Martino, and the American Ambassador to Italy, Mr. Fletcher, spoke briefly. Mr. Fletcher said that in his last interview with Mussolini the Premier had told him he was deeply conscious of the importance of the settlement of Italy's debt to America, that he recognized it as a debt of honor and had told his commission to go to the limit of Italy's ability to pay in reaching a funding agreement.

WINS LEGACY TAX SUIT.

Carnegie Beneficiary's Annuity Held to Be Tax Exempt.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24 (AP).—An annuity of $5,000, provided in the will of Andrew Carnegie for the late John W. Beatty, former Director of Fine Arts of the Carnegie Institute, was held exempt from Federal income tax in a decision by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, made public today.

The decision was expected to have an important bearing on other bequests made by Mr. Carnegie. Among those to whom he left annuities were the widows of former Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and Grover Cleveland, Chief Justice Taft and former Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain.

The decision was given in the suit of Mrs. Cora B. Beatty, executrix of her husband's estate, for the return of $572 paid as income tax on the annuity in 1920.

Judge Schoonmaker held that Mrs. Beatty was entitled to a refund of the amount paid but granted Collector of Internal Revenue D. B. Heiner fifteen days to file a supplementary affidavit of defense.

No Owner Could Afford To Do It

ANYONE can rent space for less than it is worth. It is equally absurd to ask more for it than you can get.

Knowing when to hold out for a better price and when to accept the best rental offer, frequently makes all the difference between satisfactory income and empty floors.

As managing agents, we have to be as familiar with competing space as with our own floors, follow every change in rental schedules and the varying demands of the space market. Such knowledge is essential to sound judgment in building management.

No owner could afford to gather and keep this information up to date. But he gets the full benefit of it when we manage his property.

SMITH URGES HOSPITAL AID.

Governor Exhorts Citizens to Help Drive for the United Fund.

Governor Alfred E. Smith indorsed yesterday the $1,000,000 drive being made this week by the United Hospital Fund, which aims to provide free care for poor patients in fifty-seven hospitals of Greater New York. In a letter to Henry J. Fisher, President of the fund, the Governor said:

"New York City has always the pressing need of the care of those doubly unfortunate men, women and children who are poor as well as sick. I have seen what the United Hospital Fund has done to alleviate human suffering and to protect the health of a vast community. In appealing for a million dollars to carry forward your magnificent work for the year you are deserving of the generous support of the community at large. The fact that your appeal is for a common need and absolutely non-sectarian adds to its strength.

"You have my very best wish for an eminently worthy appeal carried forward to success in the spirit of Thanksgiving Day."

Opinion on Instalment Sales.

Expressions of opinion regarding the spread of instalment sales, a study of which is being made by the National Retail Dry Goods Association, are beginning to reach that organization. An executive of one of the worsted mills told yesterday of a letter he sent. In this he says: "There is no doubt in the writer's mind that at the present time this manner of making sales has become so general and represents such an enormous amount that it constitutes a positive menace. I believe that the present situation in this regard is uneconomic and unsound. It is only justified, I believe, in the purchase of a necessity such as a home. In this case, when the full amount has been paid, the buyer has a tangible asset of considerable value, or, quite often, of additional value. But when this mode of buying extends to purchases which are for pleasure only, it seems entirely wrong." Making an additional oral comment, this executive added that when a business depression materializes it will be the more severe because of the "mortgaging of their future" by so many people.

Raw Fur Demand Is Light.

Except for some of the articles that are scarce, such as prime clear squirrel, not much demand is in evidence now in the raw skin end of the local fur trade. The squirrel pelts are wanted both for coat and trimming purposes. Some business is also reported in Northern muskrat which is being used natural and sealdyed. Good mink from all sections also continues to be well thought of by buyers. There is some demand for fancy dyed kidskins, especially in the hue known as oyster gray. In the various forms the call for white and silver skins is best. White fox is growing stronger as the season advances, from all accounts, while the use of silver fox this season is said to be the broadest on record. This is attributed to the lower prices at which many of these skins can now be bought by consumers, as well as to the broadening supply.

In No Hurry to Buy Fancies.

Although fancies are expected to dominate in dress goods and coatings for Spring the mills are proceeding very cautiously with their production. Most of them, in fact, are weaving these goods only on order. The cutters-up are in no hurry to place their business. As a result, unless there is a marked gain in orders during next month, the mills will have another difficult time in making deliveries of fancies during January, February and March. When this view was put by a selling agent before a garment manufacturer the latter said he was content with the situation. His remarks, which the selling agent deemed typical of the attitude of the cutters-up, were that if the mills have difficulty in making deliveries and wanted fancies are scarce he would be able to get full prices for his garments. If the mills go ahead and produce now, he contended, he would be able to get the fabrics at practically his own price. "And that's that," was the comment of the selling agent.

Gray Goods Not Active.

Gray goods were not very active in this market yesterday, about the only feature in printcloths being the strength of 39-inch 68-72s. All of the cloths of that construction available for 1925 delivery at 10½ cents were said to have been sold during the day, with 10⅝ cents paid for them for immediate delivery. The same was true of 38½-inch 64-60s at 9¼ cents, but January shipments were disposed of at 9 cents. Spot 39½-inch 60-48s brought 8 cents. Not much was done in the sheetings, sales of which included a few spot lots of 37-inch 48-square four-yard goods at 9¼ cents and some 36-inch five-yard sheetings at 8¼ cents. The fine yarn goods, as well as the coarser fabrics and the specialties, were lacking in feature.

Heads New Garment Association.

Announcement was made yesterday of the election of Maxwell Copelof as first President of the National Wholesale Women's Wear Association. This organization represents a consolidation of the Merchants Ladies' Garment Association, of which Mr. Copelof was President, and the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association. Morris Sprayregen was elected First Vice President; R. Sadowsky, Second Vice President; Louis Lustig, Third Vice President; Jacob Sperber, Treasurer, and Henry H. Finder, Secretary. A general meeting of members of the cloak and suit trade will be held next Wednesday evening, at which the new association will be definitely launched and made ready for active functioning with the coming of the new year. The association represents one of the most comprehensive attempts ever made in the garment industry to unite all factors, to render highly varied business services and to work for higher standards throughout the trade.

Trading in Worsted Yarns.

A free movement in worsted yarns during the past week is reported in the market letter of Thomas H. Ball. Sales of large size were consummated with the weaving and knitting trades. For the most part, however, the latter adds, the covering has only been for part season requirements. At the same time there is more hesitancy in larger scale buying because of the indecision as to the course of raw wool prices in the near future. Outerwear knit yarns have been more active and substantial business in these sorts has been recently placed. There is more inquiry for jersey cloth and balbriggan yarns, with the indications that the Spring use of these goods will be in large dimensions. A little better tone is developing in dress goods yarns.

To Push Special Charge Idea.

A committee headed by J. J. Goldman of the Goldman Costume Company, Inc., and including six other well-known manufacturers of dresses, has been appointed by the Associated Dress Industries of America to investigate the special order situation thoroughly. The primary idea of the investigation will be to determine what constitutes a special order and what is to be considered a duplicate. This action is made necessary by the association's intention to press for a 10 per cent. extra charge on all "specials," as was outlined in THE TIMES recently, and its further intention to play fair with retailers to the extent of advising against such a charge on garments called for by orders that can rightfully be considered duplicates. The latter are regarded as "legitimate," whereas special orders, in view of their steady growth, with the extra attention and production expense they entail, are looked upon as a serious menace to the manufacturers.

Use Red Georgette in Underwear.

A novelty that is now being shown in underwear lines for women here is a set fashioned of American Beauty red georgette crepe. Nightgowns and chemises of this material are offered in plain designs with tiny pleats, as well as trimmed with delicate black lace. Makers of fancy underthings, according to a bulletin sent out yesterday by the United Underwear League of America, are still busy with the holiday trade, which is making a heavy demand for all types of lacy undergarments. Chiffon and georgette articles are particularly popular for the Christmas trade.

Will Defer Garment Clearance.

An increasing number of retailers are planning to push back their clearance sales of Fall ready-to-wear until after Christmas. The belief is more general that it is an error to stage these sales before that time. Two reasons are cited as supporting this merchandising view—one being that it is possible to secure full prices for a longer period of time; the other is that the unsettling influence of ready-to-wear clearances will not serve to divert consumer attention from holiday goods at regular prices through creating untimely cut price desires. At the same time it is recognized that ready-to-wear turnover generally falls off during December, but a fair volume at regular prices is deemed better than the stimulation of clearance sales.

Children's Spring Lines Ready.

Spring lines of children's clothing are now in readiness for the Southern resort season, which again gives promise of a big part in the showing of young children's clothes. Sateens, finer and softer than ever, are also shown this season, as well as fine corded materials, linens, dimities, very light weight balbriggans and rayons. Rayon fabrics made especially for the children's dress trade are of a soft, light texture and in designs that make them look like real silk. Among the novelties offered for the new season are two-piece outfits of balbriggan with turtle-neck blouses and "kick pleats" in front. Hand-embroidered collars and cuffs are extensively used in dresses for young children. Suits for little boys under six show that Oliver Twist models continue in favor.

TURKISH GIRLS TO STRIKE.

Constantinople Telephone Union Seeks 50 Per Cent. Wage Rise.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 24 (AP).—Although Turkish girls have only within the last few years entered industry and business, they have learned how to strike. The local telephone operators organized a union three months ago, and now ask of the company, an English concern, a 50 per cent. pay increase.

The present average wage is 25 liras a month, about $15. The chief operators receive less than $20, while some of the girls get only $11.

As the company has not acted, the girls say they will walk out.

The leaders are Turks, but the Greeks and Jews will join them "in perfect unanimity," as their ultimatum reads, "without distinction of race or religion."

FAMOUS BATHS PASS.

Plan Tall Office for Murray Hill Baths Site.

The old Murray Hill Baths, at 112 West Forty-second Street, passed into history yesterday when housewreckers employed by Harry Marks broke open the cornerstone and brought to light the papers and various other articles buried in it more than fifty years ago.

Among the articles found in the cornerstone was a six-inch Cloisonne serving plate, a copy of an old letters patent signed by President Madison and countersigned by James Monroe, Secretary of State, and Richard Ruth, Attorney General, to one Brightberry Brown for a waterloom, several coins, including two "shinplasters," and a bottle of fifty-year-old champagne.

According to Mr. Marks, Henry Schwarzwalder owned the site when the baths were erected in 1874, and it is the intention of his heirs to erect a twenty-two-story office building on the plot, which measures 25 feet on West Forty-second Street and has a depth of 100.8 feet.

IRVINGTON-ON-HUDSON has always been the home of the rich. The country places in and around Irvington are mainly large estates, beautifully kept. Many of them still belong to the families by whom they were built and have come down undivided from generation to generation. In consequence, nature has been little disturbed.

But the day of the great estate, with its vast acres of unimproved land, is passing and in its stead the countryside is being dotted with many smaller homes, in which modern comforts and conveniences of living are paramount.

When the second act has come to an end—and the curtain is rung down amidst whirling applause—when you mingle outside with the excited throngs in the lobby

—have a Camel!

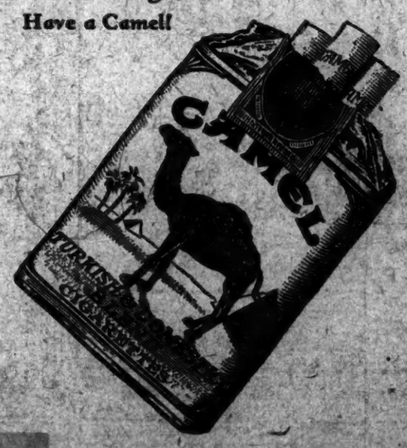
WHEN the thrilling second act of the best show of the year has just come to an end. And the stars have taken their curtain calls in answer to round after round of applause. When you join the crowds outside just as pleased and thrilled as yourself—have a Camel!

For no other friend is so cheerful, so resting between acts as Camel. Camel adds its own romantic glamour to the brightness of memorable occasions. No other cigarette ever made—and kept—so many friends. Camels never tire your taste no matter how liberally or zestfully you smoke them. Camels never leave a cigaretty after-taste. All the desire to please, all the skill to serve of the largest tobacco organization in the world, goes into this one cigarette.

So when you leave the theatre pleased and inspired for greater things, when you see life's problems and their solutions clearer—lift the flame and taste the mellowest smoke that ever came from a cigarette.

Have a Camel!

Into the making of this one cigarette goes all of the ability of the world's largest organization of expert tobacco men. Nothing is too good for Camels. The choicest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. The most skilful blenders. The most scientific package. No other cigarette made is like Camels. No finer cigarette can be made. Camels are the overwhelming choice of experienced smokers.



Our highest wish, if you do not yet know Camel quality, is that you try them. We invite you to compare Camels with any cigarette made at any price.
